Soon We Forget.
2 Small Boys Wonder.
105 Billion W. W. H.
The Speaker Saw Them Drunk.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YOU read today all about the great elections, who won and lost, charges and counter charges of fraud.

It will seem important until day after tomorrow. Then the average voter will not be able to tell you the names of men for whom he voted with one or two exceptions.

BUT the country will go along nicely. To a great extent a nation runs itself. The most important things manage themselves in the body of a nation, as the heart, lungs and other important organs manage themselves, without our direction inside of our own bodies.

It is fortunate that it is so. We soon tire of attending to detail, and soon forget.

IN KNOXVILLE, Tenn., two small boys in red sweaters sat in the Domestic Relations Court room, looking and wondering at the judge and crowd.

Superior wisdom was to decide whether they should be sent to live in the mansion of a rich man in Chicago, or remain in their grandparents' little farm house at the edge of a Tennessee cornfield.

Those that love them probably hoped they would go to the millionaire's mansion.

Angels that see into the future might wish them to stay near the cornfield.

If Lincoln had gone from his father's little hut when he was a small boy to somebody's mansion in a big city, you never would have heard of Lincoln.

TWENTY MILLION homes in the United States use electric current light and power. Home consumption of current amounts to ten billion kilowatt-hours.

POWER companies, particularly anxious to promote the domestic use of power, should find a way to supply isolated houses on some sort of seasonable, installment basis, as automobiles are sold. Under the present system, for instance, a New Jersey power company tells a farmer living half a mile from its main line, that it will cost him $600 to run electric current to his farm house and cow barn. That is prohibitive, and bad for the power company.

SENATOR GILLETT, of Massachusetts, speaks with frankness displeasing to good prohibitionists. Once speaker of the House, he frequently saw representatives "under the influence of liquor" while laws were made.

THE House of Representatives, however, does not monopolize the habit of voting one way and drinking another. One distinguished, eloquent senator, as many of his fellow members can testify, voted with prohibition and against whisky "whenever he was sober enough to do so."

HOWEVER, nobody is perfect, and excellent laws are made by those that have no intention of being governed by them.

Doubtless, in ancient days, when nearly everybody was a cannibal, men talked against cannibalism sincerely, even though they might eat part of a neighbor that evening.

Cannibalism gradually died out, killed by men that knew it was wrong, although they were cannibals.

THE Russian government, that recently sent four fliers by air from Moscow to New York, just to prove that they could do it, perhaps, knows the value of airplanes.

Tokio reports "Red" planes bombing Chinese railroad stations and planning to destroy the coal mines that make possible the operation of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

RUSSIA may have, as Wall Street says, a wicked government. But that government has brains enough to make real experiments in aviation and in agriculture, while our good conservative government is content with benevolent talk and a pious wish that the farmer might be relieved.

THE Prince of Wales, who plans a hunting expedition to Africa, will probably take his small airplane, his expert army pilot, and combine shooting with flying.

"Sportsmanship" would probably forbid spying out and shooting giraffes, lions and elephants from the air. But the airplane would locate them. Then the royal sportsmen on the ground could shoot them.

TIGER shooting might as well be done from an airplane as from an elephant's back. The tiger has no chance in either case. And killing him, anyhow, is a blessing.

THE most efficient worker in the cause of mercy is science. Automobile trucks free millions of horses from the misery of icy streets, hot summers and overloading.

Electricity lifts bricks and mortar to upper floors of buildings and the man who carried a heavy hod for $1.50 a day now moves about comfortably and slowly on the upper floors for $9 a day.

NOT long ago, children in England, chimney cleaners' apprentices, were starved that they

Bears Send Prices Down; Rails in Big Decline as Car Loadings Decrease

BULLETINS.

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Selling orders for the active stocks rained down on the big board from the opening gong to the closing bell today, and prices tumbled from 10 to 29 points with hardly a trace of a rally in any section of the list.

United States Steel was unable to withstand the withering fire of persistent selling, without a 14-point drop to 169. Utilities were also hard hit, Brooklyn Union Gas crashing 22 points to 112; Consolidated Gas 10 points to 92½; Westinghouse 18 points at 128; Columbia Gas 12 points, National Cash Register dropped 11 points to 69 and Radio was off 14 points at 30.

The ticker was 45 minutes late at the close.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Stock prices slumped today during the trading on the New York exchange. The market was orderly, however. The volume of trading was heavy for the three-hour session, the exchange closing at 1 p. m.

General Electric and American Telephone & Telegraph were leaders in the decline. General Electric sold down to 220, 15 points below Monday's close and A. T. & T. down to 224, off 13 points at the opening.

A bearish factor was the decrease of 45,196 cars in freight loadings for the week ended October 26, as compared with the previous week, and of 29,164 cars from the corresponding period in 1928.

Tuesday's suspension, due to the election, enabled many brokerage firms to complete appraisal of their accounts and further liquidation proved necessary in early dealings. Large blocks of the principal trading stocks were offered.

Cities Service common stock, which opened with a record-breaking individual transaction of 225,000 shares on the New York Curb Exchange Monday, opened today with a block of 425,000 shares at $35, off $3.87.

BROKERS CATCH UP

Suspension of business yesterday permitted several brokerage firms to complete the check-up of their accounts, although many others still have numerous trades to be straightened out before their records are brought up to date. Monday's reaction undoubtedly caused a further weakening of many speculative holdings which apparently were being cleaned out today.

Many of the leading railroad shares, including Atchison, Union Pacific, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio, dropped $4 to $9 a share on selling presumably inspired by the publication of the weekly freight traffic report.

6 Killed as Plane Falls, Relative of Ex-Kaiser Saved

CATERHAM, Surrey, England, Nov. 6.—(INS.)—Six persons met almost instant death today when a tri-motored German plane of the Lufthansa Air Lines crashed in flames in a heavy fog at Whitehill, near here.

The plane, a luxurious passenger liner, was bound from Amsterdam to Croydon, England, London terminus of the Continental Air Lines.

Eight persons, four passengers and the crew, were in the plane. Only two escaped death. Of these one was a passenger, Lieut. Com. Glen Kidstone, millionaire British sportsman. The other was the assistant pilot of the plane, Prince Eugene Von Schaumberg-Lippe, a relative of the former German Kaiser Wilhelm, who took up flying when the overthrow of the German aristocracy deprived him of his wealth.

PASSENGERS ENGLISHMEN

Commander Kidstone and the prince were seriously injured. Commander Kidstone, widely known as a racing motorist, suffered painful burns about the hands and face when flames destroyed the wreckage of the giant craft.

Prince von Lippe was so severely burned about the face that he was scarcely recognizable. His clothing was burned from his arms and legs. Before being taken to a hospital he gasped: "I opened the window and crawled out."

The identity of the dead passengers was definitely established as

6 HURT IN BUS CRASH HERE

Six passengers were injured, none seriously, in a bus crash on Boulevard of the Allies today.

A bus of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, westbound, ran into the iron guard rail of the Forbes street ramp, knocking down three sections of the rail.

The driver, J. C. McGraw, 43, of 1422 Duffield street, attributed the accident to the failure of the steering mechanism to function.

The badly hurt of the passengers was S. H. Ward, 61, of 403 Apollo Building. He refused medical attention.

The bus was put out of commission.

N. Y. Bank Official Guilty of Bribery

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—On one ballot taken after slightly more than three hours deliberation, a Supreme Court jury convicted Frank H. Warder, resigned superintendent of the State Banking Department, of bribery.

Warder's conviction on one of eight indictments accusing him of receiving $106,000 in cash and expensive gifts for himself and his family for withholding state examination of the defunct City Trust Company, was the first such verdict returned in the prosecution of 10 men in connection with the wrecking of the bank.

SEN. BROOKHART TELLS JURY OF 'WET' PARTY

'Wall Streeters' Had Flasks, Iowan Says; Demands Quiz of Big Financiers

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—A "Wall street booze party," attended by financial kings and United States Senators, was described to a federal grand jury here today by Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, as a dramatic climax to the latest drive to enforce prohibition in the national capital.

Brookhart went before the grand jury at 11:20 announcing he would "tell the whole story" of the party given by Walter J. Fahy, a New York broker, in 1926. Brookhart's testimony was taken just in time, as the statute of limitations will

"The Wall Streeters, though, of the dry law next month.

ASKS FINANCIERS CALLED

Before he went into the jury room Brookhart suggested the panel should summon certain financiers, including Otto H. Kahn, the New York banker; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; E. E. Loomis, of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Fahy himself, to tell about the "party." Brookhart said he wanted "all the Wall Streeters" who attended the affair summoned.

The Fahy party, Brookhart already has told the Senate, was featured by the distribution of silver flasks, filled with whisky. The Iowan announced that Senators Smoot (Rep.), of Utah; Edge (Rep.), of New Jersey; Moses (Rep.), of New Hampshire, and the late Senator Gooding (Rep.), of Idaho, were present, but that he saw none of them drinking.

"The Wall streeters, though, were very active in getting flasks," he added.

The now famous "Wall street dinner party," was subjected to a double inquiry as the grand jury

Millvale Truck Driver Tells Girl He Can't Stand 'Gang's Kidding'

"I'm disgusted," William Bush, 24, of 207 Meade street, Millvale, told Elizabeth Huwe, 22, of 314 Stanton avenue, Millvale, last night.

"I haven't any money. Nothing. The gang at the fire engine house have been kidding me about getting married—they say I've been coming down here long enough—but what can I do?" he asked.

MAYOR GETS ALL BUT 3 WARDS

Dunn Defeated by 45,000; Republican Tickets Sweep County Practically Intact

The Republican party, in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, triumphed at the general election, despite defections that gave the Democratic party its greatest total in a mayoralty contest.

Mayor Charles H. Kline was re-elected, defeating Thomas A. Dunn, who polled an unexpectedly large vote, by approximately 45,000 votes.

The voters of Allegheny County and Pittsburgh, separately and jointly, approved voting machines by a majority estimated a 5-to-1.

REPUBLICAN SWEEP

Numerous contests in cities, boroughs and townships, were resolved almost unanimously in favor of Republican candidates, although the party nominees were subjected to battles through the medium of established and pre-empted parties. Close contests developed in a number of districts. Dunn's candidacy was part of a fusion movement with the Good Government ticket.

The Republican victory carried with it the election of the five Republican candidates to city council by an apparently equal margin, together with unopposed candidates for the County, Common Pleas and Superior Courts.

5-TO-1 VICTORY

Available voting machine returns were:

	Yes.	No.
Pittsburgh ...	89,252	20,412
Third class cities	9,426	1,671
Boroughs	55,917	9,629
Townships 6.	19,488	4,645
Total	174,083	34,357

There are 156 districts in the county missing, of which 31 are in Pittsburgh.

Dunn, whose unofficial total exceeded 36,000 votes, carried the Seventh, Fourteenth and Twenty-eighth wards. These were carried by Judge Richard W. Martin in the primary.

LIGHT VOTE

The total vote was light. Out of an eligible list of approximately 180,000, less than 120,000 went to the polls yesterday, according to unofficial returns.

Mayor Kline was the first Mayor to be elected for a successive term since the Civil War.

The unofficial vote in 648 out of 741 districts, was:

Kline	71,833
Dunn	31,711

If this ratio is carried out in the remaining districts, the total will be:

Kline	82,251
Dunn	36,309

Miss Pat by ELEANORE MEHERIN

Pat Dawn Brings Up Apparently Lifeless Body of Brother From Bottom of Lake

CHAPTER I.

PAT studied the picture in the magazine. It was of a man—young and attractive; the kind of delightful fellow Pat was now seeking, meant to find and meant to marry. The magazine man was dancing with a blonde full of "it." He would be, of course!

Being a mere demi-brunette, Pat sighed and struck her brown elbows deep in the sands. She gave up to the delicious dream which the picture conjured.

She was a fiery young thing, with impudence and a pretty face. She knew what she wanted from this grand old world, and she had spunk enough to reach out and get it.

Just now, with the June sun on the lake and a song of wind in the trees, Pat contemplated her future. She made a sweet earth to suit her whim and she peopled it entrancingly. Instead of awkward Peter Thompson for the boy friend, there were charming gallants—numbers of them—and they were all languishing for a kind glance from Miss Mary Patricia Dawn.

The blissful vision was interrupted by a grubby little hand stealing into the nearby lunch basket.

"Put it down," shouted the girl, springing bolt upright. "Mother, make him!"

The huge cream puff instantly disappeared into the mouth of a small red-haired urchin. He gave two alarming gulps and grinned. Pat glared at the little boy and at the recumbent figure of her mother.

"You think you're smart, I suppose! Now you'll stay out of the water till 5 o'clock. Mother, he's a perfect glutton. Why don't you make him obey?"

The hard young eyes accosted the mother sternly. Laura Dawn certainly didn't use her head. It was just a scandal the way she spoiled Mr. Dickie.

Pat had plenty of theories on the art of child-raising. She'd been advising her mother on the subject for the past 10 years. Ever since Dickie was born she was full of these helpful suggestions. Dickie should be made to do this—do that. The little boy could still remember Pat's sharp sticks of fingers poking at his ears, his nose, his mouth, as she cleaned his face with a handkerchief capably moistened on her tongue. She was still bossing, owning, guarding him. He was the bane of her existence.

The very idea of allowing him to do stuff like this! But, of course, her mother wouldn't correct him.

Miss Pat removed her glaring indignation from her mother's face. She returned to her magazine. Something dangling from the fingers of the appealing blonde made her say, aggressively: "I think I'll take up smoking, mother."

"Do you?"

"Well—yes. I've been holding off three years just to please you. It's fascinating and I've wanted to terribly. I'm the only girl in my class who doesn't."

"All right. You're old enough to make your own decision. But let me know when you start. I want to begin, too."

"You!"

"Yes. I've been holding off for a decade on your account—to be a shining example. But since you wish to follow your own lights, I've a mind to try out the fascinating sin."

The girl's extraordinary green eyes blazed. "You wouldn't! You'd be a sight. You'd look perfectly terrible. You'd just make"—the indignant torrent broke off, leaving the girl's mouth open in horrified dismay.

"Mother—look! Is that Dickie? Oh, God!" With a publican candidate for Controller, walked away from Ralph E. Smith, Democrat-Good Government. Unofficial returns indicate that W. Y. English, John S. Herron, Harry A. Little, C. B. Connelley and M. J. Muldowney, Republican councilmanic candidates, won easily, with Patrick J. Fagan, Democrat-Good Government, in sixth place.

Capt. Robert S. Cain, Republican nominee for sheriff, easily defeated Anthony Ferraro, his Democratic-Good Government opponent. Coroner W. J. McGregor was re-elected by a great majority, defeating Pete F. Ladesic, Democrat-Good Government.

The votes cast for the Socialist, Communist and Prohibition candidates were negligible.

VOTE MACHINES CARRY

Apparently little trouble was experienced by the voting machine proposal. It carried every Pittsproposal. It carried every Pittsburgh ward but the Third and a majority of the boroughs and townships.

Kline's largest majority was given by the Fifth Ward, controlled by Councilman Malone, one of his primary opponents. He carried every district in that ward, including Dunn's home precinct, the Thirty-first.

NORTH SIDE FOR KLINE

The Seventeenth, home of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican county chairman, gave him a 2,400 lead. The Twenty-first, residence of Dr. F. H. Frederick, his campaign manager, returned a majority of better than 1,400. Kline carried every North Side ward, with the possible exception of the Twenty-sixth.

Roy D. Schooley's ward—the Eighth—although carried only 2 to 1, gave Kline a lead of over 1,300, while the Fourth and Fifteenth, dominated by Senator James J. Coyne, returned majorities of about 1,500 and 1,100 respectively. The Fourth Ward went for Kline 4 to 1. The Twenty-seventh district of the Fourteenth Ward, residence of W. L. Mellon, voted 176 to 54 for Kline. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg is leader there. The Ninth Ward, home of Senator Max G. Leslie, gave Kline a majority of about 3,000 on an almost 5-to-1 basis. The Kline forces swept that ward in the primary when Leslie opposed them.

Dunn's showing is regarded as extremely good, especially because his workers at the polls yesterday were volunteers. His expense account will not be very high. Neither, for that matter, will be the account of the Republican organization, although the latter had a number of paid watchers and messengers.

HARRIS VICTORY

While the voting machine had the indorsement of the major candidates, the Republican organization leaders, the League of Women Voters and practically all civic organizations, the majority yesterday was particularly a victory for Senator Frank J. Harris, its chief sponsor. His victory yesterday was the climax of a long fight, beginning for the Harris family when the late Senator John P. Harris introduced the constitutional amendment providing for voting machines in the Senate in 1925.

"The early returns indicate that a tremendous majority has been given the proposal to adopt voting machines," he said early this morning. "This ends a long, hard struggle, and it is gratifying to know that this forward step in the interest of honest elections is assured.

"As chairman of the voting machine campaign committee, I want to thank the voters, the different political organizations and leaders, the civic groups and such individuals as have given their wholehearted support to the movement."

TARENTUM FIRE ROUTS FAMILY

Fire early today drove three persons to the street and damaged two storerooms in a two-story building at 208 Corbet street, Tarentum. Loss was estimated at $6,000.

The fire was believed to have started in the plant of the United Cleaning Company on the first floor. It spread to the floral shop of Gus Lehman, next door, and to the Lehman apartment on the floor above. Lehman, his wife and son, Gus, Jr., had narrow escapes when they were awakened by neighbors and found flames sweeping their apartment.

WALKER WINS EASILY

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Mayor James J. Walker and Tammany Hall leaders were congratulated on all sides today on their smashing victory at the polls yesterday.

The young Democratic mayor, affectionately known the world over as "Jimmy," was re-elected by a plurality of 497,165 over Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican-Fusion candidate, final returns compiled this morning showed.

RECORD SOCIALIST VOTE

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for mayor, finished third, polling a record vote for a Socialist in New York, and former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, Square Deal party candidate, pulled up a very bad fourth.

The vote, with all of the 3,411 election districts counted, was:

Walker	865,549
La Guardia	368,384
Thomas	174,931
Enright	5,956

It was a tremendous victory for Tammany. Not only did Walker go over with a bang, but with only one major exception the entire Democratic ticket was victorious.

All Democratic judicial, all Democratic county candidates and all but a few Democratic candidates for the Assembly and the Democratic candidates for the Board of Aldermen were elected.

Mayor Walker declared the triumph "sweet."

During the campaign his opponents called him the "wisecracking mayor" and made sarcastic references to his dapper dress.

"I hope that now these smart-cracking people will just let me alone and let me do what I want to do," said the Mayor.

"The election has shown two things in addition to sustaining my record. It has decided that a man can wear his own clothes and that a man in public life, holding public office, can smile if his smile is sincere."

FIND WOMAN, ROOMER SLAIN

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Wading through a maze of clues which pointed first to murder and suicide and then to a double slaying, Kansas authorities today sought a former roomer in the home of Mrs. Minnie E. Hare, 50, in connection with the fatal shooting of the woman and her boarder, Jesse J. Barnwell, 65.

Bodies of the two were found yesterday in Mrs. Hare's home in Merriam, near here. Sheriff's officers said they had been dead about four days.

Mrs. Hare's body with bullet holes in the heart and neck, was found on the kitchen floor. In the dining room lay Barnwell's body, a high caliber rifle beside him. He had died from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

The house had been ransacked and a diamond ring valued at $260 was missing, but pinned in the woman's clothing was $3,765 in currency.

The first theory of officers, that Barnwell shot Mrs. Hare and then killed himself, was followed by clues tending to show the woman was slain for her property and money and Barnwell murdered to conceal the motive for the crime.

BISHOP CANNON LOSES VIRGINIA BY 62,000

Democratic Governor Wins Easily as 'Hoover' State Rejoins Solid South Ranks

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Virginia was in the Democratic "Solid South" again today with John Garland Pollard, college professor, as her governor-elect.

Pollard, until the opening of the campaign dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of government and citizenship at the College of William and Mary, led the vigorous Democratic party to triumph over the coalition of anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans in yesterday's election. The Democratic majority reached 62,450 when returns from 1,531 of the state's 1,683 precincts had been tabulated. Pollard registered 149,013 votes to 86,563 for Dr. William Mosely Brown, coalition candidate.

"CANNONISM" DEFEATED

Indications were that the total vote would fall approximately 50,000 short of the record-breaking 306,000 cast in the presidential campaign last year, when Virginia, for the first time since reconstruction, was carried by the Republican party. Virginia was the first of five Southern "Hoover states" to hold a state election.

"Raskobism," a term used by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, one of the organizers of the Democratic opposition to Alfred E. Smith, in criticising John J. Raskob, Democratic National Committee chairman, often was heard during the campaign. Democrats countered with "Cannonism" in criticism of the bishop.

"De Priestism," a term growing out of the circulation of a pamphlet containing pictures of the Negro congressman from Chicago, Oscar De Priest, and his wife, also was frequently heard.

KNOWN AS "DRY"

Among the Democrats sending congratulations to Pollard were Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Gov. Harry Byrd and Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia; Senator Tom Connolly and Representative John M. Garner, of Texas; Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York; Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland; Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana; Senator A. W. Barkley, of Kentucky; Senator Kenneth M. McKellar, of Tennessee, and Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to Woodrow Wilson.

Dr. Pollard, who vigorously supported the Democratic ticket during the Virginia political upheaval last year, has been known as a "bone dry."

ALL-METAL PLANE

The accident is one of the most serious ever suffered by a plane of the Lufthansa, which has a network of air lines all over Europe.

The wrecked plane was an all-metal Junkers, similar to the monoplane Bremen in which Capt. Hermann Koehl, the late Baron von Huenefeld and Commander James Fitzmaurice, of the Irish Free State air force, made a successful east-to-west crossing of the Atlantic Ocean.

Prince von Schaumberg-Lippe is a member of the family of the Princess Victoria von Schaumberg-Lippe, 63-year-old sister of the ex-Kaiser, who recently instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, Alexander Zoubkoff, Russian emigre.

INQUIRY BEGUN

This accident was the first incurred by the Lufthansa on British soil. The line operate daily pas- soil. The line operates daily pas- and other points in Holland, where the planes connect with machines for the principal German cities.

Officials of the Lufthansa at Croydon Aerodrome and Berlin have already launched an investigation into the crash to determine whether any fault in construction of the plane or its engines was responsible for the accident.

Bodies of the dead have been taken to Caterham by automobile, and will later be brought to London. Commander Kidston, treated at a local hospital for his injuries, expects to return to his home shortly.

The accident is the second serious plane crash in England in the last six months. Early in the summer an Imperial Airways liner fell into the English Channel off Folkestone, resulting in the loss of seven lives, including that of one American passenger.

Primary Bandits Fail to Return; Ballots Safe

"Lost" at the primary and "found" at the general election.

Oakland electors living in the Twenty-first District of the Fourth Ward cast their votes in vain at the primary. The board reported that bandits stole the box. It was found nearby, opened and the ballots missing.

There was no trouble yesterday. The district gave Kline 134 and Dunn 29.

AVIATOR'S WIFE NEAR DEATH

PALMERTON, Pa., Nov. 6.—(INS.)—Mrs. Martin Jensen, wife of the noted aviator, is in a critical condition today in Palmerton Hospital, her back having been broken in an automobile accident last night.

Jensen, who attained much attention as a winner of the Dole airplane flight across the Pacific, arrived at his wife's bedside shortly after dawn today.

Mrs. Jensen drove her husband to the railway station at Allentown yesterday to catch a train for New York and on the way home lost control of her automobile near Palmerton, the machine plunging over a 35-foot embankment. She was taken to the hospital and her husband notified. Refusing to await a train to carry him to his wife, Jensen took off in a plane from Roosevelt Field, arriving at the Lehighton airport shortly after daybreak. He immediately rushed to his wife's bedside.

BROOKHART TELLS OF PARTY

probed its booze aspects and the Senate lobby investigating committee studied its relation to the alleged 'social lobby" in the national capital.

Senator Caraway (D.), of Ark., chairman of the Lobby Committee, studied the Brookhart charges for possible use as an opening wedge in investigating the "social lobby."

CASE FOR GRAND JURY

"The whole matter goes before the grand jury," said District Attorney Leo A. Rover this morning, "Whether other senators will be called, or Mr. Kahn and Mr. Loomis, depends entirely on Senator Brookhart's testimony and how the grand jury receives it."

The question of including the dinner in the Senate lobby inquiry will be decided by Caraway, subject to approval of his committee.

"I want to read Senator Brookhart's speech and then confer with him," said Caraway. "We may call as witnesses everybody known to have attended this dinner. It certainly would be interesting to know if New York interests are giving banquets and dinners here in attempts to influence legislation. I want to learn first, though, whether that was the purpose of the Fahy banquet or merely due to having dinner with Wall Street gentlemen."

Fahy's explanation of the dinner at the time was said to have been that he merely desired his "New York friends" to meet new senators.

Brookhart had just been elected to the Senate then, when, after being denied a seat on a contested election, he defeated the later Senator A. B. Cummins. The other senators, named by Brookhart, all had been in the Senate for one or more terms.

The political aspects of Fahy's dinner, even at this late date, attracted considerable interest in view of Kahn's recent declination of an appointment as treasurer of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Kahn was chosen by Senator George H. Moses (Rep.), of N. H., chairman. Kahn and Moses are close personal friends. So too are Moses and Fahy. As a result, the Fahy dinners acquire a political interest entirely aside from the subjects facing inquiry by the Federal Grand Jury and the Senate lobby investigators.

ASKS DIVORCE FOR THREAT

Her husband wrote her a letter threatening to "take her head off" if she did not return to him and then closed the missive with "kindest regards," Mrs. Gertrude De Rosa, of 3335 Ligonier street, testified in Common Pleas Court today at the hearing of her divorce suit against her husband, Andimo De Rosa.

Judge James B. Drew, who heard the uncontested suit, reserved decision.

The De Rosas were married at Cumberland, Md., in 1926. De Rosa threatened to turn her over to the Blackhand Society, Mrs. De Rosa testified, if she refused to marry him. She was beaten and suffered "both physical and mental indignities," Mrs. De Rosa told the court.

She was struck many times, Mrs. De Rosa said, and when she left her husband he mailed her letters filled with both vicious threats and endearing terms.

Mrs. De Rosa was represented by Attorney Morris M. Berger.

Thanksgiving Day Decree Issued by Hoover

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(INS.)—President Hoover today issued his first Thanksgiving proclamation, setting aside Thursday, November 28, as the day of annual thanks for blessings of the past year. It follows:

"At this season of the year, when the harvest has been gathered in, the thoughts of our forefathers turned toward God with thanksgiving for the blessings of plenty and provision against the needs of winter.

"They came by custom to look to the Chief Magistrate to set apart a day of prayer and praise, whereon thanks as a united people might be given with one voice in unison.

"God has greatly blessed us as a nation in the year now drawing to a close. The earth has yielded an abundant harvest in most parts of our country.

"The fruits of industry have been of unexampled quantity and value. Both capital and labor have enjoyed an exceptional prosperity.

"Assurances of peace, at home and abroad, have been strengthened and enlarged. Progress has been made in provision against preventable disasters from flood and pestilence. Enlightenment has grown apace in new revelations of scientific truth and in diffusion of knowledge.

"Educational opportunities have steadily enlarged. Enduring advances have been gained in the protection of the public health. Childhood is measureably more secure. New experience and new knowledge in many fields have been reported, from which a deeper wisdom may grow. We should accept these blessings with resolution to devote them to service of Almighty God.

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do appoint and set aside Thursday, the 28th day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving, and do recommend that all our people on that day rest from their daily work that they should extend to others less fortunately placed a share of their abundance, and that they gather at their accustomed places of worship, there to render up thanks to Almighty God for His many blessings upon them, for His forbearance and goodness."

HOOVER APOLOGIZES TO JOHNSON FOR DINNER SLIGHT

PRESIDENT DENIES INSULT

Californian's Name Omitted By 'Inadvertance,' Note From White House Says

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Hoover today wrote a letter to Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California, apologizing for the apparent slight given him last night in not being invited to the White House dinner for Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, to which every other member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was invited.

The omission of Senator Johnson's name from the invitation list was "an inadvertance," Hoover said, and the incident has caused him to be "greatly distressed" and "deeply pained."

Knowing the coolness that has long existed between the two men, social and political Washington had put down the President's failure to invite his fellow Californian as due to their differences, but the President's letter to the Senator today made it clear that this was not the cause.

"GREATLY DISTRESSED"

The President's letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Senator:

"I was greatly distressed to learn from the press last night that you did not receive an invitation to the dinner given at the White House for Ambassadors Dawes and Guggenheim ,to which members of the Foreign Relations Committee, who were in the city or available, were invited. Direction to send out the invitations was given on Monday and in the hurried telephoning to senators and settlement of other details an inadvertence occurred somewhere.

"I am most deeply pained that such an accident should have happened, with such an apparent lack of courtesy, and I hope you will accept my assurances that it was due entirely to a mistake which is most deeply regretted by all of us.

"Yours faithfully,
"HERBERT HOOVER."

JOHNSON SILENT

Senator Johnson issued the following statement after the letter had been made public at the White House:

'Under no circumstances would I have commented upon or discussed the incident. In the present situation, of course, it is wholly ended."

The failure of Johnson to receive an invitation was the talk of the Senate today, and there were efforts on the part of some of Johnson's friends to have the Foreign Relations Committee take official notice of the affair.

The regular meeting of the committee was called for today, but before the members went into session the report thta an explanation might be forthcoming from the White House became current at the capitol.

Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and McNary, of Oregon, both friends of Johnson, were early callers today at the White House.

MOORISH HOLY TEMPLE OF SCIENCE, DAMAGED BY "ANONYMOUS" BOMB

HILL BOMBING MYSTERY TO POLICE

Flying Glass and Debris Cuts Many in Blast at Moorish Temple Here

Police today said they were without clues in their investigation of the bombing last night of the Moorish Holy Temple of Science No. 5, at 1700 Arcena street, which resulted in injury to several members and endangered the lives of three-score of others.

NEAR PANIC REIGNS

The bomb, tossed into the doorway of the temple, a two-story brick structure, blew out the windows and doors of the lower floor. Near-panic reigned as the members, showered with debris, jumped from their seats and rushed for the exits. Police reported that several members suffered minor cuts and bruises. They could not learn their names.

J. Chapel Bey, secretary of the religious cult, with headquarters in Chicago, could throw no light on the bombing. Police, however, attributed the blast to the past outbreaks between members in which the temple's governor, T. Crumbie Bey, was shot. Four persons, including two women, arrested in connecting with the shooting, were acquitted in the courts.

BEY NOT PRESENT

Police concluded that the bombing of a house three weeks ago in Wooster street was intended for the Crumbie Bey residence at 25 Wooster street. The perpetrators, they declared, mistook the house.

Crumbie Bey, confined to bed with illness, was unable to attend last night's meeting.

Since its organization two years ago the temple has been the scene of turbulent affairs, police said.

The damage to the building was estimated at $3,000.

TRACE 'GIFTS' MADE TO LOBBY

Promoter Says Campaign Was One of Education; Information Was Refused

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Florida Legislature, various municipailties and counties in the state and between 150 and 200 Texas banks responded to a "high pressure" subscription campaign of the Southern Tariff Association and the American Taxpayers' League last year, the Senate Lobby Committee learned today.

From the files of the two organizations and testimony of J. A. Arnold, manager of both organizations, the committee learned that workers of the organization got the money from Florida and that sight drafts drawn on Texas banks yielded the rest. More than $4,000 came out of Florida, the remainder from Texas, the inquiry revealed. Of the Florida contributors a $2,000 lump subscription was made up by the state Legislature.

"EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN"

Arnold termed the sight draft campaign in Texas banks an "educational campaign." He said he didn't expect all 1,700 of the banks sent drafts to honor them, but added they called the attention of the bankers to the work of the two organizations. Similar "sight draft campaigns" were carried on in Georgia and Alabama.

Further disclosures from correspondence of the organizations were that letters were sent all over the South requesting endorsement of a "memorial" asking additional tariff protection for vegetable oils of Congress in its tariff revision work. The Marshal Cotton Oil Company of Marshal, Tex.; the Texarkana Cotton Oil Company, the Oklahoma Cotton Crushers' Association and others were among the groups that acceded to this request, some making contributions, the files revealed.

One letter revealed the organizations were reluctant to have their affairs probed. The St. Paul Chamber of Commerce sought information concerning the activities of the Taxpayers League, but Arnold wrote to J. W. Grove, of Minneapolis, state chairman of the league, saying, "I doubt the wisdom of submitting such information to contributors."

OPPOSED TO QUIZ

"Why did you refuse the information?" Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, asked.

"Because there was no occasion for giving it," Arnold answered.

"Having gotten all the money you could, you thought it unnecessary to submit the information?" Walsh continued.

"There was no occasion," repeated the witness.

"Did you have anything to conceal?" Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, chairman of the committee, asked.

"Oh, no. We just thought it was unnecessary."

"Hhere is a man whose letter intimates your while purpose was to collect money," Caraway went on, holding up more correspondence. "Did you feel no obligation to clear your honor?"

CHANCELLOR OF KAISER DIES

CONSTANCE, Baden, Germany, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Prince Maximilian of Baden, 62, last imperial German chancellor, and heir to the Grand Duchy of Baden, died here today.

He had been ailing for a year from arterial trouble. About three weeks ago he had fell and broke two ribs.

His wife, Marie Louise (nee Duchess of Brunswick-Luenebrug), a royal princess of Great Britain, was summoned to his hospital bedside Saturday with their two children, 23-year-old Berchold and 27-year-old Marie Alexandra. The latter is married to Prince Wolfgang von Hesse.

He was unconscious then, but Sunday rallied and seemed better until last night, when he collapsed.

Prince Max, as he was more widely known, was called to the imperial chancellorship in the closing days of the World War, October 5, 1918.

He negotiated with President Wilson and the Allied leaders the terms under which an armistice was granted, and he announced to the German people the abdication of the Kaiser.

He subsequently was subjected to an attack by nationalist elements, which charged he had advised the Kaiser falsely to flee Berlin and had withdrawn governmental support of the army.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—A high sense of civic responsibility was given as the reason for the theft of an automobile here.

FIND 50 BODIES LAVA VICTIMS

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Nov. 6.—(INS.)—The exact number of persons who were killed when the volcano Santa Maria erupted was still unknown today despite the concerted efforts of a highly organized rescue force.

Fifty bodies have been recovered but it is estimated that the death toll may run into several hundreds when all missing persons have been traced.

Numerous bodies were seen by rescuers floating on top of the lava flow just out of reach. The terrific heat exuded by the lava streams is making rescue work extremely difficult.

About two hundred injured are now being treated in hospitals here. Many of these were overcome by sulphur fumes coming from the lava.

Prayers for the dead are being said throughout the churches of the country. The Red Cross is making every effort to care for the hundreds of homeless.

MARINETTE, Wis., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—More than 100 Marinette High School students are on strike in protest against the suspension of three regular members of the football team, who were accused of attending a liquor party. More than 300 other students refused to join the strike.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Ann Livingston, divorcee, who sued Franklin Hardinge for breach of promise and won a judgment of $25,000, prepared to return to Tulsa, Okla., with a check from Hardinge as a settlement.

Miss Livingston's attorneys said she accepted less than $25,000 in consideration for dropping an appeal by Hardinge, which might have kept the case in the courts for three or four years. Hardinge is a manufacturer. Miss Livingston charged he brought her to Chicago on a promise of marriage and then married another.

New York Socialist Vote at New Peak

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—The Socialist vote soared to its highest peak in the mayoralty election yesterday.

The previous high mark was in 1917 when Morris Hilquit, mayoralty candidate, polled 145,332. Norman Thomas, four years ago, received 39,574. His vote yesterday from 3,290 districts out of 3,411 was 166,364.

VOTE UPHOLDS MACDONALD

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Britain's Labor premier, J. Ramsay MacDonald, has been upheld by the Commons in the first major question of foreign policy to reach a vote.

A poll of 324 to 199 last night favored resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia on terms agreed upon by Arthur Henderson, minister for foreign affairs, and Valerian Dovgalevsky, Soviet ambassador at Paris.

The Liberals supported the government solidly, while three Conservatives, including Lady Astor, American-born peeress, deserted their leader, Stanley Baldwin, to back Mr. MacDonald.

The vote followed debate in which Mr. Baldwin offered an amendment deploring the "failure" of the new Labor government to maintain the conditions which the preceding prime minister—himself—and foreign minister had laid down for resumption of relations.

The amendment was rejected by the same vote, 324 to 199, before the vote was taken on the motion of Arthur Henderson for reinstatement of the Soviet Union in Britain's good graces.

Hair Test to Prove Murder by Poison

LOS ANGELES.—(INS.)—Poison murders may be revealed by chemical analysis of a single hair, Dr. Lewis Gunther, of the University of California at Los Angeles, announced.

Research by Dr. Gunther has revealed a simple laboratory method by which arsenic poisoning may be determined through examination of a hair.

The process first was discovered by a German physician in 1860, but the records were lost, Dr. Gunther said.

Crimniologists were greatly interested in the rediscovery.

RADICALS SCORN TARDIEU

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(INS.)—What is feared to be the death-knell of the recently-formed ministry of Premier Andre Tardieu was sounded today when the Radical-Socialist party voted unanimously in refusal to support the new goverument.

The Radical-Socialist party consists of 121 deputies, a strong bloc in the French Chamber.

The party threatened immediate expulsion to any of its members voting in support of the new premier.

This new setback, however, failed to discourage M. Tardieu. He laid his declaration of policy before the members of his cabinet this morning, and received unanimous approval.

"All my ministers agree to the terms of the ministerial declaration," M. Tardieu said. "It will be submitted to President Doumergus tomorrow morning, and read in the Chamber of Deputies in the afternoon. I intend to ask the Chamber for immediate discussion of foreign and general policies."

Moro Pirates Seize Ship Off Maricaba

MANILA, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Word that more than 80 Moro pirates, operating a fleet of 14 speedy "vintas," or native canoes, had seized and looted a native sailing vessel near Maricaban Island, Batangas province, was received today by the Philippine executive bureau from the provincial governor.

The report from Batangas also said the crew of a Moro pirate vessel looted the village of Tinloy. The populace fled, panic-stricken, to the hills. The provincial governor sent a constabulary force to Maricaban Island and order was restored.

Plots Hidden, Soviet 'Fires' Science Head

MOSCOW, U. S. R., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Serce Oldenburg, one of the most prominent of Russian scientists, has been dismissed from his post as permanent secretary of the Academy of Science by the government. He was accused of concealing from the government documents of extreme importance which would have aided the authorities in liquidating counted-revolutionary activities on Soviet territory.

BOY, 15, KILLED BY MOONSHINE

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 6.—Belmont County officials today were investigating the death late yeseterday of Mike Strizak, 15, of Stewartsville, six miles from St. Clairsville, who died after drinking moonshine which he and three other boys found in an abandoned house.

District Attorney George C. McKelvey and Sheriff Ford Moore were told that Terry Angus, 15, one of the boys, went home intoxicated and told his father of finding the liquor.

When the father went to the house he found Strizak dead and James Bruce, 14, and Casmir Chesla, 13, seriously ill.

Joseph McMahon, acting coroner, said he would hold an autopsy on the body today.

Connellsville Names Democratic Mayor

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 6.—(INS.)—This normally strong Republican stronghold found itself with a Democratic mayor-elect today following 500-vote majority given Dr. H. D. Minerd, Democratic denist, over Harry B. Brown, Republican.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 6.—With 100 districts out of 169 heard from in Cambria County, only one county office remained in doubt today, that of Common Pleas Court judge. Frank P. FIGHTS DIVORCE; RIFT WIDENS

DENVER, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—All possibility of a reconciliation between William Bryan Quigley, New York and Denver lawyer, and his wife, Mrs. Virginia Coxe Quigley, appeared blasted today by action of Quigley in filing an answer to charges of his wife in a recent divorce suit. Possibility that they might become reconciled was suggested after Quigley shot himself while visiting at the apartment of his estranged wife October 17.

Quigley still is in a hospital as the result of his self inflicted wound and almost daily is visited by Mrs. Quigley. These visits caused a belief there might be a patching of the marital rift, but the court answer in the suit is taken as an indication that reconciliation is not probable.

In addition to the divorce action, Quigley is defendant in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit filed several months ago by the husband of Mrs. Marie Kunkle, the former Princess Marie Alimova of Russia.

Scientific Devices to Aid Zep Arctic Explorers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—The Graf Zeppelin, carrying three American and nine other scientists on a polar exploration sponsored by the International Aero-Arctic Society, may land in an unexplored region of the Arctic Sea next spring, that the passengers may survey at their leisure that once peril-fraught territory.

Dr. Walter Bleistein, treasurer of the society, today described the progress of preparations for the research journey, which, he said, will be made in safety and in comparative comfort.

He described apparatus for transmitting photographs, particularly of weather charts, by air; for making ocean depth soundings from the air, and for recording by radio meteorological data which will be gathered without human manipulation by automatic recording instruments in free balloons.

"One of the chief goals of the society," explained Dr. Bleistein, "is to determine the feasibility of establishing bases on the ice of the Arctic region for the use of future explorers."

Under the command of Capt. E. A. Lehmann, the Graf Zeppelin will carry fresh provisions for five days, the longest period it is expected to remain away from its bases at Tromsoe, Norway, and Fairbanks, Alaska. Emergency provisions for 90 days will be carried.

Twenty-three Eskimo dogs will go along. The ship will be manned by its regular crew of about 35.

WILMERDING

Wilmerding emerged from its bitter strife and threatened violence with the Volpe faction victorious. On the face of unofficial returns, it won its most important victory in the outstanding contest for tax collector, defeating the Republican nominee and overturning the primary result. It won two of the four places in Council and justice of the peace, losing the office of burgess and the other two places in council.

A squad of state police and deputy sheriffs patroled the streets and guarded the polls and two automobiles of guards made constant rounds of the polling places. The Volpe faction used the medium of the Democratic, Worknigman's and Independent tickets. Majorities on both sides were not large, running from about 100 to 150 votes in most cases. James Volpe, candidate for Council, led in the total of votes with 1,403.

The conspicuous loss was that of James F. Richards, Republican, head of the Richards faction, for tax collector. C. R. Shiring winning by 1,334 to 1,211 with all seven districts reporting. R. W. Bishop, Republican, defeated the Volpe candidate, C. H. Klausing, for burgess by 1,342 to 1,198. Harry Beggs, Volpe Republican, for justice of the peace, had a comfortable lead, 1,006 to 592, with two districts missing.

With all seven districts reporting, unofficial figures show that James Volpe, Republican, with 1,403 votes, and two opposing candidates on the Republican ticket, J. W. Carthew, 1,349, and Kyran J. Boyle, 1,376, won for Council. The fourth Republican nominee, Joseph R. Dick was ousted by Charles H. Ray, Volpe adherent, who received 1,310 votes about 30 votes in the lead.

The reported "missing" district gave the anti-Volpe candidates overwhelming majorities at the rate of about 300 to 50 each.

WHAT IS A ONE CENT SALE?

IT is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying one cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes, and save 49 cents. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at regular price. No limit—buy all you want, but on Thursday, Friday and Saturday only!

A Profit-Sharing Method of Advertising

THIS sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for one cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, as we know the goods will please you.

VICTORIA CROSS HEROES DINE

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Three hundred fifteen holders of the Victoria Cross have accepted an invitation to attend a dinner in their honor over which the Prince of Wales will preside. The dinner will take place Saturday in what is known as the long gallery of the Parliament houses.

Except for the Prince of Wales and holders of the Victoria Cross the invitations will be confined almost entirely to those who are doing conspicuous service with the legion's ex-servicemen and with Earl Haig's annual Poppy Day fund.

The Canadian holders, 14 of whom are already here while another 15 will arrive Friday, are being most hospitably entertained.

READING SWEPT BY SOCIALISTS

READING, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—On the face of nearly complete returns this morning, Socialist candidates for City Council and school board made a clean sweep of the city yesterday, and now will hold every elective office in the city government, and have a working majority on the school board as well.

Jesse E. George and William Hoverter, Socialists, apparently had widely beaten the incumbents, Jacob McConnell, Democrat, and Maj. William J. Smith, Republican. They will go to city hall with the Socialist majority now there, Mayor J. Henry Stump and James H. Maurer and George Snyder councilmen.

Mrs. Lilith Martin Wilson, formerly a national organizer for the Socialist party; Mrs. Hazelette Hoopes, former secretary of the Norristown Y. M. C. A., and George McDonough, all Socialists, were elected to the school board. There are two Socialists now there, elected in 1927.

The vote for these districts was: Copeland, 19,577; Keister, 6,661. Victor B. Bouton, Republican, was elected district attorney over R. D. Laird, Democrat, and Robert M. Harlem Negro Loses Congressional Fight

Delaney, Republican, a Negro, 22,520, and Frank Crosswith, Socialist, also a Negro, 3,123.

The district is largely Negro. The election was held to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Royal Weller, Democrat.

WOMEN DEMAND INCOME TAX SLASH

Those in Business Want Rates for Single Persons Cut; Unfairness Shown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—American business women, represented by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, who are advocating increased exemption for single persons under the Federal income tax law, conferred today with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

According to the women club members, the present income tax is deemed unfair to single persons, many of whom are nominally the sole support of families, as compared to the exemptions to married persons who are bound in the legal sense. They favor an exemption of $3,500. Mr. Mellon said the treasury would give serious consideration to their request.

FACE HOOVER

The delegation of women was l by Miss Marian H. McClench, of Ann Arbor, Mich., newly-elected president of the federation. Tomorrow morning, Miss McClench, Miss Emily R. Kneubuhl, of New York City, executive secretary of the federation, and Miss Martha Connole, of East St. Louis, Ill., national legislative chairman, will talk with President Hoover at the White House regarding the tax cut and legislation to establish a separate department of education.

Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, of Illinois, will sponsor a tax reduction bill when Congress convenes in regular session in December.

CHOOSE SITE

While here, the federation executives intend to choose a site for the erection of a permanent building to be erected at a cost of $250,000.

The State and Commerce departments will be asked to continue their aid of the organization's good will tours which includes visits to European countries and South America in the interest of international good will.

Conferences were held at the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor this afternoon when Miss McClench and her aides met women experts on tax legislation. Miss Connole has already held two conferences at the capital on the income tax measures.

Savagery to End Wars, Nobel Winner Says

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 6.—"War will perish by its own fierceness," in the opinion of Prof. E. Nernst, German chemist and Nobel prize winner.

Chemical warfare within the next 20 years will have reached a stage where the most powerful nation would not dare attack even a country like Denmark, the professor, here as a delegate to the National Science Congress, maintains.

"I forsee that there will be created new weapons of such restial horror," he said, "that one party will shy from attacking the other; and only in that way will it be possible to kill war."

9 DAYS TO HAVE AUTOMOBILES INSPECTED

500,000 Cars Still Without Official Approval; Drivers Subject to Fine and Jail

With only nine days left of the period for compulsory automobile inspection, there are about 500,000 cars in Pennsylvania without the yellow stickers of approval, Paul C. Wolff, secretary of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, said today.

After November 15 motorists lacking these stickers are liable to arrest at any time within the following 30 days, in addition to which there is a $10 fine for failure to present the car for examination.

"From the experience of the official garages where these inspections are being made, the last nine days are going to be the hardest," Secretary Wolff said. "They have found that during the first half of October the cars offered for inspection have passed the tests with little trouble. But during the last half of the month cars which needed repairs or adjustments began to come in. It seems that owners who had confidence in their cars submitted to examination first."

Staggerer May Face Manslaughter Trial

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Arvid Nordling staggered, as one intoxicated, and in doing so jostled Mrs. Christine Westrom, 57. Mrs. Westrom fell, her hip was fractured, and yesterday she died. Coroner Bundesen said that at today's inquest showed death was caused by Nordling's staggering, a charge of manslaughter would be returned.

Abandoned Schools Bring Low Prices

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Three abandoned Liberty district school buildings have been sold by the board of education for $141. The buildings must be moved as the ground will revert to the heirs of the original owners, who gave it many decades ago for school purposes.

HAD RHEUMATISM 12 YEARS UNTIL SHE GOT KONJOLA

New and Different Medicine Ended Pittsburgh Lady's Long Search for New Health.

What is the secret of the amazing demand for this new Konjola? Why has this medicine become the most talked-of medicine in the nation, the medicine with more than a million friends?

MRS. JAMES HOWARTH

Again and again these and similar questions are asked by those who have not as yet had personal experience with this new and different medicine. The answer may be expressed in three words—Konjola makes good! This medicine made good for Mrs. James Howarth, 52 McBride Street, Pittsburgh, although she had suffered no less than twelve years with rheumatism and kidney trouble, of which all other medicines she had tried had failed to relieve her. Strange as it may appear, Konjola seems to be at the very peak of its power when pitted against the most stubborn and obstinate cases—troubles that have held on for years, defying everything that was done to relieve them. Get acquainted with Konjola and its record of amazing results by talking with the nearest Konjola Man. There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and another at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, where they are at the service of all who wish information about this medicine. Now read Mrs. Howarth's story, just as she told it to a Konjola Man a few days ago:

"At last, after twelve years of searching for a medicine that would relieve that dreadful ailment, rheumatism, and kidney trouble, I have found relief in Konjola, and I will always praise this marvelous medicine.

"Rheumatism was so terrible that I could hardly walk and was unable to do any of my housework because of the dreadful pains in my lower limbs and arms. My kidney trouble kept me awake at night, and I would have to get up several times—some nights as many as ten. I was so nervous I could not rest, and my condition kept growing worse. For twelve years I spent dollar after dollar for medicine and treatments, but did not get any lasting results.

"I heard a great deal about Konjola and the marvelous results people were obtaining from it, and finally decided to try it. I certainly am grateful to this medicine that did for me what so many other medicines had failed to do. I now can do all of my housework without any pain or suffering. I no longer have to get up during the night, but enjoy sound, restful sleep. I feel stronger and better in every way. I urge all my friends who need a good medicine to try this wonderful Konjola and feel certain that what it did for me it will do for all, as mine was a severe and stubborn case."

All Konjola asks is a chance to make you well. It welcomes the severest test.

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and one at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, where daily they are meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

BARNES COMING FOR LECTURE

Prof. Harry Elmer Barnes, who came into the limelight here through the activities of the University of Pittsburgh Liberal Club, will lecture Tuesday in Morris Kaufmann Memorial auditorium, Bellefield avenue. His subject will be "What Is Wrong with Religion Today?" The lecture is the second of a series being sponsored by the Y. W. and Y. M. H. A. of Pittsburgh, and is open to the public.

When Prof. Barnes appeared in Pittsburgh last spring to speak to University of Pittsburgh Liberals on the Mooney-Billings prison case, he was refused use of the university auditorium. The students adjourned to a nearby parking lot, where the lecture was delivered.

WHY PEBECO USERS DON'T SWITCH

Public preference in tooth pastes is fickle. One kind one month—another the next. There must be some reason why PEBECO is the exception rather than the rule—why Pebeco keeps its friends longest. It's because Pebeco more than cleans—more than whitens. Pebeco actually retards tooth decay by checking "acid-mouth." We believe you'll join the circle of life-time users if you give Pebeco one week's trial. Isn't it worth that test?

MACHINE VOTING IN 14 MONTHS

The enabling act, under which citizens of Allegheny County have called for the use of voting machines, requires their installation within 14 months. If the County Commissioners fail to buy the machines within that time, the law directs the commonwealth to buy them and render a bill to the county.

It is not necessary to put voting machines in every election district simultaneously. They may be installed gradually, in alphabetical order:

"By cities, boroughs and townships, so that they will first be used in the city, borough or township, the name of which is first in alphabetical order, and then in the city, borough or township, the name of which is next in alphabetical order, and so on."

"In cities, boroughs and townships," the act continues, "they shall be introduced in numerical and alphabetical order by wards and election districts, if any, so that they will first be used in the First Election District of the First Ward, and then in the Second Election District of the First Ward, and so on."

The law specifies that "the County Commissioners may provide one voting machine for each 600 registered voters, or fraction thereof, and shall provide one voting machine for each 800 registered voters, or fraction thereof."

On petition of the County Commissioners, or by 10 or more qualified voters of the districts involved, the Courts of Quarter Sessions are directed by law to:

"Redivide wards of cities or boroughs, where voting machines are adopted, into election districts of compact and contiguous territory, or shall consolidate election districts therein into new districts, each having 800 registered voters as nearly as may be, except that districts having less than 800 registered voters may be created whenever the court shall be of opinion that the convenience of the voters and the public interests will be promoted thereby."

'Death Valley' Radio Program To Go on Air

TONOPAH, Nev., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Walter (Death Valley) Scott announced that he plans to erect a large radio broadcasting station on his palatial estate near here soon.

Scott has purchased two 250-horsepower engines for generating power, and other equipment for the station. He said he would employ the best talent available for his programs and that he would not permit advertising to be broadcast.

The station will cost about $400,000, he said.

VOTE RESULTS IN COUNTY

was credited with 1,230 against the 519 of J. K. Riley, his opponent.

MUNHALL

Proposed consolidation of Munhall and Whitaker boroughs was defeated in Munhall by a vote of 731 to 618. In Whitaker, however, the issue was carried by a majority of 247. Majorities in both boroughs was necessary for the consolidation.

GLASSPORT

In Glassport the important fight was for the position of justice of the peace. O. C. Egans was given 1,384 by unofficial returns, and R. J. Schwerks, 1,287. Edwin J. Gross was credited with a 463 majority over Lee Knight, his opponent for burgess.

DRAVOSBURG

A recount in the fight for burgess of Dravosburg was probable when unofficial returns gave T. D. Watkins 363 votes and Charles J. Carlson 362. Harry Kniss was reported the victor in the tax collector race with a majority of 168 over Homer Snodgrass.

VERSAILLES

William Kennedy was declared the victor over Frank Jack for burgess of Versailles. The vote was given as 395 for Kennedy and 288 for Jack.

CHESWICK

Unofficial returns from Cheswick gave Thomas H. David 147 votes for burgess and his opponent 142. Possible recount was also indicated in Cheswick by borough officials. D. W. Althauser defeated Martha McDonough for tax collector by about 60 votes, it was said.

DORMONT

In Dormont, Burgess William S. Haddock, seeking re-election, was said to have been vanquished by Charles Chamberlin, who was given 1,867 votes against Haddock's 1,755.

SHALER TOWNSHIP

By a three-to-one vote residents of Shaler Township approved a $400,000 bond issue for public improvements. The vote was 1,568 for and 552 against. Of the total, $275,000 will be spent for sewer lines and $125,000 to lay water mains, the supply to come from the Cabbage Hill reservoir.

ETNA

The Republican ticket was carried in Etna. Lee A. Donaldson was elected burgess over James Keenan. Councilmen elected were Martin Metzger, of the First Ward; Herman Ladowitz and Jacob Arenth, in the Second, and Roy S. Morton and George H. Edgar, of the Third. Ladowitz has served 16 years in council. D. Edward Austin was elected tax collector, Daniel Giles, justice of the peace, and H. A. Stoll, Dr. E. A. Speer and J. C. Morton school directors.

Chicago Bombing Rocks Drug Store

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Another bomb—there have been more than 100 in Chicago so far this year—exploded early today, damaging the front of the drug store operated by Michael Serritella in the Italian quarter. The bomb victim is a cousin of Daniel A. Serritella, city sealer.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

PUT CITY FIRST, KLINE URGES

Assured early today that he had been re-elected, Mayor Charles H. Kline issued a statement thanking Pittsburgh voters for their renewed vote of confidence in his administration.

KLINE TALKS

Kline's statement follows:

"I am extremely grateful to the good people of the city of Pittsburgh for their renewed vote of confidence in me and my administration. The public mind has been disturbed by political discussions for a period of several months. The time has arrived for all of us to get down to business and apply ourselves to the work at hand and before us. Disagreements which may have arisen during the campaigns which have been carried on should be submerged and the best interests of our city should be made paramount. Every pledge made by me and underwritten by the Republican party will be translated into actual performance.

THANKS FRIENDS

"To my supporters, who displayed such unwavering loyalty, my appreciation is heartfelt and really beyond the power of expression. To my opponents I extend an invitation, uttered in a spirit of charity for all and malice for none, to join hands in a great and renewed civic effort. Mrs. Kline and myself will forever cherish this added honor conferred upon me as well as the vindication of myself and my administration."

DORMONT VOTE BOX STOLEN

Attacking members of the election board in the Tenth District of Dormont last night, several unknown men slugged Fred G. Rupp, of 3141 Wainbell avenue, minority inspector, seized the ballot box and ran from the building. The box later was recovered. Rupp is confined to bed as a result of his injuries.

The attack occurred in the polling place in the Tenth District in an alley in the rear of buildings in the 3200 block of West Liberty avenue, the home district of Charles Chamberlin, successful candidate for burgess against W. S. Haddock. The attempt to steal the ballot box is declared by Chamberlin's friends to be the result of the close contest for the office.

While confined to bed today, Rupp told of the assault upon him. He said members of the election board were preparing to begin the count when several men rushed into the room, seized the ballot box and plunged toward the door. Attempting to block their exit, Rupp was knocked down and his assailants ran into the alley. Staggering to his feet, Rupp followed the men with other members of the election board. At the same time a call was sent for the borough police.

When the pursuers closed in on the fugitives the men dropped the ballot box and escaped, according to Rupp. With the pooling place closely guarded, the count was finished. Members of the election board said that they were unable to identify any of their assailants.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

BOWLES MAYOR IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—(INS).—A narrow margin of 7,817 votes today was responsible for the election of Charles Bowles to the mayorship of Detroit.

Bowles' victory over John W. Smith, former mayor and standard-bearer of the Liberals, was regarded by political veterans as the greatest election upset in the history of the city.

Tabulation completed in 846 precincts out of 852 give Bowles 129,350 votes and Smith 121,533.

No statement was forthcoming from the Smith camp early today, although it was positively stated by officials of the campaign that a recount of the ballots cast yesterday would be demanded.

A little known lawyer five years ago, Bowles rose to public prominence as the candidate of the Ku Klux Klan in the sensational special election for mayor in 1924. He won yesterday because of the lead piled up in the Twenty-second Ward.

Smith's failure is believed to have been due to the East Side precincts' failure to deliver the number of votes normally cast.

Smith had concentrated his campaign in the far western section of the city, the Twenty-second Ward, a part of Detroit which came into the city during Smith's administration and defeated him as it did two years ago. In some sections of this ward he was beaten by better than four to one.

Postal Officials Tracing Vulgar Mail to Voters

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 6.—As a result of vulgar campaign material sent through the mails, especially to women, in connection with the mayoralty campaign, Postmaster W. S. Behanna has asked Federal postal authorities to investigate its origin.

Indignant women have given the postmaster samples of the circulars.

STATE BATTLES HARD FOUGHT

Associated Press.

The returns from the various municipal elections in Pennsylvania where close contests were indicated were slow in coming in. The Republican candidates in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg piled up the majorities which had been looked for.

Bethlehem elected a Democratic mayor, Robert Pfeifle, by a 2,500 majority over Claude M. Stauffer, Republican, and added two councilmen — Charles Groman and Thomas Scott—to make that body entirely Democratic.

Practically complete returns in Lancaster indicated the election of T. Warren Metzger, Republican, over William S. Raub, coalition candidate. This result in one of the leading contests in the state saw the return of the Republican party to power after a lapse of eight years of independent control.

George B. Keim, Republican, won by less than 100 votes in his contest with O. O. Orner, Democrat, for mayor of Lewistown.

Democratic candidates were elected in Adams County where Charles A. Williams defeated R. Blaine Kitzmiller, Republican, by a 2 to 1 vote in the contest for county treasurer about which the county campaign hinged.

Republican candidates were elected in Schuylkill County where the county judgeship contest was fought at the primary election in September. Democratic candidates had apparently been elected in Shenandoah, Mahanoy City and St. Clair but John B. Dengler, Republican, defeated Claude A. Lord, Democratic in the Pottsville mayoralty contest.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(INS.)—Chicago's Democratic-Deneen group of 20 candidates for the Superior Court bench and two for the Circuit Court bench stood re-elected today following one of the most quiet elections the city has had for years.

All the sitting judges, nine Democrats and eight Republicans, were included among the winners on the Democratic ticket referred to as the Cermak-Deneen slate.

The Republican ticket was a poor second in the race. Martin Isaacs, lowest among the winners, was approximately 28,000 votes ahead of Joseph Sullivan, high man on the Republican ticket.

Superior Court Judge William Lindsay, Democrat, finished the race approximately 93,000 votes ahead of Sullivan.

Twelve candidates comprising the Peoples ticket against coalition placed third, followed by the five independent candidates.

Yesterday's election is believed to have ended the coalition judicial ticket practice which has prevailed here since 1917, when the Republican and Democratic parties began the practice of nominating together only as many candidates as there were places to fill. Under this system the voters had no choice of candidates.

The 350,000 persons who went to the polls decisively rejected all but one of the 11 bond issues and other propositions. The only one to pass was the $3,000,000 proposal for a park extension.

Pittsburgh to Play Part In Two Radio Features

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

STEEL—the industrial giant whose belchings against Pittsburgh skies tell nightly the story of world progress—will play up-stage in the Westinghouse Radio Salute, a new series of programs to be inaugurated over the WJZ network tonight.

Steel and Pittsburgh—names synonymous—will mean more to Pittsburghers after this presentation. One hundred and twenty-five persons will take part, including a 50-piece symphony orchestra, 20 footlight stars and a chorus of 40 voices. It all comes to Pittsburgh over KDKA at 7:30.

Up in Cleveland, the radio boys will make much whoopee over the new studios and 50,000 watt transmitter of WTAM. The program will start at 8 o'clock and continue until the milkman arrives.

Virginia Harmon will say a Pittsburgh hello and sing at least two numbers. She will go on the air about 12:30 a. m.

Virginia Harmon, a Pittsburgh soprano, who has won great favor with her audience, has been selected by WTAM to represent our city at the inaugural. In this capacity, Miss Harmon

Hundreds of notables will take part in the WTAM celebration, including Rosa Raisa and Giocoma Rimini, of the Chicago Opera; the Cleveland Symphony, Jessica Dragonette, James Melton, Vaughn de Leath, Phil Spitalny's Orchestra, the Cavaliers, Arthur Pryor's Band, Frank Crumit, Nick Lucas, Miss Patricola and Charles Murray, of the films. WTAM operates on a wavelength of 280.2 meters or 1070 kilocycles.

We Now Present

Phillips H. Lord, creator of "Seth Parker," will arrive in the city tomorrow morning for the initial performance of his recent air-success, "Seth Parker's Old Fashioned Singing School," which will be broadcast at 7:30 by WCAE.

He will conduct the last rehearsal of the play and personally introduce it over the air. With a splendid cast of local talent, selected and trained by Frances Doherty, Gertrude Mohr and F. Reynolds, "The Singing School" should prove a highly popular entertainment.

By way of introduction here's a letter from Mr. Lord:

"My Dear Mr. Martin.

"Mr. Allan Machesney of WCAE was here in Jonesport yesterday and done something with some wires and put in a little apparatus what I think he called the megaphone.

"If you don't think there's some excitement in the town of Jonesport, you ought to come up here. The folks are gooseflesh already, thinking about being heard way down in Pittsburgh, but I expect to have more fun out of it than Barnum did out of his old circus.

"I want ter make it clear that this ain't a religious meeting but just a rehearsal where we have lots of fun and do some singing.

"Ma's got ter to wipe up the woodwork, clean out the fireplace, so it will be a little more presentable when we start the broadcast.

"Mr. Machesney showed me how the megaphone worked. Say now, that's quite a apparatus, ain't it? Reminds me of a phonograph with them wax things you listen ter.

"I hope you will extend to the ladies and gentlemen, and women and children of Pittsburgh, the hearty feelings of Jonesport folks in general.

"SETH PARKER."

Original and clever. Just like the Seth Parker we know on Sunday night at the semi-religious "githering."

The sponsor of sacred songs, Virginia Harmon, Clarke Moss, Frances Doherty and others intimately associated with Phillips Lord in his radio work, will greet him tomorrow.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Often the operators at local studios are called upon to act as mechanics for programs going on the air. Recently Arthur Brown at WCAE repaired a violin bridge for a young artist while the artist's accompanist presented a few piano solos to fill in the time.

5 MILLION LOAN FOR LIVESTOCK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(INS.)—A credit of $5,000,000 to the National Producers Feeder Pool, a subsidiary of the National Livestock Producers' Association, for the marketing of feed lot cattle, has been authorized by the Federal Farm Board.

On two continents . . . VAPEX is the modern way to fight a cold

SINCE ITS DISCOVERY IN ENGLAND VAPEX HAS BECOME THE ACCEPTED RELIEF FOR COLDS IN BOTH EUROPE AND AMERICA

EVERYWHERE, discriminating men and women use Vapex because it is so pleasant, so swift, so sure. . . . Just a drop on your handkerchief brings you instant relief . . . all-day-long relief. Vapex keeps its strength because it is very concentrated. At night, a drop on each end of your pillow lets you sleep—with a clear head and unobstructed breathing. The vapor is delightfully refreshing—as crisp and cool as a mountain breeze. . . . Recently one of the foremost laboratories in the country strikingly proved the efficacy of Vapex. Sterile silk threads were saturated with the germs of common colds and immersed in Vapex vapor. In ten minutes, the vapor killed them. . . . All the Vapex essence used in America is imported from England. Its secret formula is very complex and practically defies imitation. . . . Priced at $1 a bottle of fifty applications. Ask the druggist for V-A-P-E-X in the trim, white box with the green triangle. Do not accept a cheaper substitute. E. Fougera & Co., Inc., New York.

IT LOOKS LIKE WEDDING BELLS FOR BARBARA KENT AND DIRECTOR FEYOS

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.

THIS bureau announces a new romance. Verily, yes. Party of the first part: Barbara Kent, youthful ingenue who heroined for Harold Lloyd in "Welcome Danger;" party of the second part: Paul Feyos, the director.

It looks powerfully serious. The romance, to be sure. Miss Kent is a frequent visitor on Feyos' "Marseilles" set at Universal. And they have that much to discuss. Yes, it looks serious. Miss Kent would be a newcomer in matrimony. I believe Feyos was married before.

Barbara Kent

When John Risso was a University of California student, he suffered an accident that deprived him of the use of his left arm for life. He studied law, but he hankered for a histrionic career. So in due course to New York he traipsed and debuted on the stage, via musical comedies. Recently, he hit to Hollywood to sample the cinema. And it was his unfortunate left arm that got him his fortunate chance.

Director John Cromwell selected Risso to play the role of Tony, a newsboy, and the pivotal character, in William Powell's initial starring vehicle. Cromwell had taken tests of sundry Italian youths before deciding on Risso. Johnny's arm, plus his ability, landed him the part and judging from the favorable comments on the lot, Cromwell's choice was a happy one.

Carewe Operates Feed Factories

JOAN BENNETT—Harry Richman's heroine in his initial outloud—took her colored maid to the studio. It was said C. M's. first visit to a studio. She investigated the set and after a bit parked in front of a narrow, black board that is known in studio parlance as a "nigger."

Edwin Carewe.

The cameraman suddenly called to an assistant: "Bring me that 'nigger.'"

The maid's eyes bulged. She was too scared to move.

Edwin Carewe, the director, is also a business man. He may be called a magnate of chicken feed. Eddie is the big gun behind several poultry feed factories and is building two more ditto. One in Dallas, Tex. Forget where the other is. As Eddie admitted under fire, he can't stay away from the chickens.

He is preparing to go to work on his next United Artists offering. It will be a non-star picture, for last week he signed the final papers with U. A. whereby that kumpny annexed Dolores Del Rio, the Mexican ember that Carewe discovered some years ago.

Clive Sees Sights In Old New York

THERE'S a little girl in the M. G. M. wardrobe department who has nothing but love in her heart for the stock market. She's an elegant exception. However.

Some years ago, she sunk her entire savings of one hundred dollars in a stock that sponsored a new kind of plumbing invention. Her husband, a plumber, said it was a good buy at one dollar a share.

Last week, she sold her hundred dollar stock investment for ten thousand dollars!

SCREENALITIES: Clive Brook, back in ye village from Manhattan to play opposite Evelyn Brent in her second starring picture, admits he likes New York beaucoup much. Clive recounted how he put on a disguise and explored Chinatown, the Bowery the docks, Harlem, et cetera, just like everybody else. He expects to return East for another picture. His two youngsters will remain in Hollywood . . . Ronald Colman spending a coupla days in his favorite haunt, Arrowhead, where mountains are mountains and nature all over the place . . . Helen Chandler upped and purchased herself a white Persian kitten. And is that thrilled . . . Lilyan Tashman shopping in the town's brand new department store and pleased to smiles over a hat she purchased for $10 . . . Bess Meredyth drinking coffee in the Brown Derby and amazing herself by not spilling a drop. Bess was overheard to explain that liquids have made her nervous ever since she once tried to use a Christmas present fountain pen . . . and—that's all.

Clive Brook.

Human Beings Glorified In Modern Religious Art

By PENELOPE REDD.

MODERN painters in the Carnegie International exhibition have been discussed in this series of articles as in the recent notes on Speicher and on Nash. Today we consider a third modern, in a brief monograph on the work of Carl Schmitt.

Penelope Redd.

Carl Schmitt, an American painter, about the same age as Nash and younger than Speicher, is among the painters whose work has been admitted to the Carnegie Institute through the last 15 years.

Schmitt, like Speicher, early acquired facility in painting. With a natural trend toward decoration, Schmitt quickly developed a style sufficiently suave to have satisfied most painters as a final crystallization of effort. His painting and pastels met with immediate success, to all but himself. He was convinced there was more to painting than pleasing decorative arrangement. His transition, into maturity, was more abruptly shocking than that of Speicher, probably because Schmitt's earlier style was the more unusual.

As Schmitt emancipated himself from the immediate surface charm of life, he also deserted mundane subjects in favor of religious ones. Furthermore, he experimented both in methods of composition and in ways of manipulating paint.

CARL SCHMITT'S idiom, as revealed in his three paintings at the Pittsburgh International, is a modern one. He invokes three types of pure decoration. "Madonna in Orange" represents the lyric type, which is identified by the accentuation of forms described by curved outlines. "The Second Night" demonstrates the dynamic or dramatic type, which is manifested through the emphasis of forms described by diagonal outlines. "White Madonna" exemplifies the static or reposeful type, which is stated in forms described by outlines so perfectly arranged as to convey the sense of the absolute balance of mass.

The "Madonna in Orange" bears no vestige of orange similar in color to the fruit. There are russet, blue and a few notes of brilliant carmine. The peculiarly luminous quality of the mother's hands and face which Schmitt secures does not appear as thick strokes of pigment applied to the surface of the canvas, but as a mystic glow emanating from the presence of the babe in the mother's arms.

PERHAPS "The Second Night" is intended to indicate the despair preceding the "Resurrection of the Christ." The central figure of a sorrowing woman, garbed in umber garments, is turned toward the night, while the symbolic figure of a child looks across the red peaks to the coming dawn. Mauve shreds of the disappearing night cling to the blue of the morning sky.

The "White Madonna" is enthroned on a chair whose supports suggest votive candles. She is attended by cherubim and youthful saints. The staff of the child saint in the foreground, the upright parts of the chair, and the trees, all echo the repose established by the radiant child and the mother. These vertical forms are posed against the staccato rhythm of the blue clouds and green hills. There is absolute peace in the "White Madonna," whose rose draperies are all embracing for children and landscape. A golden lustre transmutes the whole into a canticle.

IT is difficult to disassociate the work of Carl Schmitt from a direct, religious connotation, chiefly because he is invariably engaged in painting the mother and child. In his religious approach, rare in our days, he differs from both Speicher and Nash.

Speicher detaches individuals from life to elucidate the types they represent. Nash detaches landscape to reiterate the power of nature. Schmitt detaches people and landscape to glorify the relation of human beings to the world in which they live. His figures grow from the earth but aspire to the heavens. He intones hosannas in the "nurselings of immortality" which he paints.

NEWMAN ENDS TRAVEL TALKS

Pictures never before granted to foreign photographers, splendid examples of art and intimate scenes of beaches and gardens were presented last night at the Carnegie Music Hall by E. M. Newman in his travel talk on "Vienna and Budapest." It was the fifth and last appearance of Mr. Newman this season and marked the close of a generous and fascinating tour of South America, along the Rhine and into the lovely valley of the Danube.

Interiors of rooms wherein Napoleon and Marie Louise lived, richly-adorned buildings, entrancing gardens and touches of the lighter side of the Viennese people were shown in both motion picture and colored plates and illuminatingly described by the traveler, Mr. Newman, who is on his twenty-first season as a traveltalk lecturer.

MARX BROS., 'PORGY' ARE COMING

Seats go on sale tomorrow morning in the Shubert Alvin box office for the engagement, opening next Monday night, of the four Marx Brothers in their latest tomfoolery "Animal Crackers." The story involves the stealing of a painting and the discovery of an unsuspected artistic genius among the idle rich. Matinees will be Wednesday and Saturday.

Seats go on sale in the box office of the Nixon tomorrow for the Theater Guild folk-play, "Porgy." Owing to the fact that "Porgy" played on a subscription basis here last season, it has not been included in this season's subscription plays, so all seats will be sold through the box office of the Nixon. There will be the usual matinees.

"The Rose of Picardy," next week's offering of the George Sharp Players in the Shubert Pitt, is a war story, having its locale in behind the lines in a rest billet where a squad of troops is quartered in a house with a French girl. Suzanne Caubaye, French actress and guest star, will be seen in the role of the peasant girl.

Dr. M. Sayle Taylor, for his return engagement of "Married Love," now playing in the Gayety, announces a quick change in schedule. "Married Love" is now playing continuous, 1 to 11 p. m. The balance of the week is reserved for women only.

Mrs. Barnett Davis is president of the home. Mrs. M. H. Harris is general chairman of the ball, assisted by Mrs. L. A. Harris.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Ocean's Color

AS a rule, salt water is bluer than fresh water. Pure ocean water has a clear blue color because salt water does not absorb the blue rays of sunlight as it does the red rays.

Miss Pat

Pat Dives to Bottom of Lake in Effort to Save Brother

piercing, importunate cry she flung to the water's edge. Suddenly her arm raised in terror.

Far out on the lake four boys were climbing the float. They were going to dive. Dickie Dawn was first.

And in the shadow of a second, before ever her frightened cry subsided, his small, brown body leaped through the air.

Pat's heart froze. She said to herself softly: "It's frightfully deep there." With a sudden, wild gesture, she sent her canoe skimming to the lake.

"Mother—quick!" And with white, set lips: "He's not come up."

The three little boys huddled together on the edge of the float. They looked down into the water, then over to the shore. They espied the distant canoe and began to beckon frantically.

The boat shot through the sun and silence—propelled with a still violence. The waters sparkled. They were smooth in a wide, mocking quiet.

Neither girl nor mother spoke. Paddles moved with swift, awed intensity. One minute—two—three—not a tremor disturbed the glassy calm of the lake.

"Keep watch! Mother—look—"

The three little boys were suddenly diving into the water . . . They went bobbing in and out—gesticulating excitedly. One dived—then the second—then all three together.

Presently they were sitting limp on the float. They made forlorn motions. When the canoe reached them they began talking all at once. They were very scared. "We can't find him. We dived and dived. Right there's where he struck. It's awful deep — we couldn't near reach the bottom—"

Pat nodded. Her eyes studied the unholy quiet. She slipped silently overboard and began working down into the clear, silky green depths.

She went down and down. Through caves of water. They were living caves. They reared walls and fought her. She went implacably down, reaching at last the cold, slimy depths. She worked about desperately; feeling, searching. She could see the clear, green ooze. She clawed about it. There was no child buried here.

Her body rose to the surface. She lay for one exhausted moment on the float.

"Pat," whispered Laura Dawn, "try there—I think it was nearer the middle—about there."

She gave back a grim, encouraging glance. She WOULD find him. Going down now, the blanched, piteous face of her mother went with her.

She struck against seaweed—masses of it—a jungle. She tore through one clump and came to another. In any of these thickets Dickie might be caught—might be hidden. She could never explore them all in time—God!—never get him out alive!

Her ears rang with the panic; her lungs screamed for air.

The little boys were again diving furiously. Pat pointed to the ominous spot above the seaweed: "All of you keep looking there."

They said: "That's where he went down. Gosh—disappeared awful quick."

With a desolate wave of her hand, she motioned them on. And she worked down now in a kind of fury, feeling herself iron and fire. Dickie was here; he was drowning to death in these terrible waters. This frightful thing was happening now. She would strike through them. She would burn them up.

She made for the weedy underbrush. Fight as she would, the waters pulled. They sucked and sucked. A black, deep hole. Deeper and deeper down the smooth, cavernous sides.

Suddenly she felt happy; she felt guided. She thought wildly and with a strange, luminous clearness, "I'll find him. He's here. Mother—Mother of God"——

She was no longer oppressed; no longer smothered by surging walls or water. She was a light, winged thing.

She came upon him. Upon his little, inert body. With a sobbing prayer she pulled it from the dark, mushy earth. The lifeless arms flopped as she made her way upward.

Blur of sky. Blur of her mother's distracted face as she stooped and lifted the quiet form from Pat's fierce embrace.

She lay utterly hushed, utterly spent. Through a fog and the roar in her ears she heard voices. The little boys giving orders. "Turn him upside down. Get all the food and water out. That's what Dr. Kittrick did when Billy Graham was drowned. We gotta git a barrel. That's the first thing."

Pat crept over and stared at the limp brown hair clinging damply to her brother's puffed and sodden little face. His eyes were closed and there was mud on the lashes.

Suddenly the machine-like precision of her mother's arms, as they worked the arms of the child, abated. She spoke softly in a mad, imploring quiet; in a voice hypnotic with power: "Get your father. Tell him to fly. Bring pulmotors—oxygen."

"Oh, mother. It would be hours—"

"Go!"

That appalling sense of guilt. Oh, if we'd only foreseen! If we'd done but differently, this tragedy would not have happened.

"I should have watched . . . I should have known," thought the girl miserably as she sent the old rattletrap machine hurtling along the mountain roads to the telephone. And now, if her father could not be reached—?

The feeling of blame, that in some way she had failed her little charge, this was added to her sick terror. What if Dickie died? If he were already dead? Lying there bloated, muddy and still. She went on blindly, feeling her life shattered; gone jaggedly to pieces.

Terrible hours Pat Dawn and her mother worked. They knelt by the still form and fancied it moved. They told each other desperately: "His eyes stirred. You saw that?" They listened and turned furtive eyes upward.

News of the drowning spread. A little crowd gathered. They offered suggestions. When one grew weary, another took up the work. A strained, unnatural quiet settled over the place.

Moments piled into hours. A man came and held a mirror over the boy's mouth. He did this twice holding it a long while. Then he put it in his pocket and walked quietly away.

The crowd dwindled. The two women on the beach seemed turned into machines doomed to kneel here forever working the arms of a little dead boy. As long as they worked, they would hope, but Pat no longer dared to meet her mother's eyes.

Their very hearts now listened.

Suddenly the sky opened. A rushing and whirr, wings mightier than angels.

At last! Plane flashing in the sun—swooping like some wild, free bird. It glided downward.

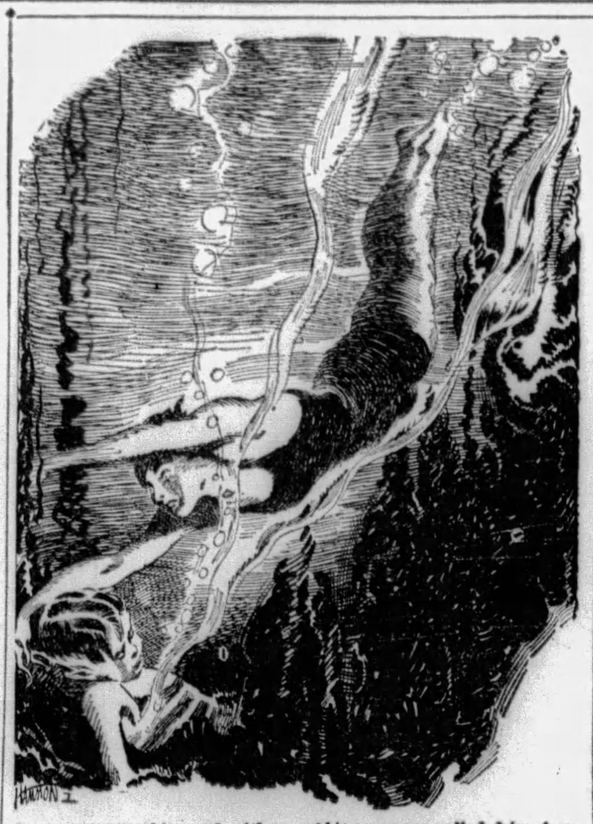
Grease and Soot Marks

Unsightly marks may be removed by means of a blotting-pad and a hot iron, followed by a thorough rubbing with a piece of hard soap, and finally rinsing in cold water. To remove soot marks cover the affected part with salt, and then brush up. The salt not only cleans, but revives the color of the carpet. Sawdust or powdered bath-brick may be used in place of salt if preferred. In beating a carpet, do not place it on a line as is most usual; lay it pile downwards in the grass.



Pat came upon him and with a sobbing prayer pulled him from the dark mushy earth.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Fears Repression of Her Ambition

THE hour following my return from my interview with Philip Veritzen was not the first in which I had faced the fear—I write the word down deliberately—that my old tempestuous, torturing love for my husband might be breaking through the layers of perfunctory calmness which I had laid over it. I had realized, for instance, that any mention of Edith Fairfax was enough to rouse my jealous anger, but I had hoped—again there is intent in my choice of words—that my jealousy did not spring from love, but from that infinitely meaner emotion, wounded pride of possession.

For with the memory of years of stormy life with Dicky, years during which I had alternated between dizzy heights of rapture and abysmal depths of suffering, I had come to feel that I prized more than anything else the calmness, the freedom from poignant mental suffering which my new pact with him had brought me. True, there were occasional bitter moments when I felt as might one banished from Eden, but for the most part I was able to let my common sense rule my emotions and find ease and freedom in my new scheme of life.

But Lillian's revelation—I never have found it worth while to doubt her almost psychic knowledge of Dicky's mental processes—that my husband's jealousy was rooted in his old flaming love for me, had swept aside the barriers I had so carefully built up around my soul, and for a bitter but rapturous moment I faced the truth—that I could no more put Dicky out of my heart than I could thrust Junior out of it.

I faced something-else, however, stronger than my love for him. That was my knowledge—bitterly bought—that I must not purchase a reconciliation with him by giving up my individuality and my work. Sad experience had told me that my Peter Pan craved the elusive. If Lillian were right in her conjecture, and I did not doubt it, the surest method of killing his revived feeling for me would be to drop back into my old submissive attitude toward him, repressing the ambitions which had been mine from childhood, and which seemed now to be in process of realization.

I did not stand alone upon this premise. My father, Lillian, Katherine, even Dicky's own mother occasionally, had told me this truth in various forms for years. With the memories of their counsels bolstering my own determination, I gradually fought my tempestuous emotions back to sanity and then covered them again under deep layers of deadening calmness. There was too much on my shoulders for the next few months to permit myself to be distracted by anything in the world save my small son. Fortunately, things had so shaped themselves following his fall that it really would be better for him to stay at the farmhouse with Katherine and his grandparents than to be with me. But I know that at any needed call from him my work, my career, anything in the world, would go by the board.

The sound of the telephone shrilling an insistent call brought me out of my reverie with a jerk. But when I reached the hall I heard Katie at the downstairs telephone.

"Yah!" With a rueful little smile I realized for the thousandth time that never could I hope to get Katie to answer a telephone properly. "Dees ees Graham's house. Who dees? Ah-yah, Meester Veritzen. I call Meesis Graham. Vot dot? No? Meester Graham? Yah! He outside in yard. I call heem in."

I heard the sound of her footsteps hurrying toward the door. Then they came racing back again, and she screeched into the telephone, "Hold the line," and dashed back again toward the door, while I leaned against the doorpost, helpless with laughter at the mental image of my stately employer at the other end of the line listening to Katie's absurdities of diction and manner.

But laughter soon gave way to uneasiness. What on earth did Philip Veritzen want of Dicky? He already had tacitly agreed to my dictum that he was not to come near the farmhouse, and was to come to us for the first time upon the day after we were settled in the hotel.

I knew that my employer possessed a somewhat Puckish humor, and was also utterly careless as to the effects of his display of it. I guessed that he had seen through Dicky's elaborate pretense of cordiality at the inn. Had he devised some cunning scheme for further annoying my temperamental husband?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Invitations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly advise me if it would be proper for my married brother to invite the guests to my wedding, or may I have my single sister, with whom I am living, do so—or would it be better for me to do so myself, as I am the oldest?

If my brother is the proper person, should the invitations read:

"Mr. John Smith requests," and so forth, or "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith request"?

If my sister may do so, should the invitations read:

"Mrs. John Smith requests," or "Mary Smith"?

M. O'C.

THE best form would be for you to have your married brother and his wife issue the invitations. This is vastly better form than for you to issue the invitations in your own name, or for you to have your unmarried sister issue them.

And for this kind of invitation the form is: Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their sister, Mary Elizabeth, etc.

This is, in other words, better than "at the marriage of Mr. Smith's sister."

Refusing Hospitality

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In a great hurry I stopped to do an errand in a drug store. A girl friend of mine and her boy friend were at a table having a drink. When she saw me, she motioned me to come over. She presented her friend, and he urged me to sit down and have a drink with them. Did I do the right thing by refusing? L. F.

IT depends upon the amount of time you had and your own choice. If you explained to them that you were in a great hurry, it was quite proper for you to decline. But if you had enough time and wished to accept the proffered friendly hospitality, it would have been quite proper for you to have joined them.

"Turn the Other Cheek"

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper to read when you are with some friends on a train and the others are in a conversation and you are left out?

2. When two couples are together at a theater or in a train, how should they be seated; the two girls together and the young men on each side, or separated into couples?

3. If a young lady goes out with a young man who does not work, is it right for her to treat him at times? P. M.

NO. Since your "friends" are so unkind as to leave you out of the conversation, you should not do anything that might give the man opportunity to criticise you. In other words, with rude people we should be doubly on our guard not to be rude in return, or as a defense. When we find that people are unkind, thoughtless, rude, we should "turn the other cheek" in our manners, and make it a point to be as kind, as thoughtful, as pleasant mannered as we possibly can.

2. In a theater, it is best, when there are two couples, for one of the gentlemen to enter the row first, then the girls, and last the host, or, if there is no special host, the other gentleman. In a train they would sit as couples, a man and a girl in one seat, and a man and girl in the other.

3. It would be less embarrassing for the young man, and far more complimentary to his self-respect, if the young lady postponed any party until the young man finds employment. A well-bred, self-respecting young man with the right kind of spirit, would respect this suggestion—and quite rightly.

The Marry-Go-Round

Mrs. Solomon's Sayings

THE Maxims of the Seven-Hundredth Wife, to give wisdom to the foolish and diversion to the wise.

* * *

My Daughter, consider the damsel of 1929; for her perplexities are many and her problems are great. And all the ways of a man are confusing unto her. Alas, she knoweth not whether to turn backward or go forward!

HELEN ROWLAND

Behold, she knoweth not whether to continue to shear her locks and be independent—or to let them grow long and "go feminine." She is uncertain whether to adorn herself in trailing skirts and be seductive—or to cling unto short skirts and be youthful and comfortable.

She feareth to let a man kiss her, lest he put her down in "Class C" with the cheap ones and the easily-loved-and-forgotten.

* * *

Yet, she trembleth to refuse his kisses, lest he write her down "flat-tire" and classify her among the antiques and the joy-killers and the prudes.

* * *

She knoweth not whether to appear sophisticated and cynical, lest she frighten men to death—or to appear simple and sentimental, and peradventure bore them to death.

* * *

She hesitateth to marry and relinquish her freedom to become only "Somebody's Rib." Yet, she feareth to stay single, lest when her years are full and her chin double, she may be "Nobody's Darling."

* * *

She knoweth not whether to take men seriously and thereby risk disillusionment and heartaches—or to take them lightly and thereby miss love's thrills, and in time become "hard-boiled."

* * *

For the men of today are not as the men of yesterday, who were easily handled, easily put off and woman-trained.

* * *

Nay, the men of today have become "wise to women," and they are exceedingly altar-shy!

No longer will they pursue a damsel; yet, if she pursueth them, they are sickened and make haste to escape. No longer do they offer a woman tenderness and devotion; yet, if she falleth not for their casual love-making, they are aggrieved and reproachful and soon depart.

* * *

Go to. The woman of yesterday may have known herself to be a man's slave and his chattel, but the damsel of today knoweth not whether she is a man's SUPERIOR or only his amusement! And her new "freedom" is as a loose tooth, which she knoweth not whether to hang onto or to part with!

* * *

Verily, verily, she is as a taxi-cab, which hath reached the middle of a crossing, when the lights change suddenly, and knoweth not whether to proceed or to BACK UP! SELAH.

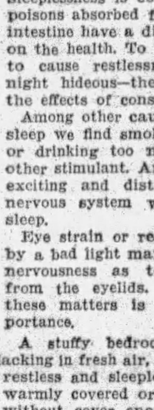
How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Keeping Late Hours a Foolish Practice

THERE is an old saying that "an hour of sleep before midnight is worth two hours after." This is a pretty accurate statement of fact. There is no virtue in late hours. You may pride yourself on never going to bed the same day you get up, but I don't approve of that system.



DR. COPELAND

Of course your manner of living must determine how and when you are to sleep. If you are an actor, or a night operator of some sort you will have an opportunity the next day to make up the loss of sleep. But if you are a day worker, it is best to be in bed before midnight.

Children of 8 years or less should be in bed at 8 o'clock. After they are 10 years of age they may stay up till nine, perhaps. "To bedibus 9 o'clockibus," is a famous and reliable prescription. No matter how little sleep the grownups have, the children should have at least ten hours. The rest of us will be well off if we get eight hours.

There is no affliction much worse than sleeplessness. To lie awake at night, night after night, is terrible. In the middle of the night our thoughts are black as the midnight itself. Then when we fall asleep in the early morning there is no refreshment in the slumber. We get up as tired as when we went to bed.

The most common cause for sleeplessness is constipation. The poisons absorbed from a crowded intestine have a distressing effect on the health. To break the rest, to cause restlessness, to make night hideous—these are among the effects of constipation.

Among other causes for loss of sleep we find smoking too much, or drinking too much coffee or other stimulant. Anything that is exciting and disturbing to the nervous system will break the sleep.

Eye strain or reading too long by a bad light may develop such nervousness as to drive sleep from the eyelids. Discretion in these matters is of great importance.

A stuffy bedroom, absolutely lacking in fresh air, may make you restless and sleepless. To be too warmly covered or to go to bed without cover enough will keep you awake. The bed and bedroom have much to do with the comfort you have at night.

Worry is a cause for every evil symptom. It will ruin the sleep of the strongest man. Debt, doubt and despair are dreadful factors of trouble.

To be bored with yourself and your surroundings will keep you awake. This symptom should be a warning to give yourself recreation or a change of surroundings.

Never resort to drugs. It is deadly to do so. Find out what is wrong and when the cause of the sleeplessness has been removed you will sleep like a baby.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. K. B. Q.—What can I do for bronchitis?

A.—Build up your general health and take deep breathing exercises.

E. L. Q.—I have a swelling under the left ear that appears every month. A hard lump forms, but it does not hurt. It disappears in about half an hour. What can be the cause?

A.—This may be due to a cyst or an inactive gland, also to a form of hives. It would be most advisable to consult a doctor for an examination.

Miss Anxious. Q.—What causes a red rash and welts to break out on the skin when one takes a warm bath?

A.—This is probably due to indigestion. Watch your diet carefully and avoid constipation.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, November 7

ALTHOUGH this day may be read as a lively and enterprising one, according to the stellar influences, yet there are to be intrigues and complications. While diligence and earnestness will further all effort, yet there may be singular or perplexing situations to combat. Negotiations of a strategic nature may flourish, but personal relations may give concern.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of enterprise and initiative with matters through their diligence and patience, but there are intriguing and perplexing problems to reckon with, as well as some anxieties in the purely personal relations. Beware of small losses.

A child born on this day may be steady and industrious, but will gain its greatest success through "clever" and diplomatic understanding.

Why this sanitary pad stays soft for hours

How comfortable is your sanitary protection after one . . . two . . . or three hours of wear? Read how Kotex' softness lasts

IT is really amazing how Kotex stays soft, even when you have to wear it for hours.

Other forms of sanitary protection may seem comfortable when first adjusted. But you know how quickly that surface-softness disappears . . . how soon the pad begins to pack . . . then how often chafing occurs.

All so unnecessary! . . . now that Kotex is sold everywhere, and at such a low price.

Cellucotton explains softness

Kotex is made of Cellucotton absorbent wadding . . . the lightest, most absorbent substance which can be used. It absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times more than cotton or any cotton material!

The Cellucotton is laid in many layers, each tissue-thin. This permits circulation of air, and keeps the pad soft and delicate.

The pads are rounded and tapered, so they really fit, and are never conspicuous. Kotex deodorizes, too.

Hospitals use Kotex material

A striking testimony to the superiority of the Kotex material, is the fact that 85% of the leading hospitals use it in preference to any other absorbent. They use it for absorptive purposes, including the most important surgical dressings.

Please read about other Kotex features at the right. You'll see how no detail of comfort has been overlooked. Buy Kotex anywhere, without embarrassment or explanation.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Fastidious . . . the sign of true daintiness.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly by a patented process.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Ruth Drake Making Bow Today

I TOLD you a few days ago that this was debutante week, and so far there's been a bud every day. The deb of today is Ruth Drake, daughter of the J. Frank Drakes, who's being presented this afternoon in the family home, Pembroke Place, at a tea.

There's a quaint charm about a formal tea in this hectic age, a dignity and measured slowness that makes me think of a minuet.

IN the ballroom of the University Club, yesterday afternoon, Martha Edmondson, daughter of the Frederick W. Edmondsons, of South Negley avenue, was presented to society by her mother at a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock, at which she met her mother's friends.

And before I tell you how the debutante looked I want to remark that I've never seen the University Club decorated so attractively.

Here and there throughout the room were placed large bowls and urns of bronze and gold chrysanthemums and palms and ferns, with Talisman and Johanna Hill roses.

Of course palms and ferns formed a background for the bud's gift bouquets. And tea was served at one end of the ballroom, enclosed by a bower of southern smilax, guarded by tall urns of chrysanthemums. Covering the tea table was chartreuse satin, and centering it hothouse fruits.

Martha, who's tall and slender and dark, looked piquant in a gown of orange chiffon reaching to the instep. And she wore an interesting turban of dark brown tulle, and carried an arm bouquet of green orchids, and Talisman and Johanna Hill roses, outlined and tied with brown tulle.

Mrs. Edmondson's gown was of a beige chiffon and lace with the longer-in-the-back hem-line, and her hat was amethyst velvet.

At the tea I saw the debutante's grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Henderson, in black velvet, with a black soleil hat and orchids, and her aunt, Mrs. Lawrence Deemer, of Brookville, in blue crepe and hat to match.

Among the friends of the debutante's mother I noted Mrs. Benjamin Page and her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Ringsdorf, Mrs. Frederic T. Billings, Mrs. James Hay Reed, Jr., Mrs. John G. Frazer, Mrs. George C. Wilson, Mrs. C. M. Harnies, Mrs. George B. Raser, Mrs. Roger Knox, Mrs. T. Raymond Evans, Mrs. S. Murray Rust, Mrs. Thomas B. Hudson, Mrs. Norman McClintock, Mrs. Thomas Ewing, Mrs. Wilson Ferguson and Mrs. Vernon Taylor, of Indiana.

Members of the younger set, including Martha's sister buds, didn't arrive till later, of course. Among them were Frances Reed, Helen Pendleton, Ruth Drake, Caroline Crittenden, Mary Franklin Robinson, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, Marie Louise Bickford, Nancy Allderdice, Harriet Fickes, Laura Evans, Margaret Berger, Frances Johnston, Jane Miller and Margaret Thompson, Neil Stewart Zang and Betty McCance.

Paralytic Woman To Ride Plane In Bed

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Craft, 69, will take her first airplane ride in bed.

Mrs. Craft is a paralytic, undergoing treatment in a hospital here. Physicians recommended that she go to Stratford, Tex., where her son lives and where the altitude and climate are expected to benefit her. An air company here has installed a bed in a cabin plane and what otherwise would be a 17-hour ambulance trip over bad roads, has been reduced to a comfortable three-hour journey.

Club Women 'Travel' to England

AT a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. D. M. Sloane, north Balph avenue, members of the Woman's Literary Club of Bellevue found themselves "En Route to Merrie England." They first spent a day motoring through rural England by way of Mrs. A. H. Holliday's interesting paper which called attention to the beauty of landscape and the cathedrals of Staffordshire, to Kenilworth and Warwick Castles and to two famous manors, Broughton Hall and Moreton Old Hall.

Back to London, Mrs. R. J. Gibson conducted the tourists through the Parliament buildings and on to the Tower of London, to some of the parks, art galleries and museums, until Mrs. J. M. Ferguson took up the interest with a talk on "Literary Landmarks" of the city. Mrs. J. M. Bailey's description of a vesper service in Westminster Abbey brought a vivid idea of its peace and quiet.

The club's next meeting will be a guest day, November 19.

THE CLOCK DETERMINES THE LENGTH OF SKIRTS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Don't sell tweeds short, is the admonition of certain stylists who are trying to lengthen the skirts of practical clothes designed for walking and informal daytime wear. It was a generally accepted arrangement, that skirts were to remain fairly short—although rather longer than those of previous seasons—for daytime wear; rather long for formal daytime use; and very long for evening wear. But an endeavor to introduce long skirts on the dresses designed for busy women is not a move in the right direction, and will make more enemies than friends for the lengthened skirt movement.

AMERICAN women have accepted the new fashions because they are really beautiful, but at the same time, they will continue to insist on comfortable, practical clothes for wear during their busy hours, and a long walking skirt is positively archaic in these times, when almost every woman has a career, or gives many hours to charitable, rather than social activities.

WE are sending you a sketch of a new Worth model that shows the smart effect that can be obtained by a dress of coarse tweed in black and white. You will notice that in this instance the skirt is rather longer than has been customary for tailored frocks, but although it subscribes to the mode, it is short enough for practical wear, but still it is just about as long as such a skirt should be. Dressy details are the black leather belt at the natural waistline, and the shawl collar and cuffs of white pique banded transversely with black braid. The widely pleated skirt is set onto a rounding yoke at the hips.

THE graceful afternoon gown of green printed velvet is also from Monsieur Worth, who has named it "Fruit Vert" (green fruit.) It is of softest supple chiffon velvet, with its clinging graceful lines commend it as a frock that should be universally becoming. It is one of the gems of the Worth collection, for that reason.

ATTACHED to a "V" shaped yoke at the back the skirt dips to a deep point and hangs in soft circular folds at the sides and centre back. The bodice is plain and slightly bloused, and has a shallow "V" decolletage in front. You will notice this is a particular slenderizing model.

RAID FUGITIVES FLEE TO VOTE ROOM

Armistice Day Plans Completed

Fractions Go On the Air

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

HE was 65 years old, he said, but he looked not more than 55. For 40 years he has been "on the road," always selling the same line, but selling for practically every big firm in the country. Sleeping in berths, staying in hotels, eating various foods in various restaurants the veteran salesman was the picture of health. It was in a Pullman smoker, where with that ease which salesmen acquire, he began talking. We steered his opening generalities into his line of work, for in such a groove, no man can be entirely uninteresting.

Havey J. Boyle.

He sells safes and locks. Fortunately, he doesn't have to carry samples. It has always seemed to our inexperienced mind that selling safes must be something like selling light houses. That, in other words, the list of prospects soon must run out. But the veteran salesman laughed away our observation.

* * *

"JUST think of all the new office buildings," he said. "You know every office in the great skyscrapers is equipped with safes. Think of the small banks in the country which increase and expand and need new equipment.

"Prohibition, of course, for awhile cut into our sales as you must remember that no self-respecting saloon was without a pretentious-looking safe. But the setback was only temporary.

"I'll tell you something," he explained as he leaned over confidentially so that no spy would hear, "I can go in any city in the United States and get me a good snifter of pre-war liquor. Why? Because my list of customers includes men who don't monkey with anything but the best. You see, their cache is so precious that they have purchased from me safes and vaults in which they keep their supply.

"I'll venture to say there isn't a big city where I haven't installed in some wealthy man's home a vault of considerable dimensions. So what we lost when the saloon of the old kind was put out of business we made up from the wealthy men who, with prohibition, laid in a supply and then protected it with expensive vaults."

ANOTHER avenue of trade, he said, was selling ornamental and utilitarian safes to rich families with precious jewels they wish to guard carefully.

These safes holding jewels usually are silver and beautifully ornamented—real works of art. An order for a $10,000 jewel safe is not considered extraordinary.

FIVE DIVISIONS TO COMPRISE PARADE

Reunions and Dance Will Feature Celebration; Marshals are Appointed

Practically final plans have been completed for the eleventh annual observance of Armistice Day here next Monday under auspices of the Federation of War Veterans' Societies, it was announced today by the committee in charge.

Coincident with the observance of the anniversary of the cessation of World War hostilities a number of veterans' reunions will be held. A military ball in William Penn Hotel ball room will climax the day's activities.

L. S. Jacobs.

The parade, in which service men, sailors and marines, militia, drum and bugle corps, military bands and uniformed troops will march, will be held Monday morning. The early hour was decided upon, it was said, so visiting veterans' delegations would have ample time to return home to participate in local celebrations later in the day.

Five divisions will comprise the parade.

Col. William R. Dunlap, marshal of the fifth division of the procession, announced today the appointment of Col. Eric Fisher Wood, commander of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery and Col. Thomas B. Anderson, of the Ninety-ninth Reserve Division as honorary marshals. Prominent army and reserve officers will be aides.

REUNIONS PLANNED

Perhaps the largest individual reunion will be the three-day conclave of the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry, which will open November 9, and close Armistice Day. L. S. Jacobs, is general chairman. Headquarters will be at General A. J. Logan armory. A banquet at Webster Hall Saturday night, followed by informal activities and a business meeting Sunday will be highlights. The One Hundred and Eleventh veterans will march in Monday's parade.

Other reunions will be held in various restaurants, hotels and rendezvous' throughout the city.

WILL DEDICATE MEMORIAL CLOCK

Bellevue Plans Exercises Set for Saturday Night; Presented By Auxiliary

Four times hourly a tribute will ring out in Avalon to the services and sacrifice of mothers who gave their sons to help win the great war.

Chimes from a large electric clock, now being erected in front of the borough hall, will sound a perpetual reminder of the part played by brave women who kept the home fires burning. It will be dedicated Saturday night.

WILL PRESENT CLOCK

Silent prayer as the chimes first sound at 8 p. m. will mark the opening of the exercises. Mrs. A. M. Wallace, president of the Legion, will present the clock to the borough. Burgess Grant Ritchie will make acceptance.

The Rev. Dr. John B. Magee of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, who saw service in France, will make the dedicatory address. Dr. Carl McKee, past county commander of the American Legion, will speak on "Peace." Music will be provided by the Sunday School orchestra of the Avalon United Presbyterian Church.

FACE ILLUMINATED

The clock, of bronze, extends from the front wall of the borough hall on brackets. The face, two feet high, will be illuminated at night. Its cost, $1,200, was raised partly by public subscription and the remainder by the members of the legion holding bake sales and parties. Mrs. W. H. White is treasurer.

FIFTH GRADE OF CARGO SCHOOL IN RECITATION BROADCAST OVER RADIO FROM UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH STUDIO

SCHOOL WORK BROADCAST

"What are these figures called that I have put on the blackboard?" inquired Miss Dorothy Thomas, teacher of the fifth grade of the Cargo School, Mt. Washington, of a group of pupils gathered yesterday afternoon in the University of Pittsburgh broadcasting studio of radio station KDKA.

"Fractions," they chorused.

"Have any of you ever seen fractions before?"

Half a dozen eager hands shot up.

READS STOCK MARKET

"I have seen them in the stock market."

"Where have you seen them, Helen Becker?"

"In the grocery store."

"In what way were they used?"

"In measuring potatoes and apples."

It was an innovation in broadcasting, carrying the exercises of the classroom into the home, that parents, listening in, might learn how children are taught.

The pupils who took part in the demonstration were Norma Newell, Ruby Felot, Helen Becker, Ruth Hagerstrom, Matt Pasky, Martin Shor, Robert Walsh and William Loew.

GIVE DEMONSTRATION

The children were called upon to cut an apple into equal parts, and to tell what the sums of various parts were called. They did lessons in fractions with money, too.

The recitation was prefaced with explanatory remarks by Miss Mary Philput, University of Pittsburgh radio announcer, and Dr. Grover H. Alderman, dean of the school of education.

The Board of Public Education is co-operating with the university in the enterprise.

Classes from other schools will be broadcast in subsequent weeks.

Brackenridge Club Steward Held After Agents Seize Beer; Baldwin Still Taken

Patrons in a saloon at 1600 Island avenue fled into a polling place in the same building when prohibition agents and constables raided the saloon, the officers reported.

Joseph Bushik, 24, a bartender, was arrested after a small quantity of whisky was seized, the agents said. The patrons were herded back into the saloon by the raiders and released after the necessary questioning.

The Oregon Hunting and Fishing Club, at 111 Brackenridge avenue, Brackenridge, netted the agents nine half-barrels of beer, and 116 cases of home brew, according to the agents' report. George Oberlihger, 46, the steward, was reported arrested.

A 75-gallon still was seized, agents said, in a raid on a garage at 731 Custer avenue, Baldwin Township, in which they said they arrested Joe Vereneck, alias Frank Sanko.

Two saloons on the South Side and one on the North Side yielded the federal officers moonshine when they visited them, they reported.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

The Question: Do you favor the new longer skirts for women as decreed by Parisian fashion dictators?

RUTH MILLER, 1441 Chislett street, dancer: "I am short in stature so I know I'll never look good in real long skirts. However, I like them on tall women provided they are not carried to extreme. In the first place, long skirts are not practical from the point of service. Some persons like them so let Dame fashion be served. I'll stick to short ones unless a miracle occurs."

Ruth Miller

JOSEPH HILLER, Smithfield street, store executive: "No. Give me the short skirts anytime. They express the freedom and individuality of the American girl and should not be supplanted by the dictates of arbiters 3,000 miles across the sea. The short skirt is chic, gives grace to the feminine limb and is highly attractive. If the long skirts come back the 'boys' will again stand on the corners as they did in the days of old and pray for windy days."

Joseph Hiller

HELEN SOLOMON, 2041 Wightman street, fashion artist: "In a way, yes. As long as Paris decrees long skirts as fashionable, then the usual thing will be for women to wear them. However, long skirts should be worn only by those whose individuality is enhanced by such styles. Women and girls should decide which type, long or short, becomes them, and wear their clothes accordingly. Long skirts will never supplant short ones in popularity with the average American woman."

Helen Solomon

HENRY J. HENRICH, 3241 Central avenue, North Side, office executive: "Emphatically not. I am very much opposed to them. The reason? Short skirts are truly American, chic, snappy and give the average girl or woman a greater opportunity to display her feminine charms to best advantage. Although censure is expressed in some circles against the shorter ones, it must be admitted that down deep in their hearts, the average man likes shorter skirts. And how!"

Henry J. Henrich

RUTH MILLSTONE, Bartlett street, women's wear stylist: "It's a fifty-fifty proposition. Tall women with long hair look beautiful in long skirts, but some short ones look horrible. Long skirts on a woman of small stature often look very unbecoming. Therefore the new style should be taken with the proverbial 'grain of salt.' Don't wear long skirts unless they become your type, although fashion dictators give the commanding word."

Ruth Millstone

JOSEPH BESSER, Hotel Roosevelt, actor: "I'm divided on the question. It's a case of adaptability. A tall woman looks good in them but a short one does not. In the future, I believe, long skirts will supplant the present day mode. Then we'll be back to the mid-Victorian age as far as feminine fashions are concerned. They're wearing them a lot in New York City right now."

Joseph Besser

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third report by "The Camera Question Box." The Sun-Telegraph will present a similar report on a different question each day on this page.)

Man Seriously Shot Examining Revolver

When a revolver he was examining exploded, William Kedir, 22, a roomer at 1131 Voskamp street, was shot in the abdomen early today. At Allegheny General Hospital it was said his condition was serious.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 6.

They censure Senator Bingham for engaging a man that knew something about the tariff. If he had hired a man that knew nothing about it, or better still, nothing about anything, why that would have been O. K.

For Bingham to find somebody that knew something about the tariff was almost as big a miracle as his action was a disgrace.

Funny part about it all is, that all these arguments and all these investigations is over a bill that won't pass anyhow.

So all this is just like discussing yesterday's weather.

Yours, WILL.

ELMER GOYER, CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN SMALLEST SOLDIER

Goyer, 6900 Kelly street, claimed by a buddy to be the smallest soldier in the A. E. F. during the World War. He weighed 96 pounds and was 4 feet 10 inches. Here he discusses a German rifle, war trophy, with C. R. Halley, another veteran.

Window Cleaner Hurt In 3-Story Plunge

John Douda, 49, of 2618 Penn avenue, employed by the Penn Window Cleaning Company, was injured, probably fatally, when he plunged from the third floor of the National Casket Company building, Seventh street and Duquesne way, today. At Allegheny General Hospital it was said his skull and both legs were fractured, and he was injured internally.

PITTSBURGHER 'TINIEST VET,' HE CLAIMS

Weighed 96 Pounds in Army But Proved as Brave as He Was Small; Wounded

Elmer Goyer, of 6900 Kelly street, Pittsburgh, lays claim to the title of tiniest veteran of the World War.

When he entered service as a private with Company E, Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry, Eightieth Division, Goyer weighed 96 pounds and was 4 feet 10 inches in height. As Armistice Day approaches Goyer comes forth with the data that he has gained 15 pounds in weight and is an inch and a half taller.

TWO OTHER CLAIMANTS

Previously two other ex-service men have come forth with "tiniest veteran" claims, but Goyer refutes them all.

The first was Nicholas Casale, of Newark, N. J., who said he was 4 feet 10 inches in height and weighed 110 pounds. The other is Braggio Raimondo, of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., who said he was the same height, but weighed only 103 pounds.

Goyer is a draftsman. He received vocational training from the government after the World War.

Goyer claims it is a "mystery" how a man as small as himself got into the army, as regulations require a minimum height of five feet.

SMALL BUT BRAVE

Veterans who fought with him in the Meuse-Argonne campaign say he was as brave as he is small.

Had not his captain been killed in action, Goyer would have been cited for bravery for his message running activities on the lines when he was wounded by a machine gun bullet, they said.

The bullet struck Goyer's leg, as he was squirming to a shell hole in "No Man's Land." He was in a base hospital for a year and a half on a trip to "blighty."

"Although a German nipped me, I think I did my bit for Uncle Sam. My small stature prompted the captain to believe German bullets wouldn't find me," Goyer said.

"I was put to service as a runner. A bullet got me anyhow. A big fellow, weighing 250 pounds, was beside me. He was a perfect target. They missed him and got me."

Goyer is a charter member of the Eighteenth Division Veterans Association, and of Charles W. Ziskau Post, No. 207, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Turtle Creek.

DIGGING UP THE NEW PERRY HIGHWAY

WORKMEN DIGGING INTO NEW PERRY HIGHWAY TO FIND MANHOLES

They're digging to find three cable manholes buried two feet below the new Perry Highway surface, near the city line, and not for buried treasure. Confusion in blueprints resulted in 10 inches of concrete being poured over the manhole mouths.

Man Accused of Dry Violation After Death.

Although Patsy Marcus, address uncertain, died in a hospital February 1, 1928, prohibition officials charged him with violation of dry laws July 27, 1929, it was revealed yesterday. The information was made August 5, of this year.

Marcus was charged in the same complaint with Loretta Marino, 35, of 5715 Mignonette street, who was arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal E. A. Holden. She was released on bail of $1,000.

CABLES BURIED, NEW ROADWAY TORN UP

Part of Perry Highway to Be Drilled Where Three Telephone Manholes Lay

Because somebody forgot to provide for three telephone cable manholes, part of the new 30-foot roadway of the new Perry highway will present a patchwork appearance when the new road is opened to travel.

The newly laid concrete was being torn up today with pneumatic drills to provide access to three cable heads of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company buried two feet below the road surface.

The telephone company is held responsible for the oversight by the road contractor, D. W. Challis and Sons, of Sewickley, and will pay the cost of tearing up the new road surface and replacing it.

According to the road builders, blueprints furnished them did not reveal the A. T. & T. cable heads and only after the concrete was in place were they told that it would be necessary to install three manholes in the roadway just north of the city line.

the JOY of LIVING

is founded on Good Health

Did you know that every cubic millimeter of the normal, healthy person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles?

Your joy may depend upon rich, red-blood-cells

A HEALTHY body is vigorous, strong and sound. It is man's and woman's greatest asset. It demands that the red-blood-cells shall not be decreased in number.

The red-blood-cells are its workers—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give to the blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. Rich, red blood wards off disease. It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal. Even though you have allowed your blood count to get too low, with resulting ill health, you may still be strong and well again.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S. S. S. a trial. It promotes healthy body building. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S. S. S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easy to assimilate. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

You will be delighted with S.S.S. blood-building and tonic effects. Take at mealtime. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Adopt a Program of Ordered Saving

Morris Knowles

President

Morris Knowles, Inc.

JUST as a city must have a plan by which its development is guided and by which its growth is ordered, so the forward-looking individual will have a plan for his life whose means will give him growth and whose end will afford him stature. A program of ordered saving is one of the most important items in the individual's plan. Its execution offers the opportunity to see and gauge tangible growth, and its completion brings the fullest enjoyment of all the elements in a well-planned life.

Mr. Morris Knowles, one of the country's leading city planning engineers, was born in New England where thrift and industry are traditional. His career has been characterized by the ability to look ahead and to prepare for opportunity. Apprenticing himself to leading hydraulic engineers, the young Knowles tirelessly studied the science of water filtration, then new. Twenty years ago he was called to Pittsburgh to build the huge sand filters planned for treatment of the Allegheny River water supply. He remained here to establish his business. As cities and towns grew and the demand came for engineers to help them plan their growth, he realized the importance of this field in which, by thrift of time and careful application, he has won widely recognized success. Mr. Knowles was formerly Chairman of the City Planning Commission of Pittsburgh. He is Consultant for many other cities and towns.

"Planning a city is essential for orderly development," says Mr. Knowles, "and Thrift is essential for a plan of life, if the goal of happiness and independence is to be reached." That is what the Union Savings Bank hopes to show by authoritative example, in presenting this series of editorials by Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men.

PRAISE FRENCH SCHOOL FOSTERED BY PITTSBURGHERS

PUPILS HERE SEND $100,000 FOR PROJECT

Agricultural Institution For Orphans Declared Worthy of Praise Given

Ten years ago teachers and pupils of the Pittsburgh schools sent $50,000 to France to found an agriculture school for war orphans. During the year, they have added to that until they have more than made possible their idea, Dr. W. M. Davidson, public school superintendent, said today.

Altogether $100,000 has been sent to further the plan, according to Dr. Davidson, and now there is, near Fontainebleau, a Pittsburgh Schools Farms.

"Centre D'Apprentissage Agricole De Pittsburgh," is the name given the project by the French. Since the establishment of the first school by American and French authorities, the government of France has added to the idea, until there are now four co-operative schools, just about a mile from one another, Dr. Davidson said.

Aside from the agriculture school, where boys from 14 to 17 learn about farm life and work, there is an industrial school, a horticultural school, and a school of domestic science for girls.

The girls provide the boys with clothing, and do the necessary mending and cooking, while the boys in their schools, provide the girls with food and household articles.

Dr. Davidson, who recently visited the schools, said that the Pittsburgh Schools Farms is "indeed worthy of the dignity given it by the French people. Pittsburgh, the entire country, in fact, has something to be proud of in the school."

W. & J. TO TEST PANTHERS

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Holt Against Pretense. Bush Outsmarts Rivals.
Pro System Preferable. Balkline Cue League.
Another Kick-Off Idea. Huat Looks Like Goods.

COLLEGE HEAD WOULD END GRID SHAM

WHILE some college presidents are protesting against the sensational charges of the Carnegie Foundation regarding the present status of college football, Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, at Winter Park, Fla., rises to suggest that "we abandon our pretense of amateurism and come out openly and above board for professionalism."

Hamilton Holt

That is the solution of the problem, President Holt believes. "If it is impossible to find enough colleges geographically proximate to play with under purely amateur conditions," he says, "I am ready to suggest that we abandon our pretense of amateurism and come out openly and above board for professionalism. I would be perfectly willing to print in our catalogue just how much we pay our pitcher, our quarterback, or high jumper. I never could see any moral or other distinction between a man who plays a game for fun and one who plays it for money. Why it is considered proper for a boy to support himself through college by waiting on a summer table, and improper to receive money for playing on a hotel nine, is beyond my intelligence.

"I SUSPECT that the contempt which amateurs have for professionals is largely a 'hang-over' from those bad old days when any man demeaned himself by accepting 'filthy lucre' for his services. Football has the great merit of being the only thing really well taught in our colleges.

"The coach demands and gets the best in a man or fires him. No such rigid standards are attempted in the classrooms. Every graduate of an American college knows that fully a third of the degrees are unearned.

"COLLEGE presidents and faculties today insist on rules which, if lived up to, would cure most of the evils inherent in the game. But then, to an alarming extent, they wink, even if they do not connive, at the non-enforcement of these rules. If any college, such as Rollins, finds it impossible to get genuinely amateur competitors, then I submit there is no honorable alternative except to espouse professionalism. What I object to is this hypocrisy in pretending to do one thing and doing another."

Dick Hanley

CERTAINLY family names are closely associated with football affairs at a number of American colleges, but rarely has a big school presented so many brothers at one time as does Northwestern University in the case of the Hanleys. There are three of them, and all played parts in the success of Northwestern last Saturday in defeating Illinois for the first time in 17 years. Dick Hanley is head coach, his brother, Pat, is one of his assistants, and the third brother, Lee, is a player on the varsity squad.

IN CONNECTION with the unfairness of bringing the ball out to the 40-yard line for a kick-off at the beginning of the second half, after a team has worked it to within a few feet of the goal line at the close of the first half, "A Carnegie Tech Alumnus" has an idea that would give the team the full benefit of its scoring chance and at the same time save to the game the second-half kick-off with whatever thrills it may bring through a run-back.

From Wheeling, W. Va., he writes: "Your comments on the abolishment of the kick-off at the close of the second half were read with interest. But do not most of us go to a game hoping for the thrill of seeing a kick-off run back for a touchdown, as has been done by Tommy Davies, Gibby Welch and others? The new fumble rule has taken away some of the thrills, so why take away any more?

"MANY times have we seen a game team, fighting to the last minute, take the ball to within scoring distance, only to have it all go for naught as the whistle blows, ending the game. Why not, at the end of the second half, if either team has the ball in scoring position, say within the 5, 7 or 10-yard line, let that eleven continue to play until it has scored or lost the ball on downs?

"I am sure the 'Union of Football Officials' would not demand an extra $50 or $100 for the overtime. Neither would the fans object. Such a ruling might also eliminate the howl about 'inaccurate timekeeping,' such as arose after one of the big Eastern games recently."

Donie Bush

WHILE 15 other major league baseball managers were taking time to ponder over the merits of the player, or haggling with his old employers over the price to be paid for his services, Donie Bush gave new evidence of his wide-awake policy by stepping in ahead of the pack and grabbing for the White Sox outfielder, Smead Jolley, star slugger of the San Francisco club and the most colorful baller in the minors. For two years Jolley has been talked about as real big league timber, but it remained for Bush to beat all rivals to the prize.

THERE were some who still questioned Jolley's major league fitness after his big season in 1928, and Bush, then manager of the Pirates, held back with the others. When the slugger repeated this year, following up his 45 home runs in 1928 with 38 more, or a total of 83 in two campaigns, there was a stir among the skippers in the big show. While the rest were dickering, Bush went straight after his man and got him.

Possibly, Jolley will not come up to expectations in the majors, and will not hit big league pitching as he did that in the minors, but he certainly has shown enough to rank as a great prospect and there is no question that Bush has out-smarted his competitors whether Smead comes through or not. Donie certainly has made a most promising start toward building up the White Sox.

BILLIARD followers everywhere appear to be heartily in favor of the plan to have the world professional 18.2 balkline championship decided by league competition instead of through the usual medium of a tournament. The idea is to have franchises in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington in the East, and Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland in the West.

The tentative player list includes Jake Schaefer, Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochran, Eduard Horemans, Eric Hagenlacher, Kinrey Matsumura, Higer Conti and Felix Grange. The cueists would be salaried, and would receive bonuses according to the order of finish.

NEW YORKERS STOPPED AT GOAL LINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—West Virginia, with a fine defensive exhibition, held Fordham to a scoreless tie yesterday before 30,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds. The final whistle blew as Fordham was stopped a scant foot from the Mountaineer goal line after a march of 72 yards.

The gallant fighting Mountain band from West Virginia gave the Maroon every chance, but all overtures of old man opportunity were steadfastly rejected by the home team. Fordham remained undefeated, but had its record marred by the second tie of the season, the first tie was of West Virginia origin, a 6-to-6 deadlock with Davis and Elkins.

MISSES CHANCES

West Virginia had two great chances in the first few minutes of play when a Fordham fumble caused apprehension in the Cavanaugh camp, but when Fordham stopped this drive, its time of stress was over from a defensive standpoint. The Maroon offensive did not start to function until it was too late. The one sustained drive was under way when the game ended.

Eight times Fordham was inside West Virginia's 30-yard line on first down, and eight times the ball was lost. Passes were grounded from the 10-yard line, the 20, 26, 15, 20 and 30 and one was intercepted from the twenty-seventh. With a first down on the visitors five-yard line in the first half Fordham lost five yards.

The big thrill came at the close when Fordham practically talked herself out of a chance to win the game. After the players left a huddle with the ball only two yards from the goal, they ran back to talk it over again. But for this second thought, they might have had time to make the 12 inches they were short when the time ran out.

The big thrill was saved for the last, West Virginia kicked to Fordham's 27-yard line. Fisher passed to Murphy in midfield, and Murphy made a first down on West Virginia's 38-yard line. Murphy and McMahon drove to the 27-yard line, and the same pair, aided by Fisher, plunged to within 17 yards of the goal. Murphy made two yards, and West Virginia was offside, placing the ball on the 10-yard line. A pass, Fisher to Murphy, gained three. Murphy was stopped in his tracks, and McMahon advanced only to the five-yard line. McMahon was stopped two yards from a touchdown, and O'Shea came running in as a substitute quarterback.

SUB FAILS

His presence was soon explained. He took the ball and attempted to slip over the goal line on a "quick-opening" play. The effort was good, but not good enough, as the ball was still a foot away from the most important chalk mark of all when Referee Crowell unscrambled the mass of players. As this laborious task was under way the game ended. The lineup:

Chalk up two big flatic upsets in one night, the decisive defeat of Willie Davies, of Charleroi, in the flyweight elimination tournament in Madison Square Garden, New York, and the rout of Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, by Jimmy McLarnin, in Chicago, Monday night.

While Black Bill, a Cuban Negro, has been troublesome to Davies in the past and has beaten many of the other good ones, Willie, on his recent form, as demonstrated in bouts at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, against Frankie Genaro and Izzy Schwartz, claimants of the world crown, and against speedy Franklin Young, of Detroit, in Motor Square Garden, figured to be the class of the New York Commission's tournament, with only Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, and Gene Huat, the French star, to fear. Wolgast and Huat came through with victories, but Davies went down to a defeat before Black Bill that included the reopening of his old eye injury.

TOUGH BREAK FOR WILLIE

It was a tough break for Davies, after all of his striving to reach the top, and many were the expressions of sympathy for his cause voiced by his local admirers yesterday. Willie is one of the most popular of the district boxing stars and high hopes had been entertained for his success in the tournament.

McLarnin's strong winning fight against Mandell at catchweights indicates that Jimmy's difficulty in making the lightweight limit may have had more to do than was suspected at the time with his disappointing exhibition against Sammy in New York last year, when he proved a terrible dud. Coming in at a natural weight in Chicago, McLarnin proved entirely too rugged for the clever champion and won off by himself, several times having Mandell in trouble.

Buck McTiernan and George Panka, Bunny Buntach's fighters, will return to Flynn's gymnasium beginning today to finish their training for their battles at Motor

Gopher to Play With Broken Thumb

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Bronko Nagurski, star University of Minnesota fullback, will play against Iowa Saturday at Iowa City with a broken thumb on his left hand, it was learned here today.

The plunging Gopher fullback and former tackle received the broken thumb during the first half of last Saturday's game here with Indiana. Despite the injury, he refused to be taken out and finished the game.

BASS AND SHAD SCORE WINS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, needed only two minutes of the first round to show his overwhelming superiority of Jimmy Mendo, also of Philadelphia, at the New Arena here last night. Mendo arose at the count of nine from his second time on the canvas to be floored for the required 10 seconds. They fought at 130 pounds.

Johnny (Pee Wee) Kaiser, of St. Louis, went down four times in his 10 round bout with Eddie Shea, of Chicago for a decisive defeat. Their weights were 126 pounds.

Lou Terry, St. Louis lightweight, decisively outpointed Tony Pellegrino, of New York, in 10 rounds. Roy Logsdon, Litchfield, Ill., as easily won from Ray Palmer, St. Louis, six rounds. Both are lightweights.

Davy Abad, Panama flash, had a slight advantage in the 10-round final over Andre Routis, of France, former featherweight champion, opening up the final stanza after both men had boxed cautiously throughout. Abad weighed in at 129½ and Routis at 128.

CONGRESSMAN CRITICIZES VIOLETS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — The benching of Dave Myers, crack Negro football player of New York University, for the game with the University of Georgia Saturday, has been characterized as "disgusting" by Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem.), of New York.

In a sharp letter to President Elmer E. Brown, of N. Y. U., declared that for "Coach Meehan to bench Myers in deference to Southern racial prejudice is a slap in the face to good sportsmanship, and places you, your faculty, and New York University in a position of opprobrium." He added:

"It is for you to rescue the university from stigma by a straightforward statement repudiating the action of Meehan, a hired professional coach.

"Nor does it lie in the mouth of the University of Georgia, one of the worst offenders of football professionalism, according to the Carnegie Foundation report, to dictate as to who shall or shall not play on your team.

"As a member of Congress, and one interested in and realizing the seriousness of the Negro difficulty, I request that you intervene and prevent a fatal error."

Racing Meet, Minus Betting, Opens

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Horse racing, without betting, is to be tried here with the opening today of a 10-day meeting of the Texas Jockey Club at Arlington Downs, a plant built by W. D. Waggoner, multimillionaire oil and cattle man, in an ecort to revive racing in this state.

Waggoner, the owner of the Three D stables, has announced his determination to give Texas "racing of the highest caliber" and make it popular, although the lure of betting is absent.

"Betting on horse races is a violation of the law in the state of Texas and it will not be countenanced or tolerated at Arlington Downs," Waggoner said.

Alekhine Draws With Bogoljubow

THE HAGUE, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—The twenty-third game of the chess championship match between Dr. Alexander Alekhine, of Paris, and E. D. Bogoljubow, of Triberg, was adjourned yesterday after 40 moves. The opening was a queen's gambit declined. The score to date: Dr. Alekhine 11, Bogoljubow 5, drawn 6.

CATHOLIC U. STRONG FOE FOR DUKES

By JESS CARVER.

It is games like this coming one with old Wash-Jeff that makes Pitt chuckle to know that the Panthers are under a coach like Jock Sutherland. A coach a whit less serious minded or careful than the astute Scotchman would be just the sort to be caught with his hands up and his team socked squarely on the lug by a team as ambitious as the Prexys.

John Dreshar

When you bring a team along as far as Jock has taken Pitt this year, up to the second November game unbeaten and untied, it is high time to look out for the deluge. It is no spot for overconfidence...and especially, when you are playing clubs like the one Ray Ride and Willie Amos have welded together.

Now this guy Sutherland is the toughest gent in the world to get along with. I'd hate to have to room with him. He is never satisfied—except when his team gets licked by a touchdown or so, and then he gives them all the credit they should have rebeived for winning other tough games. He won't stand for a split second's worth of overconfidence; takes the easiest games seriously and the tough ones age him a year for every minute they last.

PRESIDENTS TOUGH

Wash-Jeff is going to give Pitt all the football it wants Saturday, and will press the Panthers harder than any other team has to date. The Presidents, strong or weak, are always tough, both for Pitt and Tech, and this fall, being very, very strong, will be correspondingly tough.

Pitt is going about its preparations for the game with the same serious attitude that it employed while prepping for Nebraska and Ohio State. As Jock is getting Dobier and Dobier (the superlative of gloomy) every day, I guess Pitt will be o. k. Saturday.

Thursday has been set as take-off day for the Dukes, who hop east this week to play Catholic University in Washington, D. C. Graduate Manager of Athletics John Holohan took time out yesterday to spike the local rumor that the Washington institution had kicked on the Dukes playing Kemp, negro tackle star, in this game.

Catholic is rated as a strong eleven in the East. Boston College and Villanova will attest to this fact, as both had extremely difficult jobs in subjugating the Washington Irish. Rutgers, and Mt. St. Marys were other strong teams that did not.

When one comes right down to it, there isn't a harder working, more versatile or much better lineman in the section that Johnny Dreshar, captain of Carnegie Tech. John plays

LOUIS WELLER

Weller is the Haskell Indian star who recently made the longest run of the collegiate football season to date. Playing against Creighton, he took the kickoff five yards behind his goal line and ran through the opposition 105 yards for a touchdown. He will play with the Haskell team against Duquesne University at Forbes Field, November 23.

Army Line Shows Weakness in Drill

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A scrimmage with the strong Plebe team yesterday revealed many weak spots in Army's line. Coach Biff Jones has hopes of strengthening the forward wall before Saturday's game with Illinois at Chicago.

With the varsity on the defensive, the Plebes broke through the line for consecutive gains of 8, 12 and 15 yards. On the next play the Plebes used the forward pass to get down to the varsity 15-yard line. Here the first string team held and the Plebes could gain no ground at all. Carver was at the first string quarterback post in place of Gilmer.

Nine Wooster Stars In Last Home Game

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 6.—Nine seniors on Wooster's football team make their final appearance in Severance Stadium next Saturday when Wooster tackles Case.

The Wooster team came through the 27-to-0 win over Oberlin in good shape physically. The problem before Coach L. C. Boles and Capt. Marion Black will be to keep down a feeling of over-confidence.

The seniors are Capt. Black, guard; Jim Bing and Jim Bishop, tackles; Kallio, Riggs Meier and Lee Donley, centers; Bob Runyan and Bill and Dave Query, backs.

MARSTERS, INJURED, OUT FOR SEASON

DARTMOUTH STAR'S GRID CAREER ENDS

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Al Marsters, Dartmouth backfield star and high scorer of the East, has played his last intercollegiate football game, Dr. John S. F. Gile, who has been treating him for the back injury received in last week's Yale game, announced today.

Dr. Gile said an x-ray disclosed that the Dartmouth quarterback was suffering from a fractured vertebrae when he limped off the Yale Bowl last Saturday. This injury, Dr. Gile said, would keep Marsters confined to the college infirmary for the next four weeks. The physician said the injury would not have any permanent effect.

The injury, however, will bring to a close the career of one of Dartmouth's greatest football heroes in the midst of his greatest season. Special Delivery Al has scored 108 points in the six games Dartmouth has played this season, a total higher than that of any other Eastern player. He was well on his way to all-America honors. Marsters started his varsity gridiron career two years ago, making a sensational debut at a halfback.

Dr. Giles said his patient was keenly disappointed, but was resting so comfortably that he would be allowed to resume his classwork soon. Special radio arrangements have been made to follow the Dartmouth team from his bedside next Saturday when it plays Brown at Providence, R. I.

guard and center, kicks off and plays the points after touchdown for Tech, and all, if the Carnegie Foundation report may be taken as a presentation of fact, for one pay check.

Dreshar is playing his second year of varsity football, and is one of the few players who have captained a Tech varsity in their junior year.

SOME GOOD ONES

There are a flock of outstanding backs in the tri-state section this fall, each school having at least one of more than ordinary ability. Parkinson and Uansa of Pitt; Karcis and Flanagan of Carnegie; Bartrug and Stumpp of West Virginia; Rodriguez and Battles of Wesleyan; Warren and Rengle of Davis Elkins; Rush and Wilson of Wash-Jeff; Knapik of Geneva; Roe of Bethany; Donnelli and Benedict of Duquesne; Berger and Garbark of Allegheny; Mitchell and Schilling of Thiel; Pusch and Wuleski of Grove City; DeMoise of Waynesburg; Dailey of St. Vincents and Billetdeaux of St. Francis are all fine players.

Lehigh supporters are looking forward with fond hopes to the Brown and White's battle with Princeton. Lehigh gave Penn a tough old ball game, and though tied by both P. M. C., and Gettysburg, have shown such improvement in its last two games that the boys feel they have an even chance with the slightly tattered Tigers.

Following are the records of the leading undefeated and untied major elevens to date. Texas is included, as the Steers have yet to be scored on, though they were held to a scoreless deadlock by Southern Methodists last week.

ST. VINCENT'S LOSES BURKE

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 6.—The chances of St. Vincent's college against the Red Flash of St. Francis received a severe setback yesterday, when Ray Burke, regular center, received an injury to his right knee that will probably keep him out of the lineup for at least two weeks.

With Burke out and Paul, second string center with a broken thumb on his right hand, Coach Crowe is hard put to find a center to use against St. Francis in the big homecoming day game next Monday. Burke's injury is only a re-occurrence of the infection that bothered him early in the season. The chances are that Crowe will shift one of his other linesmen into the center position and hope for the best. Schulk, who played center in high school, may get the call for the job, but that would leave the team without a good second string tackle to put in if Zappone is hurt in the game.

Crowe started the final week of practice with a scrimmage session of nearly one hour and finally sent the men to the showers in disgust. The layoff last week seems to have made the boys go stale and unless they snap out of it in the next few days they will have little chance against Bill Donohue's strong aggregation from Loretto. In yesterday's practice Crowe gave the men several new pass plays that he will instruct his quarterbacks to use only in case of emergency against St. Francis. Unless he is forced to use the new trick plays, Crowe will hold them for Allegheny that plays at Latrobe on the twenty-third. Two of the new plays are passes that will be used by Meehan and Capt. Dailey, the best passing combination on the squad.

Marinette is scheduled to meet the Menominee (Mich.) team November 11.

Bush, Comiskey To Confer Today

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Baseball's "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey, arranged a huddle with his new manager, Donie Bush, today to map out their campaign to rebuild the White Sox.

Although 10 minor league stars, including Smead Jolley of the San Francisco Seals, have been purchased already, Comiskey promises more purchases. It is known the White Sox are in the market for a second baseman who can do some heavy hitting, a catcher, another heavy clouting outfielder and a pair of steady pitchers.

The "Old Roman" refused to discuss current reports he was after Mark Koenig, the Yankee shortstop, and that he planned to send Bill Cissell, his shortstop, to Washington, in exchange for a right-handed pitcher, possibly Irving Hadley.

West Liberty Team Wins Four in Row

WESTON, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Considered out of the West Virginia Conferences race by a 26-0 setback at the hands of Ohio University, West Liberty, 1928 State Normal champion, has come back strong to score four consecutive victories by large margins. The Sweeney-coached team upset Beckley, Shepherd, Appalachian and Upsala by big scores to go into the state-scoring leadership.

JOLLEY, NEW SOX PLAYER, REAL STAR

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

In the event that Smead Jolley, Coast swatter, becomes a star in the American League, the National League cannot expect any sympathy for passing him up.

Donie Bush, former Pirate manager and the new pilot of the White Sox, seems to have pulled a fast one on his recent Heydler circuit pals in grabbing the colorful Smead.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has repeatedly played up Jolley as a potential star and big gate attraction, but National Leaguers, partly scared by the purchase price, have fought shy of the home-run socker.

"He is a bad fielder," was the sing-song excuse of the National League managers whenever Jolley's name ras been brought to their attention.

JOLLEY WELL NAMED

Bush, however, seems to have had a secret admiration for Big Smead, for it was at Donie's suggestion that the giant was purchased.

Bigger than Dazzy Vance and with much of the picturesque charm that encircles Ol' Dazmarine, Jolley appears to have been well named, for he exudes good nature.

Smead is quite a bit better than six feet in height and he carries upwards of 220 pounds with a degree of gracefulness; his waist is thin and his shoulders thick and wide.

The fence-buster is a southpaw swinger, and there is only one man in baseball who looks more dangerous at the plate and that is the one and only Bambino.

Smead has such an impressive physique and he carries so much power in his long arms and big shoulders that his long bat resembles a buggy whip in his hands.

GREAT FIELDER

Umpire Frank Brown, of this city, who worked a whole season in the Coast, was among those pleased in reading of the promotion of the big swatter. Brown, by the way, dissents from the managerial postscripts that Smead doesn't know how to field.

"In the first place," observed Francis, erstwhile Herron Hill sage, "Smead has one of the best arms you will find in baseball. Nobody who has seen Jolley will give me an argument on that one. He threw out more runners than any fielder in the league last year.

"I have heard the boys talk about his bad fielding; they assert that when Smead gets into a big ball park he will be a mess. The San Francisco park, I will admit, is not a fair test for any player, yet I noted that the big rightfielder was smart enough to play the caroms off the fence like a star.

"The Los Angeles ground is a big lot and I saw Smead perform like a ball hawk in that park. He's not a Speaker, but he should be able to take care of himself even in a big field like the White Sox park.

"Watch him go at the plate, brother! And the American League pitchers will soon learn that it is not safe to try to waste any pitches on that boy. He's the kind of a hitter many of us take delight in—he's a bad-ball hitter, and what I mean, he hits them to any field.

FINE DISPOSITION

"How Smead does like to reach out high and wide and slam them against the leftfield wall! Of course, the contention will be advanced that he will not be able to hit big-league pitching, but they probably said that about Ruth, O'Doul, Herman and a hundred others. I'll string along with Smead. He's got a wonderful disposition."

Smead fell off in his home-run hitting this year, yet he was able to click off 38 of these round-trippers. Smead tagged the rocket for 18 three-baggers and 62 doubles as he batted .385.

Jolley was even more convincing in 1928 when he batted .404, he collecting the unusual total of 45 homers.

Smead is about 26. He seems to be the serious-minded type that takes advantage of an opportunity. He is very likely to become a favorite with White Sox fans.

The Chicago management did not announce the purchase price on Jolley, but it had to be a generous amount. Two players also are to be sent to the Seals under the terms of the purchase.

LEHIGH BEGINS DRIVE

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Lehigh began its drive to get in shape for the Princeton game yesterday. During the practice the coaches were trying to solve the problem which has arisen through the injury of Stutz, whose dislocated shoulder will keep him out of the game for the rest of the year. The indications were that Tommy Ayre, veteran guard, will be shifted to Stutz's position at center, alternating with Joe McLernon.

FRIEDMAN STARS IN WIN OVER BUFFALO

BUFFALO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Benny Friedman's passing and the powerful New York Giant line spelled defeat for the Buffalo Professional Football team at Bison Stadium yesterday, the visitors piling up a score of 45 to 6 for the Bisons.

The game was featured by long runs, a thrilling punting duel between Hagberg, of the Bisons, and Wilson, of the Giants.

Flaherty and Plansky scored twice each for the visitors, while other touchdowns were made by Feather, Sedbrook and Hagerty. Friedman's only three tries for the added points were successful. Ryan scored Buffalo's lone touchdown, racing 40 yards after receiving a pass from Hagberg.

STAPLETON, PROVIDENCE TIE

STAPLETON, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Stapleton and Providence battled to a 7-7 tie in a hotly contested National Professional Football League game here yesterday.

Providence scored in the first period, Jack Williams taking the ball over for a touchdown. Jack McBride kicked the extra point. Ken Strong, former New York University star, picked up a blocked kick and ran 50 yards for Stapleton's touchdown in the third period and then kicked the extra point to tie the score. Later he made two attempts at field goals, but both failed.

Doug Wykoff, one-time Georgia Tech player, was stricken with appendicitis just before the game, leaving Stapleton with only five backfield men available for use.

Landis to Attack Barnstorming Stars

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, threatens to "say something of importance" about barnstorming players who advertise themselves and then do not appear to play when he attends the National League meeting at Chattanooga, Tenn., next month.

"I haven't received any formal protests yet," he said, "but I may have something of importance to say at the meeting."

GRID TEAMS PREP FOR SATURDAY'S GAMES

STATE GETS READY FOR PENN

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Announcement that Al Marsters had played his last intercollegiate football game overshadowed all other developments on eastern gridirons yesterday.

The Dartmouth quarterback, highest scoring player in the country, suffered a back injury in the Yale game that will keep him out of football for the rest of the year. Since he is a senior, the Yale game marked his final collegiate appearance.

Despite the crushing blow, the Dartmouth team went to work with a will as hard work began for the contest with Brown Saturday. Tommy Longnecker, who relieved Marsters when he was injured, will start at quarterback against Brown.

Meanwhile Brown took things easy as Coach Tuss McLaughry is taking no chances of further injuries among his first string players.

Penn State went through a scrimmage in preparation for Pennsylvania, but the Penn squad took a drill of barely an hour

Harvard, which meets Michigan at Ann Arbor, heard Billy Murray, captain of the 1919 team, lecture on Michigan plays. After this the squad was given individual instruction.

ARMY PLAYS PLEBES

Army, which tackles Illinois at Champaign, Ill., scrimmaged with the plebes, and Coach Biff Jones found the varsity line very weak. The plebes bored through for long gains in midfield, but ran into a sturdy defense down around the 15-yard varsity line.

While Head Coach Joe McKenny spent the day scouting Fordham, which played a scoreless tie with West Virginia, Boston College's squad went through long individual drills in preparation for the battle with the New Yorkers on Saturday. Neither Fordham nor Boston College has been beaten, but both have been tied.

Princeton's regulars enjoyed another day of rest, but Lehigh, next opponent of the Tigers, put in a strenuous day at Bethlehem, Pa. Yale, after a day of rest, returned to the practice field for a light workout in preparation for Maryland.

Gil Dobie, dissatisfied with his Cornell team's tackling, gave the varsity a long drill on fundamentals. After the game with Western Reserve, Cornell must face Dartmouth and Penn and Dobie wants his team on its toes.

Chick Meehan spent the day at New York University trying to find a substitute for Charley Marshall, end, and best kicker on the Violet squad. Meehan hopes to find a satisfactory solution to his problem before the game with Georgia. Georgetown and Navy both had long workouts.

HANLEY PUSHES WILDCATS

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Northwestern's Giant Killers, who stopped the Big Ten football championship habit of Illinois, conspired last night to drop another championship contender, Ohio State.

Coach Dick Hanley pushed his Wildcats through a long drill on fundamentals, delivered an oration on overconfidence and then began development of a defense to stop the Holman-to-Fesler passing combination, which has made the Buckeye a contender for the Big Ten gridiron crown.

The varsity took the defensive all during practice against the yearlings in scrimmage and broke up the mock Ohio State aerial attack consistently. Coach Hanley indicated he would use Bill Griffin, a light, but speedy ball carrier, in the backfield Saturday, and that a fast running attack would be employed.

Penn Squad Gets Light Practice

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—John Olson was at right tackle when the University of Pennsylvania football team resumed practice yesterday for Penn State Saturday.

Olson, a tall youth who pulls an oar for the Penn crew, was playing in the place of Curtis Morris. The change does not mean that Olson will start against Penn State.

Coach Lou Young is resorting to the rest cure to beat State College. Although he excused his team from practice Monday, he drilled them only an hour yesterday.

19,000 AT FIGHT

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—The 10-round bout between Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin at the Chicago Stadium Monday night attracted 19,524 cash customers, who paid $88,697.19 gross, the State Boxing Commission revealed yesterday.

GORE WINS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Dick Gore, 148¼, Jacksonville, scored an unimpressive 10-round victory over Jimmy Decapua, 147, of Flint, Mich., here last night.

Square Garden next Monday night. They have been working in the Motor Square gym and in the Braddock Library recently, but find they cannot get the proper sparring partners in those places. Buck meets Farmer Joe Cooper in the main bout at the Garden Monday night and Panka will be in the second bout against an opponent to be selected. Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, and Chet Smallwood, of Akron, box in the eight-round semi-final and Tarzan Joe Poole, of Lawrenceville, will be on with Walter Ketchel, of Detroit, in the six-round opener.

AMATEURS OPEN TOURNEY

The annual West Penn amateur championship tournament gets under way in the McKeesport arena tonight with the staging of the preliminaries in all classes. The semi-finals and finals are scheduled for tomorrow night.

The boxing show carded for Franklin, Pa., tonight has been postponed until Wednesday night of next week because of an injury to Frisco Grande, of Buffalo, booked to meet Marty Gold, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout.

Another all-star amateur boxing show will be staged tonight by the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., of the North Side, in its winter quarters, St. Andrew's Lyceum, Chateau street. Eight bouts are listed.

It develops that the Jackie Rodgers-Carl Cavelli semi-final at the Moose Club Friday night was planned before Cavelli joined Rodgers as a member of the "Those Who Have Knocked Out Dap Billick in the First Round Club" in the semi-final at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, although it was not signed until after that battle. Promotor Flynn talked over the match with the manager of Cavelli on Monday afternoon and it was agreed to close the affair in the evening. With one more bout, the opener, still to be arranged, Flynn has put together the best all-round program of his career at the Moose Club. He has Hans Roberts, the German, and Dominick Profio, Cecil Italian, in the 10-round windup and Frank Monroe, of Fair Haven, and Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa., middleweights, whose first meeting in the same ring a month ago was a scorcher, in the second event.

Benny Bass and Eddie Reed, Negro featherweight, have been matched to box the main bout at the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night.

WINDSOR IN FLORIDA BOUT

Johnny Windsor, local middleweight, goes to the post against Bobby Cox, in a 10-round bout inaugurating his annual winter Florida campaign, at Jacksonville, tonight.

Herman Folins, Ambridge featherweight, has been turned over by Lew Brown, who started him out boxing in New York, to Giddy Glitz, of Newark, N. J., where Folins has done most of his battling recently.

The boxing show at the Washington (Pa.) Coliseum next Monday night (Armistice Day) will get under way at 8 o'clock because of the length of the program. Mickey Fedor, of Canton, O., and Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, box the 10-round main bout and Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, is in with Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., in the six-round semi-final. Joe Walcott, of Washington, boxes Johnny Brown, of New Castle, and Paul Bailint, of Pittsburgh, is paired with Jackie Coogan, of Canton, in preliminaries. Two more bouts may be arranged to make the program a gala one.

Jimmy Belmont and Rudy Ceder will box the windup at the Moose Temple Friday night of next week. It is a return battle, Ceder having won decisively over Belmont in a bout at the Meyers Bowl during the outdoor season.

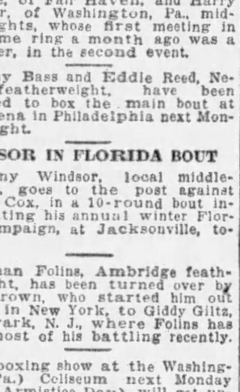
with special prizes for best games, high runs, best averages and grand averages. Balkline needs some tonic of this sort. The three-cushion game owes its growth in popularity to league play and there is no reason why balkline should not profit in the same way through extended competition and sustained interest. Tournaments are too short and the lapses between them too long to keep the game going briskly.



Eugene Huat

THOUGH the first series of matches in the New York tournament to determine the world flyweight champion produced one big upset in the defeat of Willie Davies by Black Bill, they ran true to dope in another respect when Eugene Huat, of France, gave Izzy Schwartz such a severe beating that Schwartz later announced his retirement from the ring. Huat (pronounced Oo-ah) had looked like championship stuff when he knocked out Spider Pladner and Frenchy Belanger, and he lived up to that promise against Schwartz on Monday night. Calling him a "second Jimmy Wilde" may be stretching things a bit right now, but in a general sense he shapes up as a contender whom it will be hard to stop from winning the title eventually. He is 22 years old, stands 5 feet 4¾ inches in height, and has a pair of shoulders like a lightweight, which is the secret of his punching power. He doesn't cock his right hand, when he hits with it, but shoots his punch seemingly straight from his nose. As an amateur he won 60 bouts in two years, and he was his own manager for 20 fights after he turned pro.

TORONTO ICE TEAM LOOMS AS FAVORITE

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Toronto has not had a professional hockey championship since the old St. Pats captured the Stanley cup in 1922, but each year since then word has gone out to watch Toronto. The warning can be repeated again this year. Connie Smythe has assembled what is considered the strongest team in years for the Maple Leafs and Toronto's fans are hoping for a return of the Stanley cup, or at least a championship of the National Hockey League.

In the 1928-29 season, Smythe's skaters coasted into third place in the international group, trounced Detroit in the first playoff series and gave the New York Rangers a terrific battle before they were eliminated in the semi-final of the Stanley cup series.

ADDS FOUR PLAYERS

The Leafs suffered a cruel blow during the summer when Shorty Horne, one of their most brilliant young players, was drowned in Northern Ontario, but otherwise last year's aggregation is intact. Smythe, the most noted trader among the major league managers, has added four young players who appear to be good major league prospects.

In the nets, Toronto has Lorne Chabot, a fine goalie who has been handicapped by injuries in the past two seasons, with Benny Grant as a capable though inexperienced substitute. The Leaf defense is composed of three tried veterans Art Duncan, Happy Day and Art Smith, and one good younger player, the fast and fiery Red Horner. Day, who again is the unanimous choice of the players as captain of the team, and Duncan, are the first-string defense men. With this rugged lineup in the defense zone, Smythe has few fears that his opponents will score too often, even with a new set of rules designed to bring more goals.

Among the forwards, the name of Irvin (Ace) Bailey, right wingman, leads all the rest. Bailey led the National League scorers last year and Smythe has kept him despite the temptations of large monetary offers for his services. Bailey is ably supported in the Toronto first string forward line by Andy Blair, tall center, and Danny Cox, at left wing. All three have youth and speed and are willing to pass to their mates as well as shoot goals themselves.

COTTON BACK

Two products of last year's trades, Harold Cotton, formerly of Pittsburgh, and Eric Pittenger, the rugged blonde Viking who came to Toronto from Boston, are the reserve forwards who have played with the Leafs before. Joe Primeau was tried out last season and shipped to London in the Canadian (now International) Professional League for seasoning. He is back again, apparently to stay.

The other Toronto newcomers are Charley Conacher, younger brother of the famous Lionel, player-manager of the New York Americans, Cliff McBride and Gordon Brydson. Conacher was the star of the Toronto Marlboros, Canadian junior champions last season. McBride was a leading player of the Windsor Bulldogs, winner of the Canadian pro title in 1928-29. Brydson, who serves as an assistant golf professional at a local club during the summer, also comes from the Canadian pro league, where he played with Buffalo last year.

Harvard Eleven In Light Workout

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—The Harvard varsity football team engaged in a light workout here in preparation for Michigan after listening to Billy Murray, 1919 Harvard captain and quarterback, lecture on Michigan plays.

The former Crimson star has been scouting the Maize and Blue eleven all season.

Head Coach Arnold Horween refrained from all contact work and the coaches spent the afternoon giving individual instruction to the players before the team took the field, each Harvard player was given a new uniform for Saturday's game.

Horween made several changes in his varsity lineup during the signal drill which ended the session. He made so many changes that observers were unable to learn much about his starting lineup. All of the regulars and first string replacements had a part in the action and the only sure starters appeared to be Capt. Red Barrett at left guard; Ben Ticknor at center, and Wally Harper at fullback.

Harvard will have a light workout today and depart for Ann Arbor tomorrow afternoon. The Crimson team will be accompanied by the band and about 500 supporters.

Villa Nova Gets Set for Bucknell

VILLA NOVA, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher has practically decided upon using his "shock troops" which consist of the second team, when his Villa Nova College football eleven tackles Bucknell University in their annual game at Scranton on Saturday.

Stuhldreher sent his reserves through a stiff drill yesterday and the second string line and backs broke up the Bucknell formations which were being used by the freshmen with unexpected ease.

It is Struhldreher's plan to hold the regulars until the start of the second period and then send them into the game.

Queen, in Apron, Starts Packing For Christmas

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Queen Mary, who returned to Buckingham Palace from Sandringham with the king, lost no time starting her Christmas activities.

Hardly had the court settled down in the palace before the queen motored to the Imperial institute where her needle work guild is functioning. Removing her hat and coat, she put on an apron and dust cap and began to unpack parcels and sort out goods.

She was so busy that she didn't stop for lunch but had a snack sent in from the palace. Then she and her helpers had a bite in the screened off part of the big hall and returned to their work when the big clock chimed one.

FANS PROTEST WEST PENN PARTIALITY

By TOM BIRKS.

Manager Ferguson, of the Jeannette F. C., has extended thanks to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for its effort to bring out for soccerdom in general the deplorable conditions existing locally in soccer, and how most of the soccer clubs are being hampered by petty politics among a few of the officials conducting the game in this district. It will be noticed that Jeannette forfeited to Lewis F. C. in the West Penn cup last Sunday, and it is reported that the Jeannette club got a poor deal, and that the matter should be brought before the national body.

However, by this time the National body is probably sick and tired of listening to teams in Western Pennsylvania tell how they have been hooked, so little attention is paid to them.

We are sorry that Manager Ferguson's letter is too long to put in this column. He asks that it be printed, but space will not permit it. But this column sympathizes with Manager Ferguson, and Jeannette should take the lesson to heart.

NEW ANGLE

This Glendale question took a nice angle during the week end. This column brought out the fact that Glendale played an unregistered player, named McAlwee, and Glendale stated that McAlwee was signed, or at least on the list, but by his nickname. That ought to get a laugh out of the boys who can pull the wool over the eyes of the local governing body, and they got away with it until Pierpoint Motors scored one more goal than Glendale did in the last round.

Frank Mincher, of the Clan Douglas club, certainly is ranting regarding matters in this district. Douglas was scheduled to meet Heidelberg in the West Penn cup last Sunday. Of course, the game was not played because some busybody took another crack at Balsarini. In fact, Heidelberg was the only game protested last Sunday. But no one notified Douglas. But what got under the Wilkinsburg man's skin was the scheduling of the junior game to precede the cup tie. Mincher knows enough soccer to fight this idea of spanking Balsarini, because it was also hitting Clan Douglas. For many years it was an unwritten law to have a preliminary soccer game to a cup tie.

The Pierpoint club kicks in with a statement regarding the Cecil game. When the Motors outfit was ordered by the delegates to pay the Cecil club $25 for a bus, and Pierpoint stated that the bus was only used for the transportation of the supporters.

GREAT SETUP

However, the delegate was the king pin, and pay or get out of the competition was the ultimatum. Pierpoint's claim was that the Cecil players all came in automobiles and that the bus arrived loaded with fans just as the game was about to start. But seeing there is plenty of money around Homewood playgrounds and that a large crowd watched the game, $25 was the assessment and it was paid.

Many years ago, when Sam Parks was secretary of the West Penn Football Association, there was a hue and cry that he had a personal interest in the Pittsburgh Soccer Club, and that many persons tried to force him to quit the secretary's position. Now fans are asking how many secretarial positions does the present secretary of the West Penn hold. It is acknowledged that the Chartiers Valley League and the Pittsburgh Celtics Soccer Club also take up part of his time, and it seems from the lack of communications going around when the West Penn meets, that the president of the West Penn Football Association should insist that one job should be done right.

TALLMAN COPS MEDAL AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—David N. Tallman, of Minneapolis, 1928 senior Western golf champion, yesterday won the medal in the qualifying round of the twenty-fifth autumn tournament, turning in a card of 82. Tallman went out in 43, and came back in 39.

E. L. Schofield, of New York, finished in second place with 84, made up of an outward nine of 45 and an inward count of 39.

Several withdrawals before play cut the field somewhat, the most prominent absentee from the original entry list being Halbert U. Blue, of Aberdeen, N. C.

Three tied for last place in the championship division with 90. These were Henry G. Frost, of Cincinnati, William Sutherland, of Glencoe, Ill., and Winthrow Williams, of New York. Williams saved the necessity of a play-off by electing to go in the second division.

Results of play in the championship division: D. N. Tallman, Minneapolis, 43-39—82; E. L. Scofield, New York, 45-39—84; M. M. Lord, Jackson Heights, L. I., 43-45—88; E. A. Guggenheim, New York, 44-44—88; W. C. Banta, Ridgewood, N. J., 47-43—90; R. J. Breed, Danvers, Mass., 46-44—90; Henry G. Frost, Cincinnati, 48-42—90; William Southerland, Glencoe, Ill., 48-44—92.

St. Bonaventure Tops Canisius Eleven, 26-7

BUFFALO, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Butch Skierkowsky from the Pennsylvania coal mines, was the particular bright star of the St. Bonaventure's College eleven yesterday in the traditional Election Day game with Canisius. The Bonnies 26-to-7 victory was due largely to Skierkowsky's work.

In three periods the Pennsylvanian fought the Canisius line, being laid out four times before he finally had to leave the game. Gildea and Marty Fisher staged a brilliant punting duel for St. Bonaventure throughout the game and Jack Gallagher's work at tackle was outstanding for Canisius. The score by periods:

St. Bonaventure	7	0	6	13	—26
Canisius	0	7	0	0	— 7

'Pink Oysters' Get Official Approval

ALBANY, N. Y.—(INS.)—The New York department of agriculture and markets has placed its stamp of approval on "pink oysters."

"Pink oysters are as wholesome as those of normal color," the department announced. "The pinkish color in oysters which usually cause dealers to throw away or destroy the consignment, is due to bilirubin."

A 10-year investigation has been carried on by chemists in an effort to find out why oysters turn pink.

Seven Await Trial On Murder Charges

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 6.—Seven murder cases, the largest number at any single term in several years, will be tried at the November term of Criminal Court next Tuesday. Those charged with murder are: Sam Statis, Michael Harboth, Bessie McDonald, Guiseppe Cacciabive, P. H. Kemerer, Edward Shearer, John Mannie.

Lafayette Drills For Rutgers Tilt

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Lafayette was sent through a gruelling afternoon of live scrimmage yesterday as Coach Herb McCracken whipped his Maroons into shape for the game with Rutgers.

Etter, of Highspire, Pa., was being drilled to fill the vacancy created by the injury to Woodfin, and will be used at the fullback position. At the same time, Thompson, Fuehrer and Wilcox were put to work kicking to prepare them for handling the punting which Woodfin has done so well.

Lasich Returns To Lion Backfield

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP.—George Lasich, fullback, was in his usual place yesterday when the Penn State squad went through its first scrimmage of the week. It had been feared that the injury suffered by Lasich at Syracuse might keep him out of the Penn game this week, but examination by college physicians revealed that the fullback's injury was not serious.

Red Duval, sub-tackle, was in the varsity line, replacing Panaccion, who is nursing a slight injury.

SHORTER HOURS WELCOME TO STREET

Week's Total of Only 14 Hours Will Permit Offices To Clear Tangled Accounts

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Another welcome relief for overworked stock brokers and their armies of efficient helpers was afforded by the closing, not only of the stock markets yesterday, but the banks, clearing houses, commodity exchanges and most of the wholesale and retail mercantile houses.

Wall street clerks and cashiers were bending over their books today in another desperate effort to clear the decks for today.

By action of the governors of the stock exchange, the trading hours of the big board were reduced this week to a total of 14, embracing a full day on Monday, the election holiday on Tuesday, three hours each on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and a shutdown Saturday. Normally the week contains 27 trading hours, five for each of the full sessions and two on Saturday.

RECORDS CONFUSED

Monday, after a three-day shutdown, chaotic conditions prevailed in many of the big trading offices. It was still impossible for thousands of small traders to edge their way near enough to the brokers' windows either to place an order or to receive information as to "how they stood" on the books. Lack of information of this kind is a considerable handicap to these speculators and it is to the interests of broker and traders alike to compare records as promptly as possible in order to avoid confusion in the future.

The stock market gave another demonstration, on the reopening this week, of its ability to move entirely contrary to the expectation of many of the "wise ones" in Wall street and elsewhere. Instead of the further skyrocketing of speculative stocks, prices slipped off 2 to 15 points.

LITTLE BUYERS GOT "BREAK"

The explanation of this apparent stubborness was plain to those who appreciate the mechanics of the big market. Thousands of professionals and outside traders who had purchased stocks at the low prices of last Tuesday and Wednesday were ready to take their profits, and, without naming prices specifically, offered their stocks for sale at Monday's opening. The dribbling odd-lot buying orders of the public, which stirred up so much enthusiasm in bullish circles, were insignificant when matched against the thousand-share lots of the professionals and big interests in the speculative markets.

Those who placed "market" buying orders blindly, at the opening, received a better "break" than they themselves had expected, and the favorable basis on which stocks were distributed to these investors and speculators offers good ground for the expectation of a firm and steady market in the last two months of the year.

BUSINESS IMPROVED

There has been a great benefit to American trade and industry by the releasing of approximately $2,000,000,000 of bank credit and outside money loans from the call loan market. These funds, which were by the best banking opinion seriously misplaced, will now be free to enter into business and industrial activities of various kinds, to be "useful around the place" instead of forming the underpinning of an unhealthy inflation of speculative stock prices.

From every standpoint the business situation has improved, but those who think they can make money by rushing into the stock market with their eyes closed still have a great deal to learn. Most of the "easy money" of the last three years has evaporated, and the old Wall street maxim about the public being "able to make money but unable to keep it" is as true to form today as it was 50 years ago.

RAIL EXTENSION CONTINUES

CHARLEROI, Pa., Nov. 6.—Construction work on the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad extension through this district, continued today, despite reports of the sale of the company to the Pennsylvania Railroad subsidiary, the Penroad Company. Officials in charge indicated that the sale will have little influence on present contracts.

The second section of the link, from the river eastward to Connellsville, has not yet been put under contract, it was learned. Preparations are being made to start this end of the construction shortly.

Local Retail Sales Up for Nine Months

A compilation by the Chamber of Commerce of data received from the Federal Reserve Bank shows that September retail sales in Pittsburgh were slightly less than in the same month of 1928—the decrease being 1.9 per cent. However, considering the period from January to September, inclusive, sales here this year show an increase of 2.2 per cent over the same period of last year.

The average increase in the midwestern (Pittsburgh) section for the January-September period is much greater than the average in other sections, although some sections have many more reporting cities.

In Pittsburgh 65.2 per cent of all September retail sales were on regular charge accounts and 6.5 per cent of all sales were installment sales.

In exchange of securities, stockholders will receive the same number of shares now held but the character of the stocks will be changed.

It will also have authorized common stock of 500,000 shares of no par value. Preferred and common holders are asked to deposit stock with the Commonwealth Trust Company by December 4. The deposit agreement may be extended to April 1, 1930, at which time if 65 per cent of the stock has not been deposited, original shares will be returned.

No consideration is given to a refund of income tax, amounting to $84,210.

FABRICATORS IN MARKET NOW

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 6.—Fabricators continue to be substantial consumers of primary steel products in this district. Principal steel users are: Truscon Steel, General Fireproofing Company, Powell Pressed Steel Company, Youngstown Steel Door Car Company, Youngstown Pressed Steel Company, Mullins Body Corporation, Transue and Williams Company, Morgan Engineering Company, Commercial Shearing and Stamping Company, Youngstown Boiler and Tank Company, and others.

Most of these interests have either expanded or are involved in enlargement of capacity.

General Fireproofing starts this month a new department to manufacture aluminum office chairs.

Youngstown Pressed Steel is planning an addition to produce enameled ware. The company is now producing pressed steel parts for about 22 different manufacturers of electric washing machines.

At Salem, the Mullins Company is likewise a large maker of pressed steel parts for washing machines.

More and more primary steel makers are developing further outlets for their production. Sheet and Tube interests dominate the Youngstown Steel Car Door Company a steady user of steel plates. Sheet and Tube also controls a number of subsidiaries engaged in operating stores selling oil country goods.

Republic Iron and Steel has arranged to purchase Union Drawn Steel Company, consuming annually 250,000 tons of steel bars and other steel products. It is building a mechanical tubing plant at Warren, which will produce pipe from strip steel, and has made other strides in this direction.

Electrical Goods In Steady Demand

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A steady tone prevails in the market for electrical equipment and apparatus. The violent agitation in the stock market exerted no unfavorable influence on buying and business is holding up well in practically all sections of the country, Electrical World reports.

The end of October in the Eastern district carries encouraging aspects; demand for equipment is good, excellent market stability and advancing strength in inquiries. The last-named gives a healthy tone to the outlook for at least 30 days to come, although industrial and railway accounts are expected to taper off slightly in that time.

Commission Denies P. & W. Va. Petition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today denied the petition of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad for permission to intervene in the application of the Van Sweringen controlled Nickle Plate Railroad for authority to issue $20,000,000 of short term notes. The object of the note issue is to finance the purchase of Wheeling and Lake Erie stock now in the hands of a trustee.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 11 to 19 points. There was considerable trade buying at the start, but selling was heavy and prices soon weakened further with December selling off to 17.44 and March to 17.86, or about 22 to 38 points net lower. The weakness in New Orleans and Liverpool, while the New York market was closed yesterday, seemed to be partly accountable for liquidation. There was also considerable southern hedging during the early trading. Prices were within a point or two of the lowest at the end of the first half-hour.

Three more private crop reports were published, one placing the indicated yield at 15,079,000, another at 15,003,000 and the third at 15,020,000. The trend towards slightly increased estimates of the crop was probably a factor on the decline.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 6.—Cotton-spot in better demand; prices lower; American strict good middling 10.45; good middling 10.05; strict middling 9.85; middling 9.65; strict low middling 9.50; low middling 9.30; strict good ordinary 8.90; good ordinary 8.50. Sales, 8,000 bales, including 4,200 American. Receipts, 5,000; American 2,000. Futures closed barely steady; December, 9.31; January, 9.36; March, 9.45; May, 9.55; July, 9.59; October, 9.55.

STOCK DROP HELD AID TO BUSINESS

Funds Become Available for Industries and Railroads, Administration Points Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—A great revival of the bond and mortgage market, with a consequent expansion in industry and public works, will follow the stock market upheaval, according to an official survey of the situation.

Leaders of the Hoover administration pointed out with keen satisfaction that while the stock market has passed through a distinct crisis, the business structure was left unaffected. It was classed as an unprecedented phenomenon. The soundness of the Federal Reserve System was given full credit for preventing a possible panic.

AID IN DEVELOPMENTS

The so-called crash of the stock market, it was pointed out, will actually create a healthy condition, particularly in the interior, instead of retarding development. This is because money which has recently been poured into the stock market for purely speculative purposes will now be turned into the bond and mortgage market, it was said.

Great industries, the railroads and others, which have contemplated bond issues for improvements for the last year or six months have not put their bonds on the market because of the high interest rates and the comparative unattractiveness of such securities to the public. Now the bonds will be floated and great enterprises get under way, it was stated.

CONTRAST TO 1907

Causes for the recent break in the market were explained by the fact that there was an over-capitalization, or centralization of money in New York. When the downward trend started, banks from the interior of the United States and foreign banks recalled their money from New York. This, it was stated, made money for purely speculative purposes difficult to obtain, but where it went to the interior banks it was available at normal rates of interest for the purchase of gilt-edge securities.

The situation was contrasted with that in 1907-08, the years of the "great panic." The collapse of the stock market then affected every business in the United States and interest rates jumped as high as 300 per cent in some instances. In the recent situation, it was pointed out, the stock market was completely isolated from the business structure and the so-called crash was limited to speculation. This was due, it was stated, to the Federal Reserve organization and the basic soundness of American business.

Stock Prices Crash — Local Market Steady

STOCKS CRASH IN 3-HOUR SESSION

Steady Selling Stream Wipes Out Most of Last Week's Gains—Losses 5 to 30

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP.)—The reaction in stock prices, which started at the opening of today's market, continued without interruption throughout the three-hour trading session today, wiping out most of the ground recovered in the closing days of last week, and carrying many stocks below the low levels established in the drastic break a week ago yesterday. Net declines in most of the active issues ranged from 5 to nearly 30 points, with larger declines in a few specialties.

Except for the publication of a disappointing weekly freight traffic report for the week ended October 26, there were no new developments over the election day holiday to account for the renewal of selling pressure, several increased and extra dividends were announced during the day, and most of the leading chain systems showed substantial increases in their October sales reports made public today.

Call money renewed unchanged at 6 per cent and the time money market was dull with 6 per cent the ruling rate for all maturities.

The close checking-up of accounts over the week-end apparently had disclosed a number of additional weak spots which were being cleaned out today. Wall street also believed that some support stock bought last week was being liquidated, and that there was heavy selling by traders who bought stocks at the opening Monday in anticipation of a big rise that day as a result of widely published reports that there had been a huge accumulation of buying orders over the week-end.

The ticker, which was keeping abreast of the market in the early trading, was about an hour late at the close. The closing was weak.

Continental Can Earnings Up 38%

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Continental Can Company for nine months ended September 30 showed an increase of 38 per cent in net income. Sales and earnings for 1929 will be the greatest in its history, President Conway stated: "With inventories of the company reduced to the minimum, ample working capital and a small carryover of canned goods from the current year's packs, and with general business continuing satisfactory, further growth and improvement is expected in 1930."

Building Contracts Higher for Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—New building and engineering work contracted for between October 26 and 31, in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains had a total value of $93,644,400, compared with $88,127,500 in the preceding week and $78,623,400 for the corresponding period last year, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Responding to stock market breaks and to lower quotations on wheat at Liverpool the wheat market here underwent early setbacks today. Approach of time for liquidating the big open interest in December wheat contracts here in the face of an unprecedented domestic visible supply acted as a further weight on wheat values. Opening ⅝ to 1⅛ off, Chicago wheat later showed additional downturns and then rallied. Corn developed strength, starting ⅛ to ⅜ lower, but after scoring gains. Oats were easy. Provisions declined.

Although wheat sympathized much of the time today with downturns in stock exchange values, announcement of continued better export demand for wheat from North America helped give Chicago wheat prices notable power to rally. Houses with connections northwest led in the buying of Chicago wheat future deliveries which broadened out to an enormous volume after a paucity of bidding at first. Meanwhile, the seaboard advised of a good wheat business overnight with Europe, and of heavy bookings of trans-Atlantic vessel-room.

Word that railroads had removed embargoes on shipments of wheat to Galveston and to other points on the Gulf of Mexico, tended further at times to stimulate speculative buyers in Chicago. Moreover, the Liverpool wheat market, which early had shown unexpected weakness, was prompt to follow price rallies on this side of the Atlantic, Liverpool future deliveries closing today at only ⅛ to ⅝ pence net decline. After Liverpool closed, the Chicago wheat market was showing more than 2 cents a bushel advance from the day preceding bottom figure.

FIREPROOFINGS UP IN LOCAL TRADING

Both Issues Advance in Response to Statement On Change in Capital

National Fireproofing common and preferred moved ahead in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, reflecting the announcement that the company plans a change in the capital set-up.

Fireproofing preferred advanced about 2 points in the initial trading, while the common followed along with a similar gain. Details of the capital change will be found in another column of this section. The street had been expecting favorable news in connection with the Fireproofing dividend, but the capital reorganization came as a surprise to most traders. Both stocks have been strong for several months in response to steady improvement in operating conditions, and it is said considerable buying of investment character has been in progress.

The general list here opened steady and there was a mild show of strength in the early trading. This did not last, however, and as the New York market continued its downward movement, the local issues sold off in sympathy. Recessions ranged from one to three and four points in the active industrials.

INCOME PROPER GAUGE FOR BUYERS

Wall Street Debacle Makes Americans Turn Back to Thoughts of Investments

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—With the recent prolonged financial joyride over, the time has come for the American people to become investment minded again.

Under the stimulus of a seemingly non-stop bull market, investors forgot their old standards, and began to emphasize in securities only prospects of appreciation. So-called investment trusts as well as individuals figured earnings in terms of trading profits and capital appreciation on paper rather than in the more enduring terms of dividends and interest received.

The British people, whose experience in finance dates back further, think of their private wealth in terms of income; rather than principal. More conservative Americans, who saved something out of the recent debacle, are on cool second thought getting some satisfaction out of the fact that, though the principal value of their estate has shrunken, the prospects for the same or larfer amounts in dividends and interest are good. Of course, in the last analysis the justification of a portfolio of securities must be income. Speculation for the rise was merely an attempt to anticipate the time when the income return would be larger.

DIVIDEND YIELDS

The British are more inclined than Americans to buy shares on the basis of dividend yield. In sober times, Americans look beyond dividends to the full earning power of a corporation. The American system of considering earnings is perhaps wiser, put under the stress of hysterical bulling of stocks the public started to multiply the price-earnings ratio to hitherto unthought of proportions.

Stressing the importance of income, one investment house has sent out this timely message:

"The true index of wealth is not market value of principal, but income therefrom. The investor who has so indexed his wealth is not concerned by market fluctuations."

The significance of this changed viewpoint now is that investors can prudently take advantage of the prevailing discouragement to pick up securities which are cheap in terms of earnings, dividend yield, and long-term business prospects. Outright purchases made in such a spirit will be sound, irrespective of intermediate fluctuations. On the other hand, the person who insists on safety of principal above all else during these nervous times can still best find what he wants in the bond market, where bargains abound, in view of the changed outlook in respect to the price of money.

INSURANCE GOOD

Of course if a wealthy man would die at this time, the liquidation value of his estate would be seriously reduced. There is accordingly a rare opportunity now to sell life insurance to men of means to assure that their estate will be unimpaired in respect to principal in case they should die before the next bull market. Incidentally, conditions are also ripe for alert insurance vendors to sell annuities to individuals of means as a hedge against their own speculative mistakes.

An enterprising advertising agency gives the key to proper conduct. It hints at the futility of crying over milk spilled in Wall Street.

"All right, mister," it serves notice on Mr. Average Man, "now that the headache's over, let's go to work!"

Perhaps there has been a long term gain in dispelling the notion that the key to wealth was in speculation, rather than in good old fashioned working and saving.

"For the last few weeks," this agency—Erwin, Wasey & Co.—points out, "a good part of business America has drifted away from the work bench to cock an excited eye at the biggest crap game the world has ever seen.

"In fact, all too many of our amateur economists have taken literally the engaging admonition: 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet!'

"The time comes when the best handler of the rolling dominoes cannot make another pass, and the arrival of that time is signaled by the crash through the margins of the finest bunch of industrial securities that ever declared an extra.

PRETTY WELL OVER

"Well, that's that—and it's pretty well all over, except for an occasional bird who has lost everything but his ego, and who hurls himself from a high window with cimplete disregard for the busy people who are really going somewhere on the sidewalks below."

The argument concluded with a statement that the normal economic life of the country would go on, with continued demand for attractive merchandise.

The decision of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange to limit the remaining trading days this week to three three-hour sessions was wise and necessary. Under existing conditions, the Stock Exchange is equipped to do a capacity business of about 5,000,000 shares a day. The new tickers can keep abreast of the market in a 7,000,000 share day, but thus far they have been only partly distributed around the street, and meantime they are compelled to follow the pace of the slow tickers. The curtailment of the trading will enable the clerical workers to catch up on business transacted during the record days, when the public demanded twice as much service as Wall street was geared up to give.

Price Cutting Started, Must Not Run Riot

By B. C. FORBES

PRICE-CUTTING has set in. Ford started the price ball rolling downhill. The Radio Corporation of America, Atwater Kent, Majestic and Colonial announce substantial reductions. One prominent rug manufacturer has taken similar action. Various commodities have declined. And the subject of lowering prices is very much in the air.

When warranted by savings in production cost, the reducing of prices is healthy and tends to encourage consumption.

But nothing could do more harm to business than indiscriminate slashing of prices and profits by manufacturers and merchants taking alarm over events in Wall street and the possible unfavorable consequences. Therefore, it is extremely desirable that sellers will not lose their heads and injured their own business as well as our national prosperity.

PROFITS are as neecessary for a business as wages are to an employe. Many stockholders need "living dividends" just as workers need "living wages."

To carry on business without a profit would be as foolish as expecting wage earners to work without wages. In extreme emergencies certain enterprises may find it difficult to avoid operating temporarily without a fair return. But no extreme emergency exists in American industry and business today.

The surest way to court depression would be to slash prices below reasonable levels. This is the one thing industry and business should vigilantly guard against at this time.

IF PROSPERITY BE KILLED, IT WILL BE A CASE OF bussiness Nncetc.uoli BUSINESS HAVING COMMITTED SUICIDE.

BECAUSE stocks which were insanely overboomed in Wall street have inevitably collapsed is no adquate reason why commodity prices, which were not insanely overboomed, should follow a similar course. For the last two years the general commodity price level in this country has been extraordinarily steady, without trace of inflation.

For example, Dun's number, giving average commodity prices, stands today at 191.179, compared with 192.945 a year ago and 191.715 two years ago.

On January 1 last the figure was 192.265. The year's minimum was less than 6 points below today's level and the maximum only 3 points above it. Whereas Dun's records a decline during October of only one-half of one per cent, Bradstreet's November 1 figure compares as follows with earlier months this year:

November 1	$12.4008
October 1	12.7030
September 1	12.6655
August 1	12.6309
July 1	12.4853
June 1	12.4562
May 1	12.6765
April 1	12.8691
March 1	13.0004
February 1	12.9828
January 1	12.9651

IT IS interesting to note how various commodities compare now with a year ago.

December wheat is 10 cents higher than a year ago. December corn, at 90 cents, is up 8 cents. Oats bring 5 cents a bushel better than a year ago. So does rye.

Butter is somewhat cheaper, but this is more than made up by a 10-cent gain in the price of eggs. Pork is distinctly cheaper, and lard is also down. So are hides.

Cotton is selling in New York slightly under 18 cents, against better than 19 cents a year ago.

Iron and steel both show a rise of $2 a ton over the early part of November a year ago. Copper, at 18 cents, compares with 16 cents 12 months ago. Lead and zinc are but slightly changed. Tin is down.

Rubber is down 1½ cents a pound. Gasoline costs distinctly less than it did, but crude oil prices show some slight gain. Raw sugar is modestly higher than a year ago. Coffee, long an artificially-pegged commodity, has tumbled more than 6 cents a pound, bringing serious trouble to those involved in creating the unnatural market conditions.

GOOD prices are essential for the payment of good wages and the enjoyment of gool times. Unwise price-cutting would hurt good wages and good times. Happily, most manufacturers and merchants now realize that they cannot steal any worth-while march on competitors by sensationally slashing prices, because others will promptly adopt defensive measures.

Why, therefore, deliberately and unnecessarily rock the priceboat?

Break Spurs Buying Of Office Machines

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—One large manufacturer of typewriters and book-keeping machines reports that the recent deluge of business in the financial district has resulted in large orders for various types of machines and a rush by leading banking and brokerage houses to provide surplus mechanical office equipment for use in future emergencies.

Trico Products Net For Quarter Higher

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The third quarter earnings of the Trico Products Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., were $564,567, compared with $499,401 earned during the same period last year, bringing the total earnings for the nine months to $1,813,084, compared with $1,485,591 for the nine months ending September 30, 1928.

STEEL EXPORTS SHOW BIG GAINS

Volume for Nine Months Largest Since Post-War Record Reached in 1920

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Not since the post-war year 1920 have exports of iron and steel products from the United States for the first three quarters of any year been in as great volume as this year.

Exports of all types of products in this class totaled 2,327,635 tons, representing an increase of about 9½ per cent over the corresponding 1928 figure. Finished goods shipped abroad showed an even larger gain, proportionately, the 1,642,748 tons shipped abroad being an increase of better than 13 per cent over the 1928 period.

SCRAP IMPORTS UP

Due to the high rate of steel production here this year, exports of basic materials have not been as heavy as last, while imports have shown a gain. During the nine-month period basic exports shrank 10 per cent to reach a volume of 436,377 tons, while imports were up more than 28 per cent to 231,046 tons. Increased takings of scrap from abroad accounted for nearly all the latter gain, pig iron showing little change.

Demand for finished steel here did not prevent some 25,000 additional tons of semi-finished goods being shipped abroad this year, to total 161,111 for the period; imports are relatively unimportant, though a gain of about 3,000 tons was recorded.

FEWER RAILS SHIPPED

Important point is that "rolled and finished steel" is being taken in greater quantities. The classification has the greatest influence on income of domestic steel companies and, while the total tonnage is not large as compared with domestic consumption, still the amount is growing, affording an outlet for surplus capacity. In 1928, exports amounted to better than 5½ per cent of total ingot production, and although the percentage with regard to total ingot production will probably be smaller this year, the export total should be higher.

Feature of the individual finished steel items is the decline in steel rail exports and the gain in steel bars, plates and structural material. Oil pipe and welded pipe also are being taken in larger quantities.

CANADA BEST CUSTOMER

Canada was responsible for a large part of the plate increase, taking 153,763 tons during the period, a gain of more than 44,000 tons over 1928. The Dominion was our largest customer, with Japan in second place, the usual order for some time.

Structural material, tin plate and galvanized sheets also went to Canada in larger amounts, while steel rail shipments there dropped sharply. Canada, together with Central America and the West Indies, took about half of our total exports. Shipments to South America dropped off as compared with last year, while European shipments gained. There was a slight gain in exports to the Far East. Thus in the steel industry our best foreign customers are those closest at hand.

MACHINERY GAINS

From the standpoint of export balance, the showing was favorable, as imports have declined this year. Export trade balance, considering the whole range of products, totaled 1,753,469 tons, against 1,536,486 tons last year.

In regard to machinery exports, the case is much the same; high volume of earlier months was not maintained during the summer, but aggregate result for nine months shows a 26 per cent gain over last year to reach $462,554,000. September exports, while off from July of this year, were 40 per cent in excess of September, 1928. Imports showed a larger proportionate gain, but volume is small compared with the export total. For the nine months, imports of machinery gained $8,558,000 to reach a total of $24,773,500.

FARM IMPLEMENTS

Agricultural machinery was the largest single item, amounting to more than $109,720,000 for the period, a gain of some $18,969,000. Demand for agricultural machinery abroad has been on the increase for some time and forms no inconsiderable part of the business of domestic companies.

Machine tools likewise gained, to $21,336,000 currently from $12,219,000 last year. Oil well, refrigerating, electrical, mining and quarrying machinery were also in greater foreign demand. Considering machinery as a refinement of iron and steel products, it is evident that exports are becoming a more and more valuable source of outlet for the industry as a whole.

Stock Active

CORNELIUS F. KELLY

President Kelly of Anaconda Copper Company, a seldom-photographed individual. Stock in his company figured prominently in the rapid turn-over during the markets' upheaval.

HARDWARE LINE IMPROVES

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Any unfavorable reaction to the recent stock market crash has failed, thus far, to evidence itself in the current orders being received by the nation's hardware wholesalers, Hardware Age says in its weekly market summary. The demand for hardware has increased perceptibly during the past week in all sections of the country. More pronounced improvement is noticeable in the Middle West and South, although increased activity has been reported in every section. Orders for Christmas merchandise are, in the main, responsible for the stimulation.

The demand for staple items is being well sustained at good levels. Sales of winter goods are lagging to some extent, with mild weather responsible. Toys, cutlery, juvenile vehicles, electric appliances, sporting goods, hunting equipment and giftwares are all especially active on pre-holiday orders.

Some hardware jobbers have expressed the opinion that the stock debacle will have a tendency to stabilize trade, asserting that it should encourage building operations and other substantial investments. Others anticipate some curtailment of purchases, especially in articles classified as luxuries.

In the majority of instances prices are notably steady at this time. The changes noted are mainly in the nature of adjustments.

Collections have a normally good average.

AMERICAN LOCO. BROADENS LINES

Company's Acquisition of Diesel Engine Producer Will Open New Markets

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—American Locomotive Company's acquisition of McIntosh & Seymour Corporation gives the company control of the largest exclusive maker of Diesel engines in the country and further strengthens the company's position in the railroad transportation field—a field in which it has pioneered many developments as part of diversification program.

This step will open another source of income for the company. McIntosh & Seymour makes Diesel engines for rail motor cars, motor trucks, busses and tractors. Management of American Locomotive for some time has been making efforts to free the company from depending too much on manufacture of steam locomotives for income. This year, for the first time, revenues from miscellaneous departments of the organization will make an important contribution to earnings. This type of business has been running about twice as good as a year ago.

MARKETABLE SECURITIES

Railway Steel-Spring Company, which was acquired in 1926, has been making an encouraging showing. Orders for steel springs, car wheel tires and special steel shapes, made by the company, usually are fairly stable. In addition, American Locomotive receives steady income from its investments in government bonds and marketable securities, which at the end of 1928 totaled $27,855,000.

Strongest factor in the increase in earnings to be shown this year, however, is the improvement in buying of steam locomotives.

EARNINGS IMPROVE

The company reported that earnings for the six months ended June 30 of $3,075,939, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.24 a share on the 779,00 shares of no-par common. A year ago in the like period net earnings were only $1,502,702, or 20 cents a share. This contrast reflects the fact that 1928 was about the worst year in the history of the industry. Earnings improved in the last half of 1928 as locomotive buying improved, net income for the full year amounting to $4,171,,295, including a tax refund. The balance for common in 1928 was $1.92 a share.

THIRD QUARTER GAINS

Indications are second half earnings this year will make a more favorable showing than the first half. It is too early to make a definite estimate of earnings, but shipments in the third quarter were much larger than in the second quarter, and since income is credited to the period in which shipments are made, American Locomotive's improvement this year was largely concentrated in the third quarter. Furthermore, a good rate of output is assured for the current quarter.

ENGINE BUSINESS BETTER

Locomotive business recently has taken on a greatly improved aspect. Around August new business declined sharply after good activity in the early months of the year. But railroads recently have manifested renewed interest in locomotives. Chesapeake and Ohio, for instance, is about to place an order for 100 or more, the largest single inquiry since the New York Central order in June. American Locomotive reasonably may be expected to get at least a good share of this order.

Several other inquiries are in the market, many of which have not come out definitely as yet. But there is every prospect that substantial business will be booked before the end of the year and that the company will enter 1930 with a heavy schedule.

Stock Exchange Topics

Rails Make Better Showing Than Industrials During Market Decline.

ALL statistics show the rails did comparatively better during the decline than industrials. These stocks went down to some extent due to the liquidation by outsiders in their efforts to protect holdings of industrials. Such selling came at a time when there was little demand for any class of stocks and naturally had its effect on values. Every indication points to good business for the railroads in the coming months, though neither traffic nor earnings for most roads will be up to the high averages of preceding periods. However, a let-down will be seasonal and judging by the contracts placed for rails, locomotives and cars, officials of the leading carriers are quite confident of the outlook for 1930.

Market value of 100 representative stock issues traded in on the New York Stock Exchange was $32,951,358,000 on October 31, according to a compilation by Frazier Jelke & Co. At the beginning of the month the value was $40,530,401,000, so the decrease amounted to $7,759,043,000, or 18.7 per cent during the month. The largest decline occurred in the five amusement issues in these statistics, amounting to 34.7 per cent. There was a loss of 30 per cent in 10 utilities, 29.2 per cent in five electricals, 27.4 per cent in seven motors, and 25.1 per cent in five merchandise stocks. Other groups and the declines shown were: Five chemicals, 17.8 per cent; seven mines, 17.6 per cent; 14 industrials, 17.1 per cent; seven foods, 13.7 per cent; five equipments, 10.2 per cent; five steels, 9.6 per cent; 10 oils, 8.2 per cent, and 15 rails, 7.1 per cent. The last showed the smallest drop of any group.

THE decision of the New York Stock Exchange governors for three-hour sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and for closing entirely Saturday, was commended in the Street. Although most firms have been steadily at work straightening out their accounts, it was discovered the accumulations could not be cleared up. Many employes of various houses collapsed under the terrific strain of the past two weeks and it was necessary to permit these workers to have a forced vacation under the care of physicians. It was the human element's breakdown which prompted the latest decision by the authorities.

Statistically, the oil situation is looking about as good as it has looked at any time since the first of the year. With every big flush production pool in the United States pro rating, and the industry in a position to match production with consumer requirements, things look very much improved for petroleum. All the big oil companies show increased earnings so far this year and good reports are expected to continue, as the gain in consumption goes on unabated. It is because of the improved outlook that so many brokers are recommending the purchase of good oil stocks.

OIL authorities insist that all indications point to early stabilization of prices for their product, with regulation of production and the elimination of some of the destructive competition which has been in existence in the past. It is contended Standard of New Jersey would be a logical, outstanding leader of this group in any demonstration as a result of the present prospects. Earnings this year are estimated at about $5.50 a share, and this fact has been responsible for odd-lot investment buying at times. Such a demand appeared particularly last week after publication of the encouraging statement by John D. Rockefeller.

Another stock which has been most popular in middle western sections earlier in the year, and which suffered from forced liquidation, has been Montgomery Ward. The first selling in the stock a month or more ago, however, came from operators in the East who were bearish on the market situation, and who believed Montgomery was in a vulnerable position. Their attacks came at a time when support was being met because of the many estimates of larger earnings as a result of the retail stores being opened. Just now, little is heard of this important expansion, expected to mean so much to the organization over a period of years.

Improved Net for Pittsburgh Water

Pittsburgh-Suburban Water Service Company, a subsidiary of Federal Water Service Corporation, reports gross revenues of $318,378 for the year ended September 30, 1929, as compared with $306,071 for the preceding 12 months. Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, other than Federal income tax, totaled $132,708, as against $144,405 leaving $185,670 as against $161,666 for the year ended September 30, 1928.

RESERVE AGAIN GETS CREDIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Credit again is given in official Washington to the Federal Reserve banking system for what is regarded by those who have analyzed the situation as the isolation of the recent financial crisis to the stock market itself.

The present situation is likened in these quarters to that of 1907-08, with the difference that then the crisis extended to the business and financial fabric of the country because there was no Federal Reserve System to intervene to keep down interest rates when large quantities of capital were withdrawn from the speculative centers.

As viewed in official circles the ultimate result of the recent phenomenon of the stock market will be the release of capital in large quantities for the bond and mortgage market and the creation of a considerable reserve for general business.

It was explained that many states and municipalities have been holding up their bonds because of an inability to obtain what were regarded as fair prices and that with the general wave of speculation diminished more advantageous markets for these securities would be presented with an extension in public improvements and a consequently increased market for labor.

AN OPPORTUNE TIME TO BUY

Shares of Fifty Premier Corporations with One Investment

FIXED INVESTMENT TRUSTS HAVE STOOD THE TEST OF THE STOCK MARKET'S MOST DRASTIC DECLINE

WE regard the present as an unusually favorable time to acquire stocks of 50 premier corporations. We are recommending to all our clients the purchase of Diversified Trustee Shares, Series C, at what will, in retrospect, almost certainly appear as bargain prices.

We have prepared a list of prices of 61 Investment Trust Common Stocks in comparison with Diversified Trustee Shares, giving the high for 1929, low for 1929 up until October 29 and decline from the year's high. The quotations are of investment trust common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, New York Curb Market, Boston and Chicago Exchanges, and are taken from the New York Times. The date selected, October 29, 1929, was that of the stock markets' greatest activity and greatest decline—16,410,030 shares traded—New York Times industrial stock average down 55.71 points during the day. On that day, Diversified Trustee Shares, Series C, declined only ½ point.

Average decline of investment trusts of the management type from the year's high was 40½ points, or 64%. In contrast, the decline of Diversified Trustee Shares, Series C, from the year's high was only 2¾ points.

A better demonstration of the stability of the fixed investment trust, in our opinion, could not be had.

Control of New System Rests With P. R. R.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE sale of control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad to the Pennroad Corporation removes an intrepid independent who for years played a lone hand against the giant systems in the battle of railroad consolidations. F. E. Taplin with 68 miles of railroad has kept the public guessing as to his ultimate intentions and has kept the leaders of the railroad world in hot water over his widespread plans for a new system reaching from the Middle West to the Atlantic seaboard.

Students of railroad affairs repeatedly expressed doubt that Taplin would ever be able to actually carry out his proposal to amalgamate his Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Western Maryland on the east and the Wheeling and Lake Erie on the west. The fact that the Western Maryland is controlled by the Baltimore and Ohio and the Wheeling and Lake Erie by the Van Sweringens, both of which groups found the Taplin plan in conflict with their own ideas, offered serious obstacles.

Commission Support

IN SPITE of bitter opposition from several quarters, however, Taplin was more successful in getting approval of his actions by the Interstate Commerce Commission than most of the larger systems. The commission allowed him to build his 28-mile extension to Connellsville, which will close the final link in the trackage which he wanted to use in his new system. It ordered the Van Sweringen roads to get rid of their Wheeling and Lake Erie stock.

It was generally expected that Taplin would sell his railroad to one of the embattled systems for actual worth plus nuisance value. The sale to the Pennroad Corporation, which is affiliated with the Pennsylvania Railroad, follows this prediction although the definite financial arrangements are not known as yet.

Wabash Plan

THE fact that Taplin was working with the Pennsylvania was indicated several months ago when the Wabash consolidation plan was filed with the commission. Taplin at that time denied that there was any connection between his operations and those of the Pennsylvania.

The Wabash is controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad. As part of its plan it proposed to take over the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Western Maryland. This would have incorporated the entire Taplin system into the Wabash scheme.

Western Connections

SUCH a step was a logical one for the Wabash to make. The line with its branches connects Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis with Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo. The Taplin system would give the Wabash a complete trunk line from western points to Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

For the consummation of this plan, however, the Pennsylvania-Wabash group still has many of the same difficulties, which were faced by Taplin, to overcome. It has the advantage of greater resources but it still must wrest the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland from the grasp of the Van Sweringen-Baltimore and Ohio group.

Approval Necessary

THE ultimate fate of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia will rest in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission in spite of the financial transactions which have taken place. Within a short time it is expected that the commission will make public its own general consolidation plan.

Until this plan is drawn up and fought over in lengthy hearings it will be impossible to know whether the Pennsylvania will ultimately include the road into its own system or whether some other arrangement will be favored.

On Broadway

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.

Just for the Records

THE New York Times of November 3 printed an article on slang which appeared word for word in a newspaper months before. It was compiled by a local Park Rowgue, who certainly has a squawk, not only with the Times, but with the following, who thefted it in turn. Its history follows: In the N. Y. Sunday World of May 5 first, "Transition," the intellectual magazine of Paris, lifted it, sans credit. A few months later the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian burgled it without saying where it got it, and then the Times took it and called it: "American Slang as Paris Sees It." The Times adds that it has a "rather British tinge," heheheh.

In fewer words it is not American slang "as Paris see it" at all, but slang as a New York newspaperman named Theodore D. Irwin sees it, and Mr. Irwin misinterprets much of the current Broadwayese.

There Ought to Be a Law!

AS IF YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Izzy Elinson has just discovered that when two actors get into a fierce quarrel it's an I for an I.

NONSENSE

George S. Kaufman, this bureau's pet jester and playwright, and Harry Rosenthal, of the "June Moon" troupe, were discussing their favorite types of plays.

"Well," said Rosenthal, "I prefer a play within a play."

"And I," chirped Kaufman, "prefer a play within a theater."

INCIDENTALLY

THE same Kaufman has a pash for puns, good and bad. Before the asbestos lifted on his comedy hit recently he saw Norman Foster, one of the cast, looking for something on the curtain. "What are you looking for?" asked Kaufman.

"For the peep-hole," said Foster. "I want to see the audience."

"Did you know," said George, "that Abraham Lincoln was the first to use the peep-hole in his Gettysburg Address?"

"How come?"

"Of the peep-hole, for the peep-hole and by the——"

They haven't talked since.

SLEEP

Last year I thought that I was sad.
Little I knew of sorrow!
Always there was the burning hope
That he would come tomorrow.

Wide-eyed then, I would welcome dawn;
Dreaming wild dreams, I would weep.
Now he is gone forever—so
Bereft of dreams, I sleep.
—Estelle Hapedorn.

DRAMA

AMONG other sad scenes from life is the one that unfolded during the recent Wall street massacre. It concerns the husband who breathlessly said to his wife: "Darling, I hate to ask you to do it, but please give me your savings account and your jewelry. It might save us, I need cash at once."

"Please don't ask me to do that, dear," she begged, "we must have something, after all." He dashed out of the house and tried to promote some coin from friends, but returned in an hour dejected.

"I am desperate," he cried. "I've never asked you to help me before and now you, too, turn me down. If that's how much I mean to you and you won't help me, I swear I will leave you and never return!" The woman wept furiously, but said she couldn't help him. He left.

The wife couldn't help because, her lover also dabbled in the market and only the day before, in an effort to recoup severe losses (and the coin withdrawn from the bank) she had pawned her stones for the "heart."

SHOP-TALK

GROUCHO MARX and Ring Lardner were following the current events in the newspaper while waiting for their dinner the other evening.

"It says here," observed Lardner, "that another chump is planning to shoot himself in a rocket to Mars. Ridiculous!"

"Oh, I don't know" said Groucho, "they laughed at Edison."

"But not at a matinee," was the retort.

GOLLY!

So that Frank J. Wilstach will not include them in his grand tome of best similes of the year, the following senile ones are publicly throttled: Henry L. Mencken: Obscure as a novel by Henry James . . . Achmed Abdullah: Knew him like a book. . . . Richard Halliburton: Purred like a kitten. . . . Steward Beach: Cold as steel. . . . William Lyon Phelps, Hot as hell. . . . Joseph Hergesheimer: Lie like hell. . . . W. Somerset Maugham: Unsubstantial as a poet's fancy. . . . Harriet Monroe: Tall as a tower. . . . William J. Locke: Hard as nails. . . . George Jean Nathan: Growls like a bear, and Henry Albert Phillips: Green as grass.

THE RETORT TERRIBLE

IT was in one of the George White's "Scandals" undressing rooms. A newcomer to Broadway who is that way about herself was rouging her lower lip with a pinky, when she startled the other gels with: "After looking myself over, ladies, I've come to the conclusion that I'm the most beautiful girl in the show."

"Yeah?" flipped a flip-cracker. "Who tipped you off?"

Commerce Chamber Has Election Frolic

Several hundred members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce attended an election night frolic given in the auditorium of the Chamber in connection with dinner last evening. The entertainment was under the auspices of the entertainment committee and was managed by a sub-committee of which W. Denny Shaler was chairman.

Charles M. Newcomb delivered a lecture on "The Psychology of Laughter," after which the committee put on a 20-minute gridiron election farce. The returns of the election were heard over KDKA in the lounge of the Chamber during the rest of the evening.

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

DOES A COLLEGE EDUCATION PAY?

Editor's Note.—The following gem comes from the inspired pen of a Junior College student in Long Beach and is passed on to us by a member of the faculty. It goes without saying that the oncoming generation threatens to overthrow the supremacy of Filipino poets whose work has already been recognized by this department.

ROSE GOLD

Truly! I have walked the rainbow,
It has yielded as you know,
It's most brilliant rose-like glow.

Truly! I have fonnd my pot of gold.
She is young, but very cold;
She is inaudacious and not bold;
For she is shy and much untold.

Truly! She, my roselike gold,
Precious! Beyond multiple untold;
Attractive! Beyond mere yellow gold;
Is mine to have; mine to hold!

Hark! Have I gone so far as to be told
Not to boast, my pen to hold?
Lo! No, my lassie is na' so cold,
But yet she is shy and very unbold.

Listen! "Read my mind," I am told
But Myrtle, you, my rose-like gold,
I know not of words untold!
But I love you beyond a 1000 fold,
You, so sweet, my reverent gold.

Aye! Must I revere thy mystic fold?
Must I abide to be untold! ? ? ? ?
Dear One, unmask thy fearful fold!
Reveal a love, a love untold!
Because for you my love is bold,
A love for you a 1000

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Predicted the OCT. BREAK in the STOCK MARKET A YEAR IN ADVANCE

His forecasts for 1929, which were issued the year previous, gave the following warning for October — "Business conditions over the World in general will tend to slow up greatly from the 7th to the end of the year, with Jupiter, the planet of Finance, assuming a retrograde motion in the Zodiac during this period. Stocks and Bonds are apt to take considerable of a slump at this time and for some months to come; you should not become panic stricken and sell at a loss, but govern yourself accordingly. Securities will tend to rise rapidly in value in the Spring of 1930, when Jupiter becomes direct in motion in the Zodiac again, in March."

Kline, Vote Machine Win; Dunn's Vote Is Flattering

As was predicted by numerous political prophets, Mayor Charles H. Kline has been re-elected by a heavy majority over his Democratic-Good Government rival, Thomas A. Dunn.

At the same time the voting machine was given much stronger approval than was expected, according to the tendency indicated in early returns. First figures were exceptionally heavy in favor of adoption of the device. They will not be maintained, of course, in the rural districts, but the tendency appears to be such as to assure success for the entire county.

Each candidate for mayor has good reason for self-congratulation. Mr. Dunn has received a most flattering vote, considering that he was making a fight against a strongly entrenched Republican machine in a community that is overwhelmingly Republican in party affiliation. Mr. Dunn is to be felicitated on having so many loyal friends.

Mayor Kline also has reason to be thankful. The vote by which he is returned to office is impressive. Our hope is that it convinces him his duty is to the people as a whole and not to the political machine.

Unless Mayor Kline is a most deluded person, he cannot look upon his first administration as a success. It has been marked by scandals in the matter of vice and crime revelations and in civil service violations. The record of the administration is not one for any upright man to be proud of—and we believe Mayor Kline is an upright man.

We shall hope that he, having received what he well can construe as a vote of confidence, will make an avowal not to betray that confidence and to conduct the affairs of the city in such a manner that no citizen need feel any shame.

Senate Rebuke of Bingham Merits Public Approval

By a vote of 54 to 22, the United States Senate has censured one of its own members for the first time in 27 years.

The facts in the case, which has ended in the reprimand of Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, were first brought to light by the Hearst newspapers. They were corroborated not only by the special committee investigating the lobby evil but by Senator Bingham's own admission.

These facts in substance were that while the finance committee was considering the tariff bill, Senator Bingham placed upon the Senate payroll as his clerk and introduced into the secret sessions of the committee a highly-paid representative of an organization of manufacturers seeking tariff favors.

For so doing, the Senate has now condemned Senator Bingham upon three grounds: (1) Because what he did was contrary to good morals; (2) because it was contrary to Senatorial ethics; and (3) because it was damaging to the honor and reputation of the Senate.

Every opportunity was afforded Senator Bingham to make such amends to the Senate as an apology would provide. But this the Senator declined to offer because he does not yet appear to realize how seriously his "mistake" has compromised the honor and dignity of the Senate and the integrity of its legislation. This is not the Senate's fault. It is the Connecticut senator's misfortune.

Failure of the Senate to condemn Senator Bingham would have been a condemnation of the Senate itself.

Silence by the Senate in this case would have given consent not only to what Senator Bingham did but to senators who come after him to do likewise.

Censuring one of its own members was not a pleasant duty for the Senate to perform. But it was a duty none the less imperative, and under the leadership of Senator Norris, the Senate has performed an unpleasant duty with a fidelity to its solemn obligations that will surely command the approval of public sentiment.

Adoption of the Norris resolution serves notice for the future that the United States Senate will not lower its high standards even to "save the face" of one of its own members.

Haberdasher's Joke

Shirt for Radio Reception.

All along we felt something like this might happen—and now it has happened. Haberdashers are exhibiting shirts "to be worn for radio reception." And these shirts, by the way, are blue—bluer than you ever suspected blue could be. And the neckties to go with them are red—an absurd red. There is no use in gasping, muttering or smashing windows in protest. The nice thing about it all is the revelation that the haberdashers have—perhaps—a sly sense of humor. They really do not care what people wear "for radio reception," and would just as soon sell you earmuffs. But the haberdasher suddenly becomes a roguish fellow, with his tongue in his cheek. Imagine him enjoying little gales of laughter as he contemplates the spectacle of thousands of gullible people frantically pulling on their gaudy shirts and adjusting their dazzling neckties in preparation for a preposterous half hour of Pooh-Pooh-Pah-Do music.

If You Like Strong Men

The Professional Fight Business.

Joseph Moncure March has written a book-length story in verse, called "The Set-Up," which paints a terrific realistic picture of professional fighters and managers. It is a sordid tale, superbly told. If you lead a quiet life, and think quiet thoughts, do not read it. But if you want a glimpse behind the scenes of the racket which holds such a grip on the American public, and if you are curious about the grisly conduct of the so-called human race you might let Mr. March tell you this story. But remember the warning—it is not a tale for timid souls.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

A Small Investor

THE official slogan in Wall street is the old Mongolian lullaby, "Sell High and Buy Low, Baby."

"Bugs" Baer

A month ago we were as happy as a bookworm in a library. We had one share of laughing stock and we could hear the dividends sizzling and sputtering in the pan.

We got in on the ground floor right before the elevator busted.

Our broker was an affable maniac who knew the racket backward. The last time we were seen alive was when a traffic cop saw us headed toward the river. And we didn't stop on the way to take swimming lessons.

The next share of stock we buy will be waterproofed so that we can cry on it and allow for evaporation in transit.

We have tried to puzzle out Wall street. The only way we can figure it out is a lot of guys yelling at their fingers.

One broker holds up two fingers and howls like a wolf on an 18-winter diet.

Another broker sticks up three digits and wins by a nail.

Then they join hands and do a dance of all nations around a pump that has been dry for years.

They must know what they're doing. But we would just as soon take advice from a man wearing a paper hat.

Wall street has broken the hop, step and slump record. It was mostly hop.

The nation will continue to be prosperous until we get enough money to buy another share of gilt-edged linoleum. Then our broker will hear about it and words of honey will drip from his hive.

We will buy another share. Which will bring us into direct competition with J. P. Morgan who will polish up his slumping tools and start chiseling.

Trying to understand Wall Street is like trying to learn a new language in a life-boat.

We know the country is going to be prosperous again and that everybody will have money and be happy. But when that happens our financial rating will be that of a spy.

PROSPERITY CHECKS BOOKS

By Herbert Kaufman

LET'S take inventory.

America is shy several billion dollars' worth of bubble stuffing—but not a SINGLE greenback is missing from the till.

The emerald, chinchilla wrap and imported-car trades are in for a dull period. Night clubs begin to note a dearth of "suckers," and "now is the winter" of the ticket scalper's discontent.

Numerous gentlemen, whose ambitions were fondling the prospect of additional Old Masters and a Bayeux tapestry or so, have suddenly decided to postpone their further adventures in high art.

Royal suites on palatial liners no longer require advance booking. And high-pressure insurance salesmen find million dollar policy prospects scarcer than Gutenberg Bibles. Shipyards have concluded that the moment is inopportune to launch a campaign for "bigger and better yachts." And the erectors of uncompleted HAUT TON hotels and snifty apartment houses strongly suspect that they picked a lemon year for their investments.

INTERIOR decorators won't be surprised if Mrs. Psmith and the Van Joneses regret to cancel expensive and extensive refurbishments, and the saturation point in peachblow beakers and Elizabethan panelling seems to be with us.

But business, generally, is moving as usual. There's no noticeable sag in employment figures; wages are sure of their gains, and the absorption of customary comforts and common necessities hasn't abated a jot.

Agriculture is immeasurably better off than a year ago and Federally protected against temporary inequalities of supply and demand.

THE country's appetite is as voracious as ever. Mail order profits, railroad earnings and corporation surpluses are still full of melon seeds—State and Federal budgets proceeding with highway and construction programs, and export shipments haven't even heard that the bull movement is checked.

The machinery that makes all the money which foolhardy speculation diverts from useful occupation, to engage in sterile tasks and increase the operating costs of industry and retailing, is still intact and enriching, with usual promptness, shoemakers who STICK to their LASTS.

The guerilla billions which so long confounded Federal Reserve attempts to provide merchant, manufacturer and contractor with cheap working funds, are largely back under bank control and engaged once more in the promotion of prosperity.

ENTERPRISES may hereafter borrow requirements without depositing a right eye and the family burial plot for security.

It took a powerful emetic to purge our economic system, but the remedy will eventually JUSTIFY its appalling cost.

The victims of the ticker are individuals, not INSTITUTIONS. Nothing has happened to decrease confidence in the stability of the United States or its ability to carry on at FULL pitch.

Delusions of grandeur have had an awful wallop, but no important balance sheet shows a BLACK eye.

Take up your mental picks and shovels and go dig away at the job which yielded the savings you so recklessly stewarded.

There's plenty of money left where the LAST lot came from—for everybody but a QUITTER.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

QUEER problems popping up with these amazing times. For example, there's this business of girls wanting MOTHERHOOD WITHOUT MATRIMONY—

Heaven knows why any sensible girl should object to an obliging male around the house, but they tell me they do. "And seein' as we can pay our own way, why shouldn't we live as we please?" say they.

No, it isn't just smarty talk. Some of them actually do it. Kate Pullman, for instance, who told proudly of her new, deliberately, illegitimate baby in the October number of COSMOPOLITAN. Kate's tickled pink with her experiment, but will she be tickled 20 years from now? Rose Wilding thinks NOT.

Seventeen years ago Rose Wilding also decided to live as she pleased. She was going to be a Free Soul and have Her Very Own Baby without the handicap of a husband. Which she did. And now she's telling the result in the November issue of COSMOPOLITAN. And if you're bent on being a Free Soul and don't want your style cramped, DON'T READ THAT ARTICLE! For Miss Wilding has come to the conclusion that Freedom isn't all it's cracked up to be. Maybe it's all right for mama. . . BUT IT'S THE KID WHO MUST PAY THE PRICE! And the grim truth of that comes home to Rose Wilding, her youthful defiance of conventions doesn't seem quite so glorious.

"After 17 years of motherhood," she says, "I have only now realized a cruel but profound truth. The child you bear, from the moment of its first breath, is no sense a part of you but a complete and separate entity. HE MAY GROW UP NOT ONLY TO DISAGREE WITH YOU BUT EVENTUALLY TO JUDGE, EVEN CONDEMN, YOU BECAUSE WHAT YOU THOUGHT RIGHT HE MAY REGARD AS WRONG . . . THE CONCLUSION HAS FORCED ITSELF UPON ME THAT WE CANNOT, WE DARE NOT, THINK FOR OUR CHILDREN. WE MAY DEFY TRADITIONS FOR OURSELVES BUT WE CANNOT BE SURE OUR CHILDREN WILL INDORSE THE CHALLENGE."

Rose Wilding was a radical; she never doubted that her boy would belong to the radical world. But from the time he could toddle, her boy had no use for her radical world. He wanted a Regular World, like other little boys, with Regular Homes and Regular Papas and Mamas. And, from the first, the world Rose Wilding had despised made it plain that it had no niche for her son. He was Nobody's Baby.

She had thought that wouldn't matter. She had sneered at the cowardice, hypocrisy and deceit of the conventional world. But with her baby's first, stammering question, "Were is papa?" she found herself invoking the same hypocrisy and deceit—to save him hurt! Never had she been able to live with that freedom and honesty which she desired, for THAT WHICH MEANT FREEDOM AND HONESTY TO HER DID NOT MEAN FREEDOM AND HONESTY TO HER SON—INSTEAD, IT MEANT BONDAGE AND SHAME.

Now, though the boy is 17, she has still not found the courage to tell him the truth about his birth. It must be done soon, for he is about to enter the university, but she faces the ordeal in anguish. What will he say? How will he judge her, this boy who is part of her flesh but whose spirit is alien?

WHAT WILL HE SAY WHEN HE KNOWS WHAT SHE DID TO HIS LIFE?

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

KIDS do a lot of funny figuring in their heads. Sammy, a 6-year-old, was being mean, and his mother says, "Say, Sammy, don't you know you'll never get to heaven if you behave that-a-way?"

"Sure," he says, "I know it. But I decided I don't want to go there."

"Goodness gracious, Sammy, what makes you say that?"

"Well, you say that baby brother come from heaven, didn't you?"

"Sure."

"Well, he's been there and he don't think it's so hot, or he'd never trade it off for a joint like our place!"

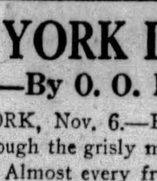
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE number of the capillaries is enormous; in a cross-section of muscle, each square millimetre (that is about double the cross area of an ordinary pin) contains well over a thousand, and all the capillary vessels in a man's muscles put end to end to form a continuous tube would girdle the earth two and a half times!

When filtering through this network of fine tubes, each about a thousandth of a millimeter in diameter, the amount of exposed surface of the blood is enormous; a single cubic centimeter of blood will have about ten thousand square centimeters of surface at which chemical interchanges can take place. So we come to what we have already seen in the frog's foot.



H. G. Wells

Deoxygenated blood flows from the capillaries into the veins slowly and at low pressure.

The internal pressure in the veins being much lower than that in the arteries and there being no violent pulse to resist, the walls of the veins, although they include muscular and elastic elements, are not nearly as thick nor as strong as those of the arteries. The cross-section of any vein is about double that of the corresponding artery, and inside it the speed of the blood is only about half as great.

The time taken by any particle of blood to round the whole double cycle in a man, is slightly less than a minute on the average.

The capillary vessels are, roughly speaking, cylinders; the cells, according to the nature of the particular tissue, may be cylindrical, cubical, spindle-shaped, or may assume various other forms. In between the cells and the capillaries there are minute irregular spaces, and these spaces are filled by a clear plasma-like fluid—the lymph. Lymph, in the intercellular spaces, is simply a fluid through which substances diffuse. There is always a very slow, very steady seeping of blood-plasma from the capillaries into the surrounding lymph-spaces. This is how lymph originates and how the supply of lymph is sustained.

For the return of the lymph to the blood there is a system of vessels, very thin-walled and delicate, called lymphatics. They unite with each other to form larger vessels and guide their filtered blood-plasma slowly upward towards the heart.

The lymphatic vessels unite and separate again to form net-works, and their course is interrupted by passages through curious spongy labyrinthine filters, the "lymph-glands," but ultimately is led to a great main lymphatic in the chest, the thoracic duct, and this trunk opens into that main heart-ward channel, the posterior vena cava.

Thus the lymph is returned again to the bloom-stream from which it originated.

5. BREATHING.

WE HAVE already made it plain how and why man must breathe. We all know that the lungs are two hollow organs, lying to the sides of and behind the heart and that, together with that organ, they fill the chest. Lights is the old word for lungs; in the bills of mortality of the eighteenth century, pulmonary consumption figures as "rising of the lights." They communicate through the windpipe and the mouth or the nose, with the outer air.

The windpipe (trachea) is a strong tube, about two-thirds of an inch across, which opens into the mouth at the back of the throat. The upper part, just below the epiglottis, is modified to form the larynx, Adam's apple, or voice-box. It is a wind instrument inserted at this point to take advantage of the air-rush.

The trachea runs down the front of the neck into the chest, where it divides into two branches (bronchi)—one to each lung. The bronchi, when they reach the lungs, divide again and their branches divide; ultimately, by continual division, they lead into minute airchannels less than a hundredth of an inch across, which permeate the substance of the lungs.

Out of these fine channels (the bronchioles) there open little clusters of hemispherical bays, the alveoli, and it is from these alveoli that air is taken up by the blood.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Few deceased pets are stuffed any more, although the grisly mid-Victorian custom is not entirely extinct. Almost every front parlor 20 years ago had a mounted pug dog with sad bulbous glass eyes as a gesture in sentimentality.

In those days about 500 pug dogs a year were turned over to metropolitan taxidermists, but a snooper discovers there is no record of one being stuffed since 1908. But taxidermy still languishes. Some half-hundred are left, most of them centering about Sixth avenue and in sections of Brooklyn.

The modern taxidermist is concerned almost exclusively with the trophies of hunters and fishermen. These are the shellacked and horned atrocities hanging over capacious fireplaces or bristling on the walls of clubs. Here and there one still sees heads of mountain sheep, buffalo and moose.

But the taxidermist's biggest trade comes from fishermen. This requires not only a knowledge of taxidermy but painting. When mounted, a fish loses pristine coloring and it requires a delicate skill in tinting to give it a semblance of natural hues.

There were in the flourishing years of taxidermy customers with the queer urge for such stuffed pets as monkeys, white mice, weasels, prairie dogs and such, along with the run of parrots, canaries and domesticated cats.

The biggest blow to taxidermy came from the many societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals and birds and for their preservation. Hunters who used to shoot such rare birds as robins, blue birds, etc., just to have them stuffed for the parlor mantle faced legal entanglements.

Few taxidermists grew rich. The rewards for the tedious processes involved were small. Yet it proved such a fascinating calling that none ever deserted it. The oldest taxidermy establishment is that of Thomas Rowland, now conducted by his son, and in existence fifty years.

One of America's outstanding travel experts has never been abroad. In private, he is Ward G. Foster, but to the traveling public he has been sloganized into fame by: "Ask Mr. Foster!" There are 72 branches of his information bureau scattered all over the world. In the beginning Mr. Foster was the prosaic keeper of a small book shop in St. Augustine, Fla. For amusement he amassed information for tourists who dropped in during early Florida days. It became a town jest that when any hotel, railroad or steamship clerks were stumped, they would say: "Ask Mr. Foster!" Out of this hobby, the young man—he is now 62—capitalized an idea that made him a tremendous fortune.

As one who has utterly failed to choke off a clipping bureau from sending cuttings—at 7 cents per cut—about the activities of McIntyre and Heath, it is perfectly dandy to record that John Held, the artist, recently received one bearing the headline: "Stage Door John Held by The Police."

About a dozen clipping bureaus prosper here. While they have many individual clients to whom they serve clippings at from $5 to $7.50 a hundred, the bulk of business comes from large organizations keeping tab on editorial sentiment. Bureau readers are mostly girls, skilled in spotting names of people and organizations. They are not concerned with text. They fine-comb about 2,000 newspapers and 25 magazines daily.

An old racket to dodge duties on Paris frocks is to rip them apart and use various pieces for packing. But custom inspectors are fed up with the tricky evasion. Nine young ladies last week had to pay heavy fines.

The newest swanky salad: Thinly sliced avocadoes on a lettuce leaf base with a square of orange jelly drenched with orange dressing.

An over-solicitous waiter kept asking a nearby diner tonight if his dinner was all right. Finally the diner, with a curling irony, exploded: "What's supposed to be the matter with it?"

And there's something about that "curling irony" that is something!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU try to draw the best there is from those you meet?

This is an interesting and profitable social accomplishment.

Perhaps you are averse to subjects based upon thought for discussion.

If so, you will get very little from your friends and acquaintances.

In order to get something you must give or be an intelligent listener. If you have nothing other than sanctioning what another says or if you cannot ask questions that prove you do know something, you certainly do not encourage anyone to give you information of importance.

Aren't you chagrined when you think how little you know, outside of a superficial knowledge which has to do with your bread winning? Experience may have taught you that you know but very little of the line of work that you follow.

But when you get beyond that, you realize that you are ignorant of many important essentials to appear educated.

There is plenty of time in life to learn by profitable reading and study.

If people know how dumb you are, you would be ashamed, and perhaps they might be surprised, so why not use this method of drawing from your associates and do the necessary studying to make you more intelligent?

It will be worth all the time you put in on it.
